Grateful neighbors brought him food and stayed to keep him company during the uncertain hours and days which must pass until his fate would be known. When his wounds healed rapidly, they wanted to file off his shackles, but the brave smith The dance held in Ray Noll's new refused. Soon he noticed a numbress of his limbs and tingling sensations. It was difficult for him to swallow, then came thirst-unendurable thirst -that could not be assuaged, for even the sight of water was sufficient to cause violent spasms of the muscles of the throat. Hence the name, "Hydrophobla"-"fear of water." General convulsions followed, which were succeeded by paralysis and unconsciousness, and so he died. MILLHEIM. A few generations later came the Samuel Kessler, a freshman at Penn announcement from the laboratory of the great French Scientist Pasteur, that Rables or Hydrophobla was preventable. Rables is not conveyed from one person to another but is always the result of infection from a lower animal, usually the dog, although it may be transmitted by horses, cows, Miss Mary Kessler. a student at Westcats, goats or other animals. The virus of the disease is found In the saliva and is often present several days or a week before the animal exhibits signs of "Madness." Infection is usually caused by the bite of a rabid animal, but it may be induced by the mere licking of a hand upon which there is a break in the skin. Persons have been known to contract the disease by scratching their hands on the teeth of horses or cattle Will Build New House. they were drenching from some sup-Mr. and Mrs. H. J. "What became of the dog?" he asked, "The dog has been shot," said Jimmy's father. "Too bad, it was not captured allve." "Why captured?" "Because in a few days we should have known definitely whether or not the dog was rabid. Now his head must be sent to the diagnostic laboratory and the "Negri bodles" (the certain signs of rables) which are seen by the microscope among the nerve cells of the brain may not be present, as they do not develop in the very early stages. Therefore, other methods which will take longer time will have to be pursued." "Will the delay make any difference?"

"The earlier the diagnosis is made and the treatment begun, the better for the patient."

The Doctor sent for the dead dog, which proved to be a fox terrier. "Short haired animals are more apt to contract rables," he said; "than the long haired type because there is less chance for the saliva to be wiped from the teeth of the biting animal, for the same reason there is greater danger from bites in the hand or face. then through clothing."

The entire dog, being a small one, was packed in ice and expressed to a diagnostic laboratory.

Several days later a positive report. came back.

Then Dr. Carson began giving Jimmy daily injections of the Pasteur emulsion which came regularly from the laboratory. At the end of three weeks he pronounced him out of danger of rables.
