ARTIFICIAL DAY FAVORED BY HEN

Poultry Flock Given More Time for Eating and Exercising During Winter Season.

INCREASES EGG PRODUCTION

Many Farmers Find it Profitable to Illuminate Houses for Several Hours Each Day to Encourage the Pullets.

Domestic fowls originated in the tropics where the days and nights are of about equal length. As a result of this, the reproductive and digestive systems of the hen are developed to fit the environment of a 12-hour day and a 12-hour night. For this reason she is somewhat like an alarm clock, except that she must be wound up about every 12 hours instead of every 24. In the winter in the North, her digestive system strikes at about 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning. As she is unable to locate food in the dark she has no alternative but to wait until daylight or until the caretaker gets around to feed her.

Habits, Not Nature, Changed. the north-temperate

where during the fall and winter the nights are from 13 to 15 hours long the transplanted domestic fowl from the tropics has changed her habits but not her nature. During this time she takes her vacation when she has the least to eat and to do. This is from necessity rather than from choice, for, given an opportunity to eat, exercise, and enjoy herself for 12 hours a day, she lays nearly, if not quite so well, as during the summer

Acting on this theory many poultry keepers have found it pr light their poultry houses for several hours each day. This lengthened day, together with the right kind of feed and plenty of exercise, has been found to increase to a marked degree the number of eggs laid by pullets in the fall and winter. It does not pay to provide light for older hens. A 14hour day for the laying flock during the winter months is the aim of those who are following this practice. Experiments are being carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture at the government poultry farm at Beltsville, Md., for the purpose of securing more data on this phase of poultry work. The results secured thus far corroborate the testimony of others as to the value of illumination in hen houses. The birds used in the government experiments are fed four times a day, at eight, twelve, four and some time after dark. This last feed is for the birds' breakfast. In addition to the four feeds a dry mash is kept constantly before the birds.

By means of an ordinary alarm clock an electric switch is turned on about 4:30 in the morning. Care is taken to increase the length of the time of illumination gradually or the effect on the birds would be disastrous. At the close of the season the decrease must be made slowly. From November 1, the opening of the pullet season, to April 1 is the time when

To secure the desired results it is necessary not only to provide food ready for eating when the birds $14,000, and the increased yield, reckawake, but also water. In very cold weather some special means of heating it must be provided or the watering trough will be frozen over. The birds will not do well if drink is not available also. A small oil lamp under a bucket, an electric attachment for slightly heating the water, and a watering tank insulated somewhat after the idea of a fireless cooker are the methods used for keeping the water for the flock at a temperature above freezing.

How to Save Light. In a pen 20 by 20 two lights rather than one should be used. A wideangled reflector that will throw the light to all parts of the building also helps to get the best results from the amount of electricity used. To save illumination the windows should be placed when feasible on the south, east and west sides of the building.

Good leather can be made in individual tanneries, but the results are too uncertain to give reliable profits.

The work was taken up by the department when it became evident that the farmers were feeling the injustice of a transaction wherein they sold a whole cowhide for less than they paid out for a pair of work shoes-an occurrence not at all unusual. Investigation shows that the leather dealer is not entirely to blame for the low prices that the farmer receives for his hides. Too often the hide from the farm cow is taken off in a careless manner that leaves the skin full of cuts and holes farm hides are never as uniform as those bought from the packing houses, where the animals are carefully graded and the skins removed by expert skinners. For that reason the hide buyer is always willing to pay more for the packer's product than he can offer the farmer.

Then, too, the farmer sells his cowhide to the junk dealer, who deducts his profit from the price he pays. Whenever it is possible to collect a number of hides and skins it will pay the owner to deal directly with a large dealer, the specialists say, ing. The hogs can always pass through without stooping, and since there is no board to rub along their backs there is less danger of injuring them. The two outside boards are nailed to the crosspieces while the two middle boards are held in place by bolts which pass through elongated holes. These two middle boards may be close together or far apart depending upon the size of the hogs to be excluded.

INCREASE IN ALFALFA CROPS

Larger Yields Secured by Oregon and Washington Farmers by Application of Sulphur.

Farmers in Oregon and Washington have greatly increased their alfalfa crops by the application of sulphur. This practice is based upon the results of investigations by the experiment stations in these states as well as upon demonstrations of the use of sulphur on alfalfa conducted by the county agricultural agents in co-operation with specialists from the agricullighting is usually provided for fowls. | tural college. In Deschute county last year 285 tons of sulphur were used, at a total cost of a little more than oned at $20 a ton, was $120,000. In Jackson county 277 tons, costing about $13,000, are estimated to have increased the yield $110,000. In Klamath county 98 tons, costing $5,400, gave an estimated increase of $40,000. reckoning alfalfa at $15 a ton. Dem onstrations in Josephine, Wallowa and Wasco counties give a similar ratio of results. The first experiments in sulphur fertilization in these states were made in 1912. Rapid development of the innovation was made possible through the system of county agents and key men who were practical farmers.

GUTTERS KEEP CELLARS DRY

Cement Ditches Carry Water From House Far Enough to Prevent Injury by Seepage.

A few homemade cement gutters will drain away the water from the gutter pipes and help keep a cellar dry. The cement ditch can be 8 inches wide, 2 inches thick and widened at the receiving end to resemble a shallow platter, says the United States Department of Agriculture. It should be sufficiently long to carry the water from the gutter pipe far enough from the house foundation to prevent seepage. HONOR FOR CANADA

Wins Championships at International Live Stock Show.

Splendid Exhibits, Both of Animals and Grain, Won Admiration of Judges and Spectators.

One of the most interesting sights at the International Live Stock show Apparently it doesn't pay the farm- at Chicago was the evening parades to view, and as it passed around the this, the principal one being that in this section there were the wonderful Clydesdales, the Belgians and the Percherons that had carried off championships and first prizes. The province of Saskatchewan had a splendid display of Clydesdales and showed in a number of classes, and in every class they got in the money. A remarkable and noted winning was that of the University of Saskatchewan, showing

"Lady Bruce," female Clydesdale, in a class of 24 and taking second. In competition there were entries from such famous studs as Conyngham Bros. of Wilkesbarre, P. L. James of Easton, Mass., and George Chiett of the same state. She was beaten by an imported mare, but was later made champion American-bred mare and reserve grand champion, an honor never before conferred upon anything but an imported animal. The following are some of the good things that Canada won at the International, in a fair fight and no favors. Grand championship for Clydesdale stallions; championship for Americanbred Clydesdale mares; reserve senior and reserve grand championships for Clydesdale mares; grand championship for Southdown sheep; sweepstakes grand championship for wheat for the continent of America; championship for Durum wheat for Americh.

Another of the reasons for the applause given the Canadian sections of the parade was the heartiness with which the American spirit was imbued that impelled it to greet with the fullest appreciation the efforts of the winner, and the hundreds of Canadians in the immense audience of the amphi theater appreciated it.

The purpose that Canada had in making exhibits from their farms whether it was of live stock-and they had it there in all branches-grains, grasses or roots, was to demonstrate that the war had not created devastation, that the country was alive with interest in the matter of production and that it had ability to produce in a manner that would bring it championships, and what better place than the international, where it would be placed before thousands, many of whom, with the enlightenment thus gained and with a desire to better their condition, would be made to realize that in the neighboring country to the north there
