D. Sparr Wert and family, and Mr. Wert's mother, motored up from Aaronsburg on Saturday, for a short stay. Mr. Wert is one of Haines township's bustling young farmers, and reported being ready to sow oats this week. He is also much interested in Col. Henry W. Shoemaker's plan to erect a marker on the site of the "lower fort," which spot is nearby Mr. Wert's farm. Many farmers in that locality are ready, he says, to do all the necessary hauling and whatever else they can to help erect the monument.

Dr. H. H. Longwell returned to his home here last week after a few weeks stay in Des Moines, Iowa, where he mastered the De Pew method of treating and curing rupture. Consequently the doctor has put out his shingle with these words inscribed thereon: "Rupture specialist; treated by the De Pew method." Those who know anything concerning this wonderful cure, declare it to be nothing short of miraculous. Without restoring to an operation, or even with the use of an anaesthetic, the patient suffers no pain while being treated for his or her ailment, and a permanent cure is soon effected.

Moving day has come and gone, and with all the changing around, no family is without a home in Centre Hall, for another year, at least. A few months ago the situation appeared gloomy for several families, and one family in particular, forced to vacate a property purchased by another for his own occupancy, had no place in view up until a few days previous to April 1st. This was the W. H. Brubaker family. However, good fortune came their way when the D. L. Kerr home was sold to Edward Loughner, at Potters Mills a week ago. Mr. Loughner, while desiring to live at Centre Hall, had previously leased the McKinney home at Potters Mills for another year, making it expedient for him from a financial standpoint, to delay his moving here for a year. This made an opening for the Brubaker family.

The Reporter is suppressing two articles of news concerning two residents of Centre Hall who have run afoul of the law, within the past week. Not because their escapades would not make legitimate news articles, for indeed they would, and many another newspaper would enjoy heralding it on the front page, to the accompaniment of 36 point head lines. The guilt of the parties in question is firmly established, and the law is taking its course, and while the readers of a newspaper have a perfect right to all the facts in the case, a consideration which we regard greater impels us to refrain from giving wide publicity to the matter. That consideration is for the mother and other innocent members of the family whose names are pure but which would thus be besmirched through the guilt of the offender. It is this consideration, oft-times, that keeps a "good" news article out of the home paper, and causes some folks to criticise the local sheet for its dearth of news. We all know the scandal with which the metropolitan papers are filled daily. It exists everywhere, even in Centre Hall, only to a much less degree. In the cities, newspapers are eager to get hold of it for the pecuniary gain they may derive from the sale of extra copies. The home paper might profit likewise, but we could not conscientiously accept the gain at the expense of a broken heart of some mother, innocent sister or brother, who would be open to the gaze of everyone through no fault of their own.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

The local K. G. E. will confer the first degree on a class on Friday evening. A good attendance of members is urged.

The state road, just south of Centre Hall, is kept in constant good shape and last week was patched up so that it is a pleasure to run over it.

Fruit growers hereabouts are of the opinion that the hard freeze of last week did no material damage, claiming that no fruit buds were far enough advanced to be harmed.

Alpha Portland cement is the best you can obtain for any work in which cement is used. We have just unloaded a carload. Get your supply early.—R. D. Foreman, Centre Hall.

The Philipsburg Daily Journal, the only daily in Centre county, attained its 34th birthday anniversary last Saturday, and about the best thing we can say for Brother Bair's Journal is that it is getting better every day. There is nothing missing in the Daily Journal,—it gives the late news, both local and general,—and its editorial columns are exceptionally well edited. May it continue to grow, for it is deserving.

A fairly well grounded rumor is afloat that Rev. R. R. Jones, pastor of the local Reformed church, will announce his intention of resigning his pastorate in the near future. Monday of next week, the joint consistory of the charge, the official body to receive such an announcement, will meet in Centre Hall, and it is presumed that if the rumor is correct, the resignation will come up at that time. Rev. Jones has many fast friends in and out of his church who will regret to learn of his resignation if he decides to quit his pastorate here.

PLEASANT GAP.

The following items are gleaned from the Keystone Gazette:

A limited number of our Penitentiary employees were laid off for the time being. It is to be hoped they will receive a hurry call to return at an early date. This kind of ill luck is apparently going the rounds all over the country.

The lumbering business is distressingly dull. Messrs. Huyett & McNitt are still hammering away, but orders for the finished product are very slack. About all that there is a demand for now is telephone poles. Some thousands have been transported to the R. R. station the past ten days—the product coming from the Lonebarger contract. To the credit of Messrs. Huyett & McNitt it must be said they have laid off very few men. Their pay-day is regular, even when there is no demand for the products.
