HEAVY PENALTY FOR HOME STILL OPERATORS

$500 and Serve Three Months in Jail by Judge Bell, of Clearfield County.

Now that the Clearfield County authand successfully isolated the germ "illicitus distillicuss" Judge Bell seems to feel he has discovered a real antidote for this highly prevalent disorder in these parts.

The antidote or cure which is believed will solve the problem for both the home-grown still and the festive bootlegger was tried out on Monday afterville, says the Progress.

Benetto was arrested last week by Chief of Police Guy Clark at Curwensville for continuous and long persistence in manufacturing and bootlegging of "Raisin-Jack." When brought before the court Angelo entered a plea of guilnounced that while Angelo would receive the first inoculation, he would anot be last as, from this date henceforward, he that maketh for himself a still and polluteth his friend with strong drink that roareth like a lion and stingeth like runs for the remainder of the game. an adder, should suffer in accordance with the formula advanced or laid down in this case now pending. Having delivered himself thusly or of words of the same import and effect Judge Bell announced that the sentence of the court was that he, the said Angelo Benetto, should pay into the treasury of the county of Clearfield the sum of $500 together with costs of this operation and in addition thereto and in accordance therewith should also undergo an imprisonment in the Clearfield county jail for a period constituted or embraced by the following three calendar months be ginning the calculating or computing of said or such time from the day of this deliverance, i e., the 11th day of April.

Henceforth, hereafter and hencefor ward all and every person or person coming into the Clearfield County courts charged and afterwards convicted by their own word of mouth or otherwise of the crime of illicitly making or purveyand every such person so offending and being convicted, shall suffer like and similar penalty as that hereupon this fourth inning; the hitting of Ed. Foust, until his enlistment, at Potters Mills, in My dear Uncle Bob :-

Therefore, all bootleggers and illicit liquor dispensers generally, who feel BELLEFONTE HIGH SCHOOL that absence from their usual avocation or walk in life for a three month period will be too confining, should immediately, if not sooner, engage in some fespectable, if not so remunerative, business. A word to the wordly wis should conserve present gains and save "time."
