

WARREN G. HARDING. CALVIN COOLIDGE.

WARREN G. HARDING AND CALVIN COOLIDGE ELECTED BY A GREAT MAJORITY

Record-breaking Pluralities in Many States Show That the Republicans Have Received the Greatest Popular Vote

G. O. P. RETAINS CONTROL OF BOTH SENATE AND HOUSE BY INCREASED MAJORITIES, WINNING NEARLY ALL OF THE STATES IN WHICH REAL CONTESTS WERE MADE.

New York.—In the largest vote ever polled in a Presidential contest in this country, the Republican party achieved an unprecedented victory.

Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge, the Republican nominees for President and Vice-President were elected by the largest popular plurality recorded. They carried the Republican States east of the Rocky Mountains and California west of the Mississippi.

Harding carried the vote from the following States: Maine, Connecticut, Colorado, Idaho, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Because of the participation of women voters, which increased the electorate to probably 28,000,000, the pluralities given all candidates were without precedent in the political annals of America.

THE NEW SENATE

As it will be constituted after March 4, 1921, according to the returns.

- Alabama— (b) O. W. Underwood (D.), (d) Thomas Hefflin (D.). Arizona— (a) H. F. Ashurst (D.), (b) Marcus Smith (D.). Arkansas— (a) J. H. Robinson (D.), (c) T. H. Caraway (D.). California— (a) H. W. Johnson (R.), (c) S. Shortridge (R.). Colorado— (a) L. C. Phipps (R.), (c) S. D. Nicholson (R.). Connecticut— (a) G. P. McLean (R.), (b) F. B. Brandegee (R.). Delaware— (a) J. O. Wolcott (D.), (a) L. H. Hall (R.). Florida— (a) P. Trammell (D.), (b) D. U. Fletcher (D.). Georgia— (a) W. J. Harris (D.), (c) Tom Watson (D.). Idaho— (a) W. E. Borah (R.), (c) F. R. Gooding (R.). Illinois— (a) M. McCormick (R.), (c) W. B. McKinley (R.). Indiana— (a) H. S. New (R.), (b) J. E. Watson (R.). Iowa— (a) W. S. Kenyon (R.), (b) A. B. Cummins (R.). Kansas— (b) Charles Curtis (R.), (a) A. Capper (R.). Kentucky— (a) A. O. Stanley (D.), (b) J. C. W. Beckman (D.).

The Republican landslide in the Empire State did not, however, extend to the gubernatorial contest the latest figures available showing that Miller received pluralities totaling 370,575 in districts north of the Bronx, while Smith, his Democratic opponent, carried the city by an indicated plurality of 314,000.

The same story was told in returns from every other State north of the Potomac river. Pennsylvania gave the Harding ticket more than 600,000. California provided an unprecedented majority. Massachusetts contributed 400,000; Nebraska from 75,000 to 100,000; Indiana by 75,000; Michigan by 150,000; Illinois by 500,000, of which Chicago contributed 350,000.

The States from which returns were too meagre to justify actually placing them in either the Harding or Cox columns were: Arizona, 3; Minnesota, 12; Missouri, 18; Montana, 4; Nevada, 3; New Mexico, 3; Oklahoma, Tennessee and Utah, 4.

The States which were certain for Cox were Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia, a total of 127 votes in the Electoral College.

Returns leave little room to doubt that the Republicans elected the majority of their Senate candidates in all of the contested States, the individual plurality for Wadsworth exceeding 400,000 in New York. Moses in New Hampshire, Brandegee in Connecticut, Willis in Ohio, Watson in Indiana, Lenroot in Wisconsin, Cummins in Iowa, Shortridge in California and Ladd in North Dakota won easily.

The Democrats apparently carried Kentucky for both their Presidential and Senatorial candidates. With one-tenth of the vote of Missouri abolished, Harding had a lead over Cox of 1,500.

The New York State Legislature will be overwhelmingly Republican. In addition to carrying the city of New York, Harding carried 22 up-State New York cities.

The vote for the Socialist candidates fell below the estimated number.

THE BOROUGH VOTE.

Women Show Interest by Polling 117 Votes in Centre Hall.

The largest vote in the history of Centre Hall borough was polled at Tuesday's election. The men's vote was 138 and that of the women 117, for a total of 255. Over fifty per cent of the women voted, and their ages ranged from 21 to 92. Mrs. Mary Dinges being the oldest voter. There was very little to indicate that the women were performing an entirely new duty at the polls. There was very little assistance asked for, and practically no ballots were thrown out for marking improperly.

The borough vote was as follows:

REPORT OF STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Given by Rev. M. C. Drumm, at the District Convention at Tusseyville.

The district Sunday-school convention, held at Tusseyville, Friday afternoon and evening, proved an interesting and instructive convention. The various ministers and laymen delivered excellent addresses on Sunday-school work. The evening session was taken up principally by Rev. M. C. Drumm, who gave a decidedly profitable report on the State Sunday-school Convention at Harrisburg.

A brief summary of his report is as follows: Convention Motto, "For He must reign." Convention theme, "The supremacy of Jesus."

The convention hall held over 1800 people. The walls were decorated with flags and mottoes. Some of them were: "Training the next generation is the biggest work of this generation." "We must crown Him Lord of all or we crown Him not at all." "A religious education should be the heritage of every child." "The man who is educated in mind, but not in morals, is a menace to society." "Our civilization rests on the Bible." "Have you ever stopped to consider the high cost of low living?"

The music was conducted by the Ackley Bros. and Prof. Weist. Spiritual Songs in which all joined under the able direction of these talented musicians surely were an inspiration to the convention.

A chart of facts shows the population of Pa. 8,720,159 and 43 per cent of these only are in S. S. and churches. 4,970,491 are still as sheep without a Shepherd.

Rev. Dr. J. K. McCurkin, of Pittsburgh, preached the opening sermon on the subject, "The Supremacy of Christ in the world." He showed how Jesus Christ was the Covenant God of the Old Testament, the connecting link of old and new Testament.

The address of welcome was made by Hon. Geo. A. Hoverter, mayor of Harrisburg. His message to the delegates was to clean up the vice and booze and gambling joints of our cities. The response was given by the Pres. Mr. Percy Creig, of New Castle.

Rev. Dr. Chas. R. Erdman, of the Theological Dept. of Princeton, spoke on "The Message of the King." He spoke in a very able way of Matthew's Gospel and its mission. He spoke of the ignorance of our young men and women in the knowledge of the Bible. He said we need regeneration to-day more than education and legislation. The twelve disciples were then spoken of as messengers of the King.

"Parenthood and religion" was discussed by Miss Hazel Lewis, of St. Louis, Mo. "As public opinion grows, the state steps in." Religion is a motive for everything in the home and there are some homes without religious faith.

T. T. classes, O. A. B. C., teachers' meetings, parent meetings and report cards are ways in which to bring in the children and the parents into the Sunday-school, parents and teachers should go hand in hand to save the child.

"The religious faith of the boy" was discussed by Prof. Foster, of New York City. He spoke of the teen age boy. He makes a declaration of recognition of allegiance to Christ at this age. He should be urged to decide for Christ.

A message was sent to Tokio, where the World's S. S. Association was held at the time. The message was very appropriate—Psalms 86: 8-10.

"The essential of religion in education." Prof. Honline, of Chicago. He said, Society's constructive task is to educate rightly the present generation. Education is a unitary process; religion is an asset; therefore education neglecting religious education is not complete. The mind is the ruler of the body. The body is the servant of the mind. Nature makes us religious; nurture makes us denominational. In our christian religion we consider three—God, ourself and neighbor. Religion—the whole man in relation to God. Man is incurably religious. Religion and science go hand in hand; one goes up one side of one side of the mountain and the other goes up the other side and at the top they meet.

Every child is a potential saint or sinner. Education and free will determine which he is to become. Education takes a child from where he is to where he is to be.

Teaching is to know, to do, and to be, and the greatest of these is to be. We need organization, but we need grading too. Education must do three things: It must provide him with a fund of practical things. It must give him right attitude toward God, self, and society. It must modify his conduct and his mind.

We need better equipment in our S. S.—maps, black boards and charts. Spend more money on the child; he is worth it. $84.85 a year for H. S. boys and girls; $31.65 on 8th grade boys and girls.

Boy—Cigarette—Fire.

O. F. Funk, of Centre Hall, who drives a truck on a road construction job in Phillipsburg, had an experience one day last week that threw a genuine scare into him. He had occasion to drive his truck into a garage owing to some carburetor trouble, and in going over the line from the gas tank to the engine, possibly a pint or more of gasoline ran onto the floor. Mr. Funk and the mechanic were standing close by the truck when a boy of fourteen walked in and drawing a cigarette from his pocket, struck a match and having lit the "coffin nail" tossed the still burning match to the floor. Of course, the gas fumes were all about and before the match struck the floor a flame shot upward from under the truck, enveloping the front part of the machine and extending to near the ceiling. Fortunately, a patent fire extinguisher was close at hand, and the garageman's presence of mind in quickly getting it in working order, was all that saved the destruction of valuable property. Upwards of thirty cars were stored on the second floor of the garage at the time.

Many to Attend Penn'a Day At State College.

Just as privately endowed colleges and universities observe their "Founders' Day" each year with fitting services, so does the Pennsylvania State College celebrate its annual "Pennsylvania Day" which this year falls on next Saturday, November 6th. Arrangements have been completed for accommodating the largest crowd that ever attended this distinctly Penn State function. At least 5,000 visitors from all parts of the state will be here and upwards of 10,000 people are expected to witness the Penn State-Nebraska football game in the afternoon.

The day's program will start with a review of the student cadet regiment early in the morning followed by an assembly of students and visitors in the Schweb auditorium where Judge Joseph Buffington, of Pittsburgh, will make the principal address. Adjutant General Frank D. Beary will review the cadet regiment. The student glee club will conclude the day's program with a concert in the evening.

S. S. Rally.

The U. Ev. Sunday-School of this place held its first annual rally last Sunday. There was a good attendance. Prof. N. L. Bartges gave a very good object lesson which was appreciated by all. The pastor gave an address and several good recitations were rendered. The junior choir sang very well. Five new members were added to the school. The offering was $114.44 which amount will be used to help pay for the new furnace soon to be placed in the church.

Since the rally was announced, four weeks ago, Helen Tressler and Florence Confer cleared $31 making and selling home-made candy, which amount they turned in with the offering for their class. Others of the school were busy also and came with neat little sums for their class offering. The school decided to hold a rally in October of each year.

Dead at 92 Years.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Erb, of Phillipsburg, died on Thursday morning at the ripe age of ninety-two years and nine months.

Select oysters for sale at Shoop's restaurant.

Just received—50 squares iron roofing. Prices right. Bradford & Co., Centre Hall.

Dr. Finnegan, State Supt. of Public Instruction, spoke of his plans and program for the schools of Pa. 1, raise teachers' salaries, 2, provide playgrounds, 3, have health instruction, 4, stricter attendance laws. He said 450,000 people in Pa. cannot read or write. Gov. W. C. Sprunt then was greeted, welcomed and applauded by the vast throng. He spoke of the achievement of his administration thus far: Boose gone, women votes, and general clean up. His text, "Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is justice."

"Community training School" was discussed by Rev. Fisher, of Williamsport. Every town may have a community training school if they will. Study methods, mission, psychology and above all, the Bible. "The Home Dept." by Mrs. McLean Everett, New Jersey. Home is where father and mother are. Home is where each one loves the other and where all love God.

Every S. S. should have active Home Dept. Teach the S. S. lesson when it is impossible for them to go S. S.

The convention was very well attended and was very inspirational. Let us hope we shall all have caught the vision of service and will go forth in service of our King who must reign forever and ever.

Election day was anything but a nice day. Rain fell throughout the greater part of the day, and not for a minute did the sun shine. Nevertheless an excellent vote was polled, especially on the part of the women, whose ardor was not dampened by the downpour.

Hallowe'en-ers performed their usual pranks, on Saturday night, filling the diamond with wagons, carts and farm implements collected within a radius of a mile. Wheels were taken off and set in the forks of trees, so that the owners of the property had no little difficulty in assembling their vehicles preparatory to moving them home.

Several hundred Penn State students showed the benefits of the military training by hiking 225 miles to Philadelphia last week in order to cheer their football team in its game with the University of Pennsylvania. Tugged out in their old "hep" suits, and with such signs on their backs as "State to Penn—Give us a Lift" they made quite a delegation. Although the majority did not start until Thursday evening, roll call failed to show any absentees when the whistle blew on Franklin Field, on Saturday afternoon.

State Agricultural Notes. Many commercial orchardists plant too many varieties of fruit. Make a wise limited selection of varieties which will thrive in your locality and are in demand in the market. Specialize in winter varieties of apples for commercial orchards. The livestock situation in Pennsylvania, according to Dr. T. E. Munce head of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, might be likened to the churches in our State. More churches are not needed but what we need is to fill the present ones with the right kind of people. Not more livestock in Pennsylvania is needed but better and healthier farm animals are needed. Churches crowded with people and farms containing plenty of good, pure-bred healthy livestock means a better and more prosperous agriculture.
