75 degrees for a March day comes near being a record breaker. Sunday was such a day.

Mrs. Anna Hemphill is spending two weeks visiting friends in Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

James H. Bingman, of Beavertown, is visiting his son, Rev. J. F. Bingman, at the U. Ev. parsonage.

More than 1000 bills have been presented in the State Legislature to date, but only eighteen have become laws.

Mrs. Lucy Henney, the local milliner, went to Philadelphia on Wednesday to purchase goods and will return about April 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Betts, daughter Ruth, and sons Edward and John, of Johnstown, spent a few days with the W. S. Slick family.

Four hundred White Leghorn pullets sold for $2.20 apiece, or $440.00 for the lot, at the sale held by Earl Lutz and C. D. Bartholomew, last Wednesday.

The Luther League of Centre Hall will observe their customary Easter sunrise prayer service at six o'clock a. m. next Sunday morning, in the Lutheran church.

The Centre Hall High-school team will open the baseball season at Centre Hall, on the school grounds, Friday afternoon, when they will meet the Boalsburg High school. Turn out and "root."

D. A. Boozer, who last week attended the Federal Court, at Scranton, as a juror, was obliged to return again on Monday, the business of the court being too much to crowd into one week of jury work.

A thunder storm, with electrical display, passed over the valley on Saturday night, and in many parts of the county hail fell in great quantities, although in this immediate vicinity there was an absence of it.

The latter part of March finds the wheat plants green and sturdy with every prospect of yielding a fine crop of wheat. The grass and clover also look unusually fine, showing as much growth as is sometimes found during the latter half of April.

Otto Bailey, of Philadelphia, will be an arrival in Centre Hall to-morrow, and will remain for a few days with his sister and brother before departing for San Francisco, California, where he will be employed by the Glidden Company, a large paint concern.

The Easter vacation period brought the following young people to their homes in this place from various colleges: Harold Alexander, from Penn State; Miss Miriam Huyett, from Susquehanna University, and Frederic Moore, from Dickison college.

Members of the legislature showed their fear of the farmers' vote in turning down the daylight saving bill. It is a pretty safe guess that the question was not passed on its merits by many members of the august body whose election was from votes hailing from the farmer.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Heckman, of Johnstown, motored to Lamar on Saturday, spending a few days with Mr. Heckman's relatives, and on Monday they drove to Centre Hall to visit Mrs. Heckman's father, H. W. Kreamer, and friends, returning to their home on Tuesday.

Should the Catlin game bill become a law, it will become necessary for deer hunters to carry a pocket rule, and in some manner not yet fully decided upon, lay hold of a buck deer and measure his antlers. If they are found to be eight inches in length, or over, the hunter may proceed to lay him low.

The local Rebekah lodge, I. O. O. F., cleared over $75.00 from their chicken and noodle supper last Wednesday evening. The large and beautiful lodge room was set with tables, covered with immaculate linen, and a most delightful supper was served for the small sum of 55 cents. The net receipts indicate that the supper was well patronized, and only words of praise were heard for the good women who prepared the tasty dishes.

Regardless of the many flittings billed for April 1st, next, those who live until a year later will find just as much shifting about. Truly one fifty-second part of the year must be devoted to packing, moving, unpacking and placing the almost innumerable household articles by those who for varied causes shift their places of living each spring or less often. Did you ever consider what a great amount of time, energy and good money is spent on account of "moving day?" The remedy? You say. Secure your own home, be it ever so humble.

The public sale season is in its last week, and taken as a whole it was a very good one. Farmers whose stock and implements showed good care and attention received every penny they were worth. There was a falling off on prices of cows as compared with the extremely high prices paid last spring, but not nearly as great as predicted would be the case. A recent sale brought $120 for a young heifer while others sold around the $100 mark; and $60 for a sow without pigs is not to be sneezed at. Implements are bringing all they are worth, in many cases double their original cost.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Mrs. J. W. Brown, of Milroy, visited her sister, Mrs. W. S. Slick, last week.

A birthday surprise party was given for Miles Snyder, at the Old Fort, one night last week. Miles was so fussed he could scarcely talk.

A new runabout Ford, with a slip body for a truck, is being driven by Frank P. Phillips, of near Tusseyville. His old machine was sold to Frank Musser, below Spring Mills.

Chester A. Spyer, manager of the Centre Hall Lime & Stone Co., has rented the Hoy property and will move his family from the Logan House on April 1st. Mr. Hoy expects to spend his time among his children.

Rural mail carrier Domer S. Ishler, while driving his route last Friday, observed two large wild turkeys in William Breen's fields, along the mountain, east of Centre Hall. The one bird was an especially big fellow, a gobbler, no doubt.

Miss Grace W. Bevelander, of Philadelphia, was the guest of her friend, Miss Carrie Sweetwood, in Centre Hall for the past week. Both young women are engaged in the nursing profession in Philadelphia, and left for that city on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Burd wishes to announce to the public that she has just returned from the eastern cities with a complete line of spring and summer millinery. You are cordially invited to call and see the styles.

—The Hat Shop, Millheim, Pa.
Less than one per cent. of the people of Centre county have responded to the appeal for European relief. Is it possible that our prosperous folks have turned a deaf ear to the pitiful cry of millions of starving children in Europe. When a life can be saved for ten dollars, dare we let them die?

A large mail plane came down in a field near Aaronsburg, on Monday, the aviator being forced to descend owing to engine trouble. The plane struck the ground on its nose, breaking the propeller. The aviator escaped injury. His machine was loaded onto a truck and hauled to Bellefonte.

Some of the roads in Centre county are in bad shape but none have been reported than can compare with a section of uncompleted state road between Northumberland and Danville. Already, there are six cars hopelessly mired in this stretch and there seems to be no possible way to remove them for a month or more. It is a veritable trap for unwary motorists.

The Reporter's subscription list will be corrected next week, and subscribers who are entitled to credit will see a change on their label for the first time. Instead of the yellow tag there will be a pink one next week, which denotes a correcting of our list. A number of subscribers are in arrears, and we would like to change the figures on their label with the many others. Look at your label this week, figure out what is due us and then remit before Monday of next week, the day our list goes to press. By doing that the change of figures will be noted on the pink label next week.

The sale at Penns Valley Stock Farm, Monday, March 28, of high class pedigree horses, cattle and hogs, will afford an exceptional opportunity for the progressive farmer who is desirous of getting started with pure-bred, foundation stock and whose purchases must combine with breeding value the practical qualities that make for profit in the every-day work of the farm.

The herd of Holsteins is made up of uncommonly fine individuals, bred for generations in the lines that have been producing World's Champions, more than fifty per cent of the members of the herd being in close pedigree to the premier sire, King of the Pontiacs.

Percherons ready to go into the collar and pay dividends as workers in addition to proving their value as breeding animals, including an exceptional fine black mare, coming five years old, and safe in foal.

The twenty head of Berkshire hogs, combine size, beauty of type, and prolificacy, with hardiness and early maturing ability; and are bred in lines distinguished for prize-winning quality.

The attractive offerings in this sale will go absolutely to the highest bidder.
W. F. RISHEL.

Lime Lime Lime

FARMERS! We have a stack of lime burning and expect to be able to uncover it by Mar. 31st. All indications are that we will have a good burn. We are building the second stack and will continue to burn as long as we can do so profitably. In order to do this we will have to get rid of the lime quickly. Not leaving it in the stack until it slacks and gets hard to handle.

This lime will sell at $6.50 per net ton. In small lots of one and two bushels, etc., the price will be 40c per bushel.

If you are interested in lime get in touch with us at once.
