SIMPLY PERFECT IN THEORY

Kitchen Management Left Nothing to Be Desired, Except the Prosaic Fact of Cooking.

An experienced housewife, who has never taken any other course in domestic science than that afforded by wrestling many years with the problem of three meals a day, felt much interested when her college-bred daughter told her that she was going to spend the week-end with a friend who was the last word in the highbrow world of the cooking specialist.

"Mother, it was wonderful," exclaimed the girl upon return. "On one side of her white-tiled laboratory —she doesn't call it a kitchen—there is the dishwashing machine and on the other the long tables for the constructive work. The arrangements are perfect, and everything is clean and shining. I'm just crazy about it.
Not a bit like our haphazard kitchen."

"And I presume the food was equally wonderful," said the really sympathetic mother, ready to leap of the new generation. "Tell me about it."

The returned visitor looked thoughtful. "Well, you see, we didn't go very deep into cookery. She never does. We had dinner made in the freless cooker, some sort of stew. And the rest of the stuff she gets at the delicatessen."

Robert Burns.

Burns is the singer of songs as immortal as love, pure as the dew of the morning, and sweet as his breath; songs with which the lover wooes his bride, and the mother soothes her child, and the heart of a people beats with patriotic exultation; songs that cheer human endeavor and console human sorrow and exalt human life. We cannot find out the secret of their power. Until we know why the rose is sweet or the dew-drop pure, or the rainbow beautiful, we cannot know why the poet is the best benefactor of humanity. If we were forced to surrender every expression of human genius but one, surely we should retain poetry; and if we were called to lose from the vast accumulation of literature all but a score of books, among that choice and perfect remainder would be the songs of Burns.—George Wilson Curtis.

Real "Fire King."

Back somewhere around 1880 was a man called M. Chabert, better known as "the fire king," and these are some of the things he did to prove himself inhuman and a marvel in London. To begin with, he swallowed 40 grains of phosphorus, which is quite enough to kill two good-sized men, and after that he sipped oil at 330 degrees, and lived long enough to rub a red-hot fire shovel over his tongue, face and hair, and then lived some more.

Some few years later, on a challenge of $250, he repeated the feat, won the wager, and threw in a few more like stunts for good measure. He swallowed a piece of burning torch, for instance, and then, costumed in coarse woolen, entered an oven at 380 degrees, sang a song and cooked two dishes of beefsteak.

New Delicious Fruits.

There have been found in the Philippines two fruits entirely unknown to Europe and even to America. One of these is the durian, which grows on a lofty tree somewhat resembling an elm, is about as large as a coconut, has a shiny shell and contains a creamy pulp which combines some of the flavors of delicious custard with those of a fine cheese. American soldiers in the Philippines have dubbed the durian the "vegetable limburger." The other rare fruit is the pangosteen, but the exquisitely flavored liquid it contains has not yet been successfully preserved for shipping.

Birthday Surprise Party.

On Tuesday evening a score of youngsters gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Emery on the occasion of the eleventh birthday anniversary of Miss Algie Emery. The children congregated during the temporary absence of Miss Algie at the home of a neighbor, and she was taken completely by surprise when she returned home. A birthday cake with eleven lighted candles brought delight to the care-free children. Refreshments served consisted of sandwiches, potato chips, oranges, ice cream, cake, and lolly-pops. Needless to say the children enjoyed the event as only children can. Miss Algie received many pretty gifts from her little friends.
Those present were:

Agnes Geary, Adaline Dinges, Beula Bingman, Miriam Moore, Louise Smith, Elizabeth Gross, Elizabeth Bartholomew, Edith Moltz, Margaret Luse, Genevieve Ruble, Estella Ruble, Bertha Sharer, Byres Ripka, Muth Bailey, Robert McClenahan, Philip McClenahan, Bruce Knarr, Wilbur McClellan, Vinton

Road Case Dropped.

The indictment against Robert Bloom, William Jordan and William Curry, supervisors of Potter township, who were prosecuted by Dr. H. H. Longwell, of Centre Hall, for failure to maintain roads, was quashed at the February term of court, this week, on motion of the defendant, who contended that same was not based on Act of 1913. After some argument, the indictment was quashed.

Grand Jury's Report.

The Grand Jury made its final presentment on Tuesday forenoon that they had passed on seven bills of judicment, five of which were found true bills, two ignored and three withdrawn by the District Attorney; that they found the buildings in good repair and well kept. Recommend the front porch of the Court House, the spouting, lightning rods and railing of the Court House yard be repaired and the rear door refinished. New linoleum for the Register's office and that the cloak room in the Grand Jury room be placed in condition for which it was intended.
Further recommend the outside of the jail repaired, water and steam plumbing repaired, a door or outlet in the rear of the first floor of the county jail to be used more particularly in case of fire; new linoleum for the Sheriff's office, and that the floor of the Sheriff's office be repaired, which should receive immediate attention.

ous conservation projects will be called

State Inspected Seed Potatoes.

The Bureau of Plant Industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, at Harrisburg, is daily receiving inquiries from all parts of the state for "Good Seed Potatoes."

For every one who has made such inquiry there are doubtless, numberless others who would welcome the same information. In a recently issued list the Bureau has given the names and address of many farmers who have excellent stocks of seed potatoes, which were carefully inspected by potato experts in 1920 and are therefore known to be of high quality. The Bureau will gladly furnish this list to any one interested.

As a further valuable protection to the distant buyer the Bureau undertakes to seal and tag these potatoes so that they can be fully relied on wherever they go.
All inquiries for such seed hereafter received by the Bureau will be sent, to all the growers, who have this "State Inspected Seed" for sale.
