THE VIRTUES OF THE MULE.

Read what one of America's greatest editors say about the mule, that despised creature of toil, and probably you will manifest a more kindlier spirit to this noble animal:

The mule is despised and rejected of men, but like some other things at which foolish mortals turn up the nose, he is one of mankind's best friends and useful co-workers.

He looks funny, but he is not. Life with him is very serious. When he is eating he is thinking about when he will have to go to work, and when he is working he is thinking about when he can eat. What could be more serious than that?

He is a type of them that labor and do nothing else. He does not play, he is not trotted out on parade, he sits for no painter, he never larks nor loafs; he works and when he is not working he is getting ready to work. He is probably the best worker in the world.

He is no aristocrat. He is not bourgeois. He is plutocrat.

Though Emory Storrs said that he is without in ancestry or hope of posterity, the mule remains the most dependable of all the dumb creatures that toil for man.

The late war was won by men—and mules. The Quartermaster-General of the Army, in his report of the war declares that the mule proved himself to be more valuable than the horse. He has more sense, more presence of mind and less fear.

He kept his head even on the firing line when all about him was panic.

The Encyclopaedia Britannica says of him:

"The mule possesses the sobriety, patience and sure-footedness of the ass and the vigor, strength and courage of the horse."

To which may be added, "and some."

For a mule will never founder himself as a horse will do. He knows when he has got enough to eat, which is more than some mortals know.

He will not make himself sick gorging on water, even on the hottest days.

He can be kept shod for half what it costs to shoe the horse.

He can pull a heavier load, keep going longer, stand more abuse, get along on less to eat and on less care than the horse.

And contractors say that for all around utility he is cheaper and more satisfactory than a gasoline tractor.

As far back as we can trace authentic history we find him patiently bearing men's burdens.

He made possible the triumphs of Alexander, the conquests of Caesar, the campaigns of Charlemagne and the brilliant victories of Napoleon. Also he was on hand, dragging the ammunition wagons and supplies for Pershing's men in the recent unpleasantness.

Prices are falling on silks, steel, bacon, codfish and hired girls, but the price of mules is advancing steadily. In the Middle West mules are about the only commodity that is holding its own in the market, and the Western livestock journals say that mule prices will probably go higher.

In all the improvements and discoveries of this scientific era the mule stands unimprovable and with undiminished indispensability.

THE DEATH RECORD.

A SOLDIER VETERAN HAS FALLEN:

Solomon Beirly, son of Michael and Mary Mallory Beirly, whose family resided at Madisonburg, Centre county, Pa., passed beyond this vale and entered into rest at his farm-home near Seligman, Missouri, on March 1st, 1921. He was an active member of "A" Company, 14th P. V., which regiment was commanded by that intrepid soldier, Colonel James A. Beaver, of Bellefonte, Pennsylvania, the same who later served his State as Governor.

Brother Solomon was a mere strip of a lad, less than sixteen years of age, at the time of his enlistment. It was his privilege to take active part in four of the fiercest battles of the Civil War, viz., Gettysburg, The Wilderness, Spotsylvania and Coal Harbor. In the latter engagement, he was badly wounded and was sent to the hospital, where his wounds slowly healed, enabling him subsequently to assume the duties of a very active life.

Soon after his return from the war, he ventured into the far West, where an uncle resided; there to make his future home, near the town of Seligman, Missouri, where he began the development of a farm. He soon married an estimable young woman, from which union five children were born, four girls and one boy. His farm proved very productive, both in cereals and in fruit.

Being a man of frugal, industrious habits, and high moral character, Brother Solomon was rarely affected with serious ailments. Several months ago he began to suffer a decline, however, and now has passed over the great divide into his eternal rest. The end came silently and peacefully.

Brother Solomon's acts of benevolence were many and prompt. As soon as his children and grand children became of age, he bestowed upon each the allotted share of his possessions, which fact was truly magnanimous, and is worthy of emulation.

His wife Martha preceded him to the Homeland some twenty years ago. Thereafter his youngest daughter, Mrs. Lola Beirly-Murry, had the care of the home, in which she acted the noble part of a true ministering angel.

Without more educational advantages than the commonest of the common school at Madisonburg, our home village, Brother Solomon's mind nevertheless developed wonderfully. His attainments along certain lines became scholarly. Had he had a University training he would undoubtedly have risen to fame in some noted profession.

Sweet rest that in heaven alone can be found, I long to draw near where Thy blessings abound; Where earth's wearied pilgrims are welcomed and blest, Beholding their Lord, and enjoying sweet rest.

Oh, region divine where the blessed abide, What joy must it be near Jesus' side! There loved ones redeemed who have gone on before, Are reaping sweet rest on that beautiful shore.

By His Brother ALFRED.

ZIEGLER.—Mrs. Sarah Ziegler, widow of Daniel Ziegler, passed into the beyond at her home in Millheim on Saturday morning, due to the burden of her eighty-five years. For the past nine weeks she had been ailing, a bad cold leading to more serious complications.

She was the last of a family of nine children of Jacob Wolf's family and was born at Rebersburg. All her married life was spent in Millheim. Her husband preceded her in death only eleven months ago, and the only surviving child is a daughter, Miss Mabel Ziegler, at home.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday morning by Rev. Shannon, of the Lutheran church, of which faith the deceased was an adherent all her life. Burial was made at Millheim.

Sept. 3-9 Granger Picnic Dates.

A meeting of the Grange Encampment and Fair association was held at Centre Hall on Tuesday afternoon with a good representation. The finances of the association were shown to be in first class condition. Jacob Sharer was elected chairman of the association, and the date set for the next annual gathering on Grange Park is September 3 to 9, inclusive.

23 Deer Taken from Clearfield County.

Twenty-three deer were taken from the Mosser estate, near Westover, Clearfield county, under the direction of State Game Protector H. B. Hilton, last week. One deer, in attempting to get through the wire fence, broke its neck.

The animals will be distributed in Game Preserves in the Western part of the state.

not worry him at all. He was here before gasoline was ever heard of and will be here, helping build roads, grade railways and excavate foundations when the last drop of petroleum has been tapped.

When the pioneers from New Zealand, ten thousand years from now, shall discover Manhattan Island, and begin raising crops among the ruins of the fallen brick and rusted iron from what was once New York, they will be plowing with the mule, the same patient and everlasting worker that helped prepare the foundations for the walls of Babylon and Ninevah.

LINDEN HALL.

Scott Wieland, who travels for the Coolmore Shade Company, of Janesville, Wisconsin, spent the first of the week with his brother here, going on Tuesday to Michigan where he will be for some time.

John Dorwart and family moved last week into the Hess house. Mr. Dorwart is a student at Penn State and travels back and forth in an auto.

Mrs. W. T. Noll returned from Greensburg last week bringing with her the children of her daughter, Mrs. Nellie Wolf, who is in a Greensburg hospital recovering from an operation for a goitre.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McFarlane spent the week end with relatives at Martha Furnace.

Mrs. Anna Williams and Mrs. Curt Musser, of Altoona, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ross.

Rosemer Warren moved recently to State College where he will be employed on one of the College farms.

George Rohne returned from Philadelphia where he underwent an operation at the Wills Eye hospital for the removal of a cataract.

A very enjoyable farewell party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gregg Carper, one evening last week. The Carpers will move later to their new home near Centre Hill.

PINE GROVE MILLS.

Public sales are on. Cattle and hogs are selling thirty per cent below last spring's prices. Heavy draft horses are bringing fair prices.

Mrs. F. O. Homan, a surgical patient in the Glenn sanitarium at State College is convalescing nicely.

George Burwell, teacher of the White Hall school, is among the sick, and Miss Lucy Krebs is wielding the birch.

The Stork was liberal with its offerings last week, leaving a baby boy at the John Colpeter home, and one at the Harry Sunday home, both at Fairbrook.

Rev. Mr. Miller, of Philipsburg, will fill the pulpit in the Presbyterian church here on Sunday at 7 p. m., at which time a vote will likely be taken to call Rev. Kirkpatrick to the Pennsvalley charge.

Appropriate installation services were held on Sunday morning, installing a new Estey organ in St. Luke's Lutheran church.

The Washington birthday social held at the Ben Everhart home proved a great success. $36.00 were raised for the M. E. church.

Ticks of the wire announced the death of Edward Clark in the Altoona hospital, following an operation. His widow was formerly Margaret Wright, of this place. Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon and burial made in the Pine Hall cemetery.

Mrs. Henry Wagner last Friday entertained a number of her lady friends at an old-time quilting bee. A sumptuous dinner was served.

The Chautauqua is in full swing during this week, with full attendance in the L. O. F. hall. The entertainments are fine.

Mrs. Emma Fisher, of Snyder county, is now in charge of the Frank Bowersox home as housekeeper.

On account of the lack of orders the Long saw mill, near town, has closed down.

Moving day is only three weeks away and many families have no place to fit.

BOALSBURG.

Mrs. Esterly and Cyrus Wagner, of Altoona, were over Sunday visitors at the S. J. Wagner home.

Mervin Kuhn, of Williamsport, spent several days last week with friends here.

Miss Mary Reish is spending the week at Bellefonte.

Mrs. Henry Reitz is visiting relatives in Sunbury.

Mrs. Jessie Fortney, who was operated on in the Bellefonte hospital, Monday, is getting along nicely.

Mrs. Alice Magoffin is visiting her brother, Dr. Woods, in Pine Grove Mills.

WOLFE'S CHAPEL NEWS.

The Wolfe's Chapel School will give an entertainment in the chapel, March 22nd. An evening of fun is assured you. Several very funny plays, funny recitations and song will make up the program. Come and forget your worries for awhile.—Jos. R. Haney, teacher.

MILLHEIM.

(From The Journal)
Lewis Bailey, who for several years resided at Kaneville, Ill., has decided to come east again and he will become a resident of Aaronsburg.

Paul Musser, the professional ball pitcher, who has been at his home in Millheim since last fall, departed Monday morning for Wichita, Kan., where he will play again this year.

The evangelistic campaign in the local United Evangelical church closed on Sunday evening when a large crowd greeted the Newell Bros. and also bade them farewell. On the last day the contributions for the party amounted to $623.24. The campaign resulted in 58 conversions. The Newell Bros. departed Monday morning for McKeesport to spend several days at their home before leaving for Odessa, Mich., where they will open a campaign next Sunday in United Brethren church.

You'll Want This Combination

It is the Case 10-18 kerosene tractor and a two-bottom Grand Detour plow. It is an ideal plowing outfit for either small or large farms.

The tractor weighs about 3,500 lbs., just a trifle more than a big team of horses. It burns kerosene economically, developing full power on the same.

The Tractor has a four-cylinder valve-in-head motor, mounted crosswise on a one-piece frame. A Case Sylinder Thermostat controls the cooling system and insures complete combustion. The all-spur gears, with teeth cut and hardened, are enclosed and run in oil.

The Grand Detour 2-bottom Automatic Lift Right Beam Plow will fill the plowing requirements of the most particular farmer. Grand Detour plows are strictly quality plows. They are light in draft, yet so well constructed that they will give years of faithful service at a low cost of upkeep.

We would greatly appreciate the opportunity of telling you more about Case tractors. Drop in and let's talk it over.
