

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Court convenes next week.

Mr. Kemp, of Brooklyn, Pa., is a guest of J. T. Potter.

Squire Cyrus Brungart made a business trip to Scranton, last week.

Mrs. John Garis, of Bellefonte, visited at the Byron Garis home this week.

The Kerr property, in Centre Hall, is offered for sale by W. Frank Bradford.

L. Ray Morgan, of Homestead, visited at the S. W. Smith home over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Homan, of State College, visited the latter's parents last week.

Irving S. Horton, of Huntingdon, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Spyker, over Sunday.

The local camp of the P. O. S. of A. held a social in the Grange hall on the evening of Washington's birthday.

Fred Klinefelter, of Tusseyville, was a business caller at this office on Monday and enrolled as a Reporter subscriber.

Paul Shreckengast, of near Centre Hall, underwent an operation for appendicitis in the Bellefonte hospital and is on the road to recovery.

Mrs. Erdman West and little son returned to their home in New Brunswick, New Jersey, on Tuesday, after a five weeks' stay in Centre Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Adams, of Suffield, Connecticut, are guests of Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Longwell, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Longwell being sisters.

Mrs. Lucy Henney, who has been spending some time at Latrobe, returned to her home here on Saturday, accompanied by her son, Wilbur Henney.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Garner, of Marklesburg, a recently married couple, visited the latter's sister, Mrs. Chester Spyker, in Centre Hall, for a few days the past week.

Rev. J. Max Kirkpatrick, of Homeworth, Ohio, will preach in the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning. He is a candidate for this pastorate, and a good attendance is desired.

J. E. Noll, of near Spring Mills, was a business caller at this office on Monday, and before he left both he and his son, J. Elmer Noll, had become enrolled on the Reporter's subscription list.

Prof. and Mrs. N. L. Bartges and daughter, on Saturday, motored to Mr. Bartges' home in Sugar valley, and were unable to get home on Monday on account of the heavy snow.

J. T. Potter received word a few days ago of the serious illness of Ellis Bierly, at State College, of pneumonia. Mr. Bierly is married to a niece of Mr. Potter, and is a widely known lumberman.

Mrs. J. C. Goodhart, of Centre Hill, received word yesterday of the very serious illness of her brother, Rufus Lee, at Valparaiso, Indiana. A brother and a sister from Lock Haven have hastened to his bedside.

The rural mail carriers from Centre Hall, under extreme difficulties, completed their thirty-mile routes on Monday, and for the greater part of the distance were forced to break a track through the 14-inch snow.

The mule sale at Centre Hall, scheduled for Monday, was postponed until Friday of this week, owing to the small number of prospective buyers. Many from a distance could not reach Centre Hall owing to the heavy snow.

A farewell party was tendered the William S. Brooks family, near Centre Hall, one night last week, by a large crowd of neighbors and friends who came to the Brooks home loaded down with good things to eat. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks will become residents of Centre Hall.

Miss Sara Leitzell, a trained nurse, of Bellefonte, was called to take care of Mrs. L. L. Smith, last week. Mrs. Smith has been a great sufferer for several weeks, first with beatings in her throat and later with tonsillitis. The Reporter is glad to state, however, that she is now on the mend.

H. E. Shreckengast, of near Old Fort, suffered the loss of a valuable horse one day last week. The animal had a leg kicked off by its mate, in the stable, and had to be killed. The loss in hard cash is $300, since Mr. Shreckengast was offered that sum for the animal only a short time ago.

Clement F. Deininger, statistical clerk in the Department of Labor, Harrisburg, spent a few days beginning of the week in Centre Hall. Mr. Deininger recently received the praise of the higher heads in his department for devising a more efficient form for tabulating the complex statistics that are gathered by the Department of Labor.

State Veterinarian McNeill, of Scrubury, spent a day this week with J. H. Detwiler, testing his herd of pure bred Guernsey cattle for tuberculosis. None of the twenty-five head tested reacted and the entire herd was pronounced free from the dreaded disease. This test confirms the sale of four of the cows which will be shipped to Virginia as soon as a car can be secured.

Samuel Horner, the successful young farmer tenant on the Calvin Bottorf farm near Colyer, was a business caller at this office last Thursday. Mr. Horner is an honest worker, and a number of landlords realizing his worth, attempted to place him on their farms this year, but Mr. Horner and Mr. Bottorf apparently enjoy that quality known as compatibility, for neither has a desire for a change.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lohr, of Rutledge, visited relatives in Centre Hall from Saturday until Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. L. Bartholomew and daughter, Mary Helen, of Altoona, visited relatives here this week.

The sales and exchange day, conducted by Wagner Geiss, at Bellefonte, this week, proved so successful that it is his intention to conduct similar sales every two weeks. March 7th is the date for the next sale. If you have anything to sell or exchange, take it there.

SPRING MILLS.

EISENHUTH.—Death entered our midst again and claimed another of our citizens, Howard Eisenhuth. Mr. Eisenhuth had a complication of diseases and was sick about six weeks. He was genial, kind hearted and a good neighbor, always ready to do a favor. He was a sawyer by trade. Two years ago he bought the Philip Heim home where he resided ever since. He leaves his wife, nee Annie Lingle, and son Guy, Clair Allison and family, of Renovo, spent a few days with Harry Allison.

A little daughter came to the home of Roland Zettle, on Sunday, February 20. Howard Rossman purchased a Chevrolet car from Decker Bros.

The noodle supper given by the ladies of the Penn Hall Lutheran church on Saturday evening was a decided success, and the ladies were very well pleased with their efforts.

Received too late for last week.)

Miss Mabel Allison returned from a visit to her brother Charles and family, in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Zubler attended the funeral of Mrs. Samuel Hoy at Centre Hall, on Thursday.

The farmers' institute held in the Grange Hall on Monday, Feb. 14, was well attended, and very interesting meetings were held in the afternoon and evening.

Mrs. "Billy" Deihl, of Mifflinburg, is spending some time with her father, Andrew Dunlap.

The sudden death of Mrs. Geo. Wolfe cast a gloom over the community. Mrs. Wolfe was known and beloved for her kindly disposition; always ready to lend a hand in sickness or trouble. She will be missed in her home, church and neighborhood.

PINE GROVE MILLS.

A number of yellow signs are visible in town. It's only whooping cough.

Most of our public schools celebrated Washington's birthday with appropriate exercises.

Henry Sense is busy lumbering, getting out timber to rebuild his home on the Branch that went up in smoke last spring.

A quintet from Susquehanna University, Selingsgrove, will give a musical in the I. O. O. F. hall here on the coming Saturday evening. Admission 25 and 35 cents.

Ralph Wilson, of Pittsburg, brother Charles, of Cincinnati, and two sisters, of Ohio, were called home to see their aged mother, Rachel Wilson, who has been very ill with pleurisy.

On account of the bad roads and heavy snowfall Sunday the dedicatory services for the new organ, to have taken place Sunday evening, in St. Luke's Lutheran church, was postponed to a later date.

Miss Fannie Derr, of Mt. Carmel, advance agent of the Chautauqua, which is to be here March 8, 9 and 10, met the guarantors at a meeting Wednesday evening. Owing to the short notice only half of the guarantors were present. Progress was reported, for already one-half the tickets had been sold.

Forest Notes.

Contractors are rapidly removing the diseased chestnut trees from the Logan State Forest in Centre and Huntingdon counties, according to a report sent to the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry by District Forester Norton, of Petersburg. C. A. Seeds has a crew of 16 men cutting mine props on Short Mountain, and W. A. Neale is manufacturing staves in an operation on Tussey Mountain. Both of these operations are on State land, and are a part of the Department of Forestry's plan to cut out blighted chestnut timber as quickly as possible.

Questions.

1. What should be done for a case of fainting?
2. What is the first aid treatment for sun stroke?
3. When the face of an unconscious person is pale—what position should the head be placed in?

FIRST AID

When Bill Williams, still the town drunkard because he had some money and little strength of character, gave a strangled cry and fell convulsed to the ground, he was allowed to beat his head, bruise his hand by dashing it against the curb, and bite his tongue nearly in two while one worthy citizen ran for a doctor; another for salt, and the rest crowded about him fascinated by his strange contortions.

Bill should have been given First Aid, by gently but firmly holding his head to keep him from bruising it, by putting a twisted handkerchief or other soft substance between his teeth to keep him from biting his tongue, and by restraining the lashing of his legs and arms until the attack passed. He had an epileptic fit—fairly common. While it lasted the doctor could not have done more than keep him from injuring himself by his violent movements. The fit usually passes in a few minutes. There should be no attempt to give anything by the mouth.

The Reverend Doctor Johnson, preaching in his crowded and ill-ventilated church, was interrupted by a commotion in the space behind the pews, due to Miss James, who, after standing for three quarters of an hour, fell to the floor and lay there, pale, unconscious, and apparently not breathing.

Sympathetic bystanders held her in a half sitting position and tore her neck clothing away, while others hurried for water, which they dashed at her face with little reference to quantity or aim.

Miss James had a fainting fit, because she had not enough blood in her head to keep her brain conscious. The pallor of her face and lips showed this. She needed more blood in her head than she was getting; therefore, instead of lifting her up she should have been allowed to lie flat, till one of the many doctors always occupying the front pews of churches, could reach her and direct further proceedings. Flicking her face gently with a handkerchief—wet with cold water—would have been more immediately helpful and less subsequently annoying than the liberal and ill directed pitcher of water with which her upper garments were thoroughly soaked. These fainting fits usually last but a few minutes.

On the following Sunday, Dr. Johnson's sermon was again interrupted; this time by a man sitting in the front pew.

Mr. Bultitude, the over fat, under exercised, red faced man, thick necked, puffed and flabby manufacturer of Bultitude's Balm for Bruised Babies. In the midst of his customary and at times audible doze, rolled first to the cushion of his seat and then to the floor, breathing heavily and hoarsely, and with his ordinarily red face becoming dusky purple. It was clear that there was too much blood in his head. Therefore, the first aid would be to loosen his neck gear and to raise his head to let the blood flow out freely through the veins; and to free his breathing, since it was loudly snoring, by holding his tongue out of his mouth and by pushing his chin well up until a doctor could be secured to take care of this serious and perhaps fatal attack, probably apoplexy, which means blood leaking from its vessels into the brain. Mr. Bultitude did not recover consciousness in a few minutes and was carried senseless to his house.

Jack Clark, on a hot August day, on a hike with his Boy Scout Troop, began to lag and feel "all in"; he presently dropped senseless to the ground, with a wet, cold, pale face. Jack was suffering from heat exhaustion, which is like fainting. His pale face showed that there was not enough blood going into his brain. His fellow-scouts gave him prompt "first aid." They carried him to a shady place, put him in a comfortable position, kept his head flat on the ground, dried and warmed his cold, wet skin by rubbing it vigorously with towels, and flicked his face with a wet handkerchief. In three minutes by the Scout Master's watch, Jack opened his eyes, said he felt sick at his stomach, sat up, and in ten minutes more wanted to go on. The boys sent him home in a passing automobile, and sent word to his doctor.

A cold, pale sweat is a sign of trouble, sometimes serious trouble. A hot, red sweat is usually a sign of health.

A sudden attack of insensibility is of serious consequence in proportion to the time it lasts.

When a person is unconscious efforts to administer stimulants by the mouth are not only useless but dangerous.

When the face is red and congested, the head should be elevated.

When the face is pale, the head should be kept low.

When you do not know what to do, do nothing; except place the patient in a comfortable position protected from the heat in summer, from cold in winter.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS.

I was fortunate in being able to assign my $1000.00 I. H. C. Tractor to a jobber at a price a little less than fifty cents on the dollar, thereby reducing the operating cost of this tractor, considerably as I had used this tractor to draw a disc harrow over eleven acres, making a cost of one hundred dollars per acre, not counting the fuel and services of one man for five days; but by the generous offer of this jobber, the cost has been reduced to a little less than sixty dollars an acre, so the bidding for this tractor is now closed and those having bids or expecting to bid can now look somewhere else for a tractor.—JOHN SNAVELY, Centre Hall Pa.
