John Rowe Stabbed by Negro.

The following dispatch from Atlantic City to the Philadelphia Record appeared in that paper on Monday, and concerns a former Centre Hall boy, a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Rowe, of this place:

"Attacked because an automobile in which he was a passenger had passed close to a number of negroes at Tennessee and Arctic avenues late Saturday night, John Rowe, 31 years old, of the Le Grand Apartments, is in serious condition at the City Hospital. He was stabbed in the abdomen by a negro whose identity is unknown.

"Rowe was in the automobile driven by Dr. Percy Joy, of No. 1921 Pacific avenue, who had been called to a patient. As the physician turned into Tennessee avenue he encountered a number of negroes standing in the street and sounded his horn. They dispersed and he drove past, stopping a short distance away, entering the home of his patient.

"Five negroes came running to the car and set upon Rowe, whom they accused of trying to run them down. He protested that he was not the driver, but one of the men, crazed with rage, leaped to the running board and plunged a knife into Rowe's abdomen. Dr. Joy hurried the injured man to the hospital, where doubts are expressed as to his recovery. Several detectives have been assigned to the case."

Mr. Rowe's sisters at once got into communication with Mrs. John Rowe, through long-distance telephone, and learned that while the report is correct, his condition was quite satisfactory and his speedy recovery is anticipated.

RAISED STATUS OF LABORER

Joseph Arch Will Long Be Remembered as Champion of English Farm Workers.

From plowboy to member of parliament was the remarkable rise of Joseph Arch, who recently died at the age of 92. He was a unique figure in English parliamentary life, being in 1885 the sole workingman member of the house of commons. At that time there was no kind of labor party in existence there. Mr. Arch achieved fame as the champion of the English farm laborer when the tiller of the soil reared his family on a wage of $2 a week, subsisted chiefly on barley bread and hardly knew the taste of tea or sugar. In 1872 he enrolled 200 farm workers in an organization that came to be known as the National Agriculture Laborers' union, whose leaders the bishop of London wanted to duck in a horse pond. "Adult baptism," Mr. Arch rejoined to the bishop's statement, "is not the rule of the Church of England." Mr. Arch is credited with having done more than any other man to improve the condition of England's peasantry. He was popular in parliament. One of his constituents was the prince of Wales, afterward King Edward. He referred to Mr. Arch as "my member." Mr. Arch also was a Primitive Methodist preacher. He was fond of his pipe and an occasional glass of ale.

Mine Produces Coal and Sand.

A mining plant that is decidedly unique is located in Ohio. Both coal and sand are taken from the one property which consists of 150 acres. The surface strata is high grade molding sand and has an average depth of about nine feet. It is deposited on a bed of shale about five feet in thickness and under this is a seam of excellent coal averaging from 4 to 5 feet. Shipments of sand already have been made to foundries throughout the country. A considerable tonnage of coal also has been mined. As the shale strata is uncovered by the removal of the sand, steam shovels will be utilized to strip the shale, thereby exposing the seam of coal which will be mined in the open. In comparatively few localities is the coal seam sufficiently near the surface to permit of stripping. The sand is mined by steam shovel and is conveyed by mine cars to a stockhouse from which it is loaded into cars by a belt conveyor. A force of nine men can load 400 tons of sand a day.—Scientific American.

AUTOMOBILES ARE A BOON TO HEALTH

"The use of the automobile is an important factor in the health of the individual," say DECKER BROS., local dealers in Chevrolet passenger and commercial cars.

"The motor car conserves human energy. It makes it go farther.

"The man who uses an automobile in business finds that he can cover more ground in greater physical comfort and with less cost to his nervous system.

"To ride to work in one's motor is to arrive fresh and fit. Throughout the day, for necessary trips, it makes one independent of the confusion and uncertainty of other forms of transportation. And at the end of a busy day there is restfulness to be found in the convenience of one's waiting car, in its roominess, in its easy motion and its direct progress toward home or place of recreation.

"There is stimulating diversion also in driving one's car. There is a certain amount of concentration necessary that takes the mind off other matters and leaves one refreshed for the next occupation.

"Doctors especially, among professional people, have experienced the beneficial effects of motoring. They find it enables them to take care of more work in their communities and this in turn is reflected in the increased good they are able to do for the public health.

"Motor cars have also benefited the farmer. They shorten his hours of work. They eliminate many details of worry and work connected with the use of teams and other forms of transportation. They put the farmer and his family in closer touch with a wider range of wholesome interests.

"And for recreation, for restoring men and women to full vigor after a period of exhausting work, the motor car is a boon to health."
