good beginning sometimes makes a bad ending," are copy-book maxims that apply very well to the baseball game played on Grange park on Saturday afternoon between the Linden Hall and Centre Hall teams. Centre Hall got away to a bad start by runs in the very first inning through Gross' erratic pitching in this frame. Harry hit three batters and with the aid of a few hits the count stood 3 to o. Centre Hall managed to tie the score in the fourth at 4 to 4, but again Linden Hall outdistanced their rivals and in the sixth inning the visitors looked like winners with the score 8 to 4 in their favor. The locals cut (down this lead by one run in the seventh. In the eighth inning Linden Hall scored two more, making the count to to 5. Six runs to win and but two innings to play. Well, Centre Hall made those six runs and won the game, 11 to 10. The beauty of it was that good old-fashioned hitting won the game, and it was all that could win, for the Linden Hall boys put up an impregnable defense, and were good also with the club, collecting nine safe drives. The fifteen hits collected off McClintic, the star left-hander of the visiting team, were good for eleven runs; every run was an earned one. Getting back to the score at the closing of the eighth, with the score 10 to 5 in th visitors' favor, Centre Hall pounded out three hits and each was good for a run The beginning of the ninth inning prov ed fruitless for Linden Hall, but that same inning bore peaches for the locals.

Gross, first up, was out on a fly ; Fous hit a two-bagger and "Newt" Crawford followed with a single. The rodent was speedily killed. Roy McKinley and Forrest Aikens, both of Milesburg, while working for Undertaker Frank Wetzler, a short time ago, in removing the body of a Civil war veteran who had been buried in the old Milesburg cemetery II years ago, found it had petrified. Harvey tion not less than 100 feet from any as his representative in this body, Presi- waters of the State and not subject to dent Ha; ding has committed this nation as an active participant in the very form of government to which he and his party professed to be opposed.

Despite this, some Democratic leaders profess to foresee that under the guidance of Secretaries Hughes and Hoover, the Harding foreign policy eventually will be to accept the principles of the League, whatever the present inconsistency and complications.

Among the purely political developments of the week was President Hard held in Bellefonte on June 17, 1921. ing's modification of President Wilson's order for the selection of first, second, and third-class postmasters under civil service requirements. Instead of being required to select the candidate standing highest, the administration may under President Harding's order give the place to anyone of the first three at the head of the list, About 13,000 Post Offices are affected. Deserving Republicans, who are present in Washington in large numbers, seem to have no doubt that that out of the highest three on the list the Postmaster General will find one Republican.

Politically speaking, there is a general disposition among Democratic leaders to avoid carping and factious criticism of the Harding administration and only to oppose such measures and policies as the country. The general inclination is to give the administration a fair show, and then to hold it to strict accountability on its record.
