THE CENTRE REPORTER, CENTRE HALL, PA.

quiringly.

YOUNG AMERICA.

Edison says the intellect of Young America is becoming atrophied. Huh! He should read Booth Tarkington's, "The Oriole." It's dollars to doughnuts he'd apologize like a gentleman and a scholar. For there are no indications of atrophy. about either the author or the "kids" he writes about in "The Oriole." No, sir. Quite the contrary. But what's the useread it. It's about the same characters that figure in "Too Gentle Julia." Enough said.

PART ONE -1-

By the end of October, with the dispersal of that foliage which has served all summer long as a pleasant screen for whatever small privacy may exist between American neighbors, we begin to get our autumn high tides of gossip. At this season of the year, in our towns of moderate size and ambition, where apartment houses have not yet condensed and at the same time sequestered the population, one may secure visual command of back yard beyond back yard, both up and down the street; especially if one takes the trouble to sit for an hour or so, daily, upon the top of a high board fence at about the middle of a block.

such a course would be thought peculiar: no doubt he would be subject to undesirable comment, and presently If, Indeed, not hostile inquiries; but parents and elders; and a boy can do such a thing as this to his full content, without anybody's thinking about it at all. So it was that Herbert Illingsworth Atwater, Jr., aged thirteen and a few months, sat for a considerable time upon such a fence, after school hours, every afternoon of the last week In October; and only one person particularly observed him or was stimulated to any mental activity by his

"What are. Florence?" "Cousin Herbert and that nasty little Henry Rooter." "Are you watching them again?"

her mother asked.

"Yes, I am," said Florence, tartly. "Not because I care to, but merely to amuse myself at their expense." Mrs. Atwater murmured deprecat-ingly, "Couldn't you find some other way to amuse yourself, Florence?" "I don't call this amusement," the inconsistent girl responded, not without chagrin. "Think I'd spend all my days starin' at Herbert Illingsworth Afwater, Junior, and that nasty little Henry Rooter, and call it amusement?' "Then why do you do it?"

"Why do I do what, mama?" Flor-Atwater's ever learning to put things clearly.

"Why do you 'spend all your days' watching them? You don't seem able to keep away from the window, and it appears to make you irritable. I should think if they wouldn't let you play with them you'd be too proud-" "Oh, good heavens, mama !"

"Don't use expressions like that, Florence, please." "Well," said Florence, "I got to use some expression when you accuse me of wantin' to 'play' with those two vile things! My goodness mercy, mama, I you just can't see through anything! don't want to 'play' with 'em ! I'm I've said anyhow fifty times they ain't more than four years old, I guess; Of course an adult who followed though you don't ever seem willing to real newspaper, and people buy it, give me credit for it. I don't haf to and everything. They have been all 'play' all the time, mama; and, any- over this part of town and got every way. might be called upon to parry severe Henry Rooter aren't playing, either."

"Aren't they?" Mrs. Atwater inboys are considered so inexplicable quired. "I thought the other day you that they have gathered for them- said you wanted them to let you play selves any privileges denied their at being a newspaper reporter, or ediwindow of the room, looked up in- they got a desk from that nasty little Henry Rooter's mother's attic; and a table and some chairs, and a map on the wall; and that's their newspaper office. They go out and look for what's are cries from the feminine popula-the news, and write it down in ink; tion of "I have looked at millions of and then they go through the gate to the other side of the railing where the printing press is, and print it for their newspaper."

"But what do they do on the fence so much?"

"That's where they go to watch what the news is," Florence explained morosely. "They think they're so grand, sittin' up there, pokin' around. They go other places, too; and they ask people. That's all they said I could be !" Here the lady's bitterness became strongly intensified. "They said, maybe I could be one o' the ones ence inquired as if in despair of Mrs. they asked if I knew anything, sometimes, if they happen to think of it! I just respectf'ly told 'em I'd decline to wipe my oldest shoes on 'em to save their lives!"

Mrs. Atwater sighed. "You mustn't use such expressions, Florence." "I don't see why not," the daughter objected. "They're a lot.more refined than the expressions they used on me !" "Then I'm very glad you didn't play with them."

But at this, Florence once more gave way to filial despair. "Mama, -aren't playing! They're getting up a Herbert and that nasty little aunt and uncle they have, besides their own fathers and mothers, and some people in the neighborhood, and Kitty Silver and two or three other colored people besides, that work for families they know. They're going to charge twenty-five cents a year, collect-in-advance because they want the money first; and even papa gave 'em a quarter last night; he told me so." "How often do they publish their paper, Florence?" Mrs. Atwater inquired somewhat absently, having resumed her sewing.

"Every week; and they're goin' to have the first one a week from to

IN NEW CHAPEAUX Latest in Millinery Models Are Plain and Simple.

Everything Droops in Some Little Way-Feathers Mark Season for Their Own.

The hat is the beginning and the end of one's whole costume. Yet, observes a fashion critic, if there is any other one article of feminine apparef which is more difficult to do satisfactorily, then let us see it at once. There hats, and can't find one that is becoming." Or, a still worse fate exists for the woman who blithely thinks that they are all more or less becoming and operates on that basis.

This year the hats are changing subtly. They are no longer the "round-and-round" affairs that they have been for some time past. That is, they diverge from this general rule most charmingly. And why is this? Because of the ways of the skirts. If they descend, then the hats must take on other lines in order to conform to the greater dignity of purpose. The newer hats are plain and simple, to be sure, but they are most decidedly different, even though this difference is of so hidden an origin that one must analyze the elements of the case to be certain where the difference lies.

way at least. And if it foregoes that pleasure of trailing its long way over the shoulder, then it has a tendency to take out the season's nature by means of thin and jutting feathers or in pompons or bunches of flowers or exotic fruits of one sort or another. But the feathers are the things that

SUIT OF PLAID POLO CLOTH

Beads in strings and strands! Feathers in rosettes, and tufts, and fan formation! Such embellishments make many a belle a lovely monument to the aboriginal fathers. stripes, much used for the composite suit all summer, continue in popularity. These rigs are shown as "coasting

Nº 2

Thin Blood Saps Energy-Gude's Pepto-Mangan Rebuilds the Blood.

(今年前年前) 國際語

2. 8 A. 1. 1. 2 . 3

Wrestling with a weakened condition of the blood is a desperate struggle. Thin, watery blood deprives the body of energy and causes a playedout feeling not unlike utter exhaustion. A man with weak blood has not the full use of his powers. He lacks decision, and vacillates until he losen self-confidence.

Some men, and women too, go faltering along for months scarcely realizing that they need Gude's Pepto-Mangan, the blood-builder. But when they have taken it for a while, what a difference there is in the feelings! The old-time vigor and the red-blooded hue of good health return. The new rich blood gets to work, building, fortifying, lifting the spirit up to its normal standard. Physicians have prescribed Gude's Pepto-Mangan for years as a blood-builder. Druggists sell it in liquid and tablet form. Look for the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package.-Advertisement.

She Had the Best of It.

"And you tell me several men proposed marriage to you?" he said, savagely.

"Yes, several," the wife replied. "In fact, quite a number."

"Well, I only wish you had married he first fool who proposed." /"I did."-London Tit-Bits.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why The sporting plaids, checks, and so many applicants for insurance are re-jected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applica-tions are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper. Advertisement.

procedure. Even at that, this person was affected only because she was Herbert's relative, and of an age sympathetic to his-and of a sex antipathetic.

In spite of the fact that Herbert Illingsworth Atwater, Jr., thus seriously disporting himself on his father's back fence, attracted only this audience of one (and she hostile at a rather distant window) his behavier really should have been considered piquantly interesting by anybody. After climbing to the top of the fence he would produce from interior pockets a small memorandum book and a pencil; seldom putting these implements to immediate use. His expression was gravely alert, his manner more than businesslike; yet nobody could have failed to comprehend that he was enjoying himself, especially when his attitude became tense-as at times it certainly did. Then he would rise, balancing himself at adroit ease, his feet aligned one before the other on the inner rail, a foot below the top of the boards, and with eyes dramatically shielded beneath a scoutish palm, he would gaze sternly in the direction of some object or motion which had attracted his attention; and then, having satisfied himself of something or other. he would sit again and decisively enter a note in his memorandum book.

He was not always alone; he was frequently joined by a friend, male, quite as old; and this companion was cisely similar to those from which er; they ain't playing sprang Herbert's own actions. Like Herbert, he would sit upon the top of the high fence, usually at a little diswould rise at intervals, for the better mama, can't you understand?" study of something this side of the horizon; then, also concluding like Herbert, he would sit again and write ence." firmly in a little notebook. And seldom in the history of the world have mently. "I guess it'd take more than without any great effort or any critiany sessions been invested by the participants with so intentional an ap- printin' press to get me excited ! I pearance of Importance.

That was what most injured their back window, upstairs at her own their vile ole necks!" place of residence ; she found their #mso extreme as to be all too plainly vis- them upset you so by their playing." ible across four intervening broad. back yards; in fact, there was almost formers were aware of their audience told you, mama, they're not 'playing.' and even of her goaded condition; and that they sometimes, deliberately increased the outrageousness of their importance because they knew she Saturday of that week, when the notebook writers were upon the fence at intervals throughout the afternoon, Florence Atwater's fascinated indignation became vocal.

"Vile things !" she said.

He Would Sit Again and Decisively Enter a Note in His Memorandum Book.

tor, or something like that, with them, politely informed 'em they could say away. Wasn't that it?"

Florence sighed. "No, mama, ert'nly wasn't."

"They weren't rude to you?" "Yes, they cert'nly were!" "Well, then-"

"Māmā, can't you understand?" Florence turned from the window to and, though shorter than Herbert, beseech Mrs. Atwater's concentration upon the matter. "It isn't 'playing!" inspired, it seemed, by motives pre- | I didn't want to 'play' being a report-

> "Aren't playing, Florence." "Yes'm, They're not. Herbert's got a real printing press; Uncle Jotance from him; like Herbert he seph gave it to him. It's a real one, "I'll try," said Mrs. Atwater. "You mustn't get so excited about it, Flor-"I'm not!" Florence turned vehe-those two vile things and their old cal delayings, produced a poem. don't care what they do; it's far less than nothing to me! All I wish is lone observer at the somewhat distant they'd fall off the fence and break

With this manifestation of imperportance almost impossible to bear sonal calmness, she turned again to without screaming. Her provocation the window; but her mother protestwas great; the important importance ed. "Do find something else to amuse of Herbert and his friend, impressive- you, Florence; and guit watching ly maneuvering upon their fence, was those foolish boys; you mustn't let Florence moaned. "They don't 'upset' me, mama! They have no effect reason to suspect that the two per- on me by the slightest degree! And I "Then what are they doing?"

"Well, they're having a newspaper. They got the printing press and an office in Herbert's ole stable, and evwas watching them. 'And upon the erything. They got somebody to give 'em some ole banisters and a railing from a house that was torn down . A thought is often original, though somewheres, and then they got it stuck you have uttered it a hundred times. up in the stable loft, so it runs across with a kind of a gate in the middle of these banisters, and on one side is Her mother, sewing beside another the printing press, and the other "ide, "What do they call it?"

"The North End Daily Ortole. It's the silliest name I ever heard for a newspaper; and I told 'em so. I told em what I thought of it, I guess !" "Was that the reason?" Mrs. Atwater asked.

"Was it what reason, mama?" "Was it the reason they wouldn't et you be a reporter with them?" "Pooh !" Florence exclaimed airily. I didn't want anything to do with their ole paper. But anyway I didn't make fun o' their callin' it the North End Daily Oriole till after they said I couldn't be in it. Then I did, you het !"

"Florence, don't say-"

"Mama, I got to say somep'm ! Well, I told 'em I wouldn't be in their ole paper if they begged me on their bented knees; and I said if they begged me a thousand years I wouldn't be in any paper with such a crazy name; and I wouldn't tell 'em any news if I knew the President of the United States had the scarlet fever! I just and they were rude and told you to go what they liked if they was dying; I declined so much as wipe the oldest shoes I got on 'em!"

"But why wouldn't they let you be on the paper?" her mother insisted. Upon this Florence became analyti cal. "Just so's they could act so important !" And she addded, as a consequence: "They ought to be arrest Mrs. Atwater murmured absently but forbore to press her inquiry; and Florence was silent, in a brooding mood. The journalists upon the fence had disappeared from view, during the conversation with her mother; and presently she sighed and quietly left the room. She went to her own apartment, where, at a small and rather battered little white desk, after a period of earnest reverie, she took up a pen, wet the point in purple ink, and

THE ORGANEST.

By Florence Atwater

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Great Men Once Book Agents. Longfellow, Mark Twain and Bret

Harte were among the subsequently famous authors who bridged povertystricken periods by peddling the works of already successful writers, Daniel Webster also hunted up orders for books, paying his second term's tuition at Dartmouth college by acting as agent for De Tocqueville's "America," and Bismarck in his early days at Heidelberg canvassed for one of Blumenbach's hand-books .- New York Evening Post.

---Holmes,

The lion in society may be a bear at

apparel" and just READE plain "sport suits."

Sweeping ostrich feathers, like long. silky black curls, trail down from the crown of a black velvet hat to the bit of white shoulder that appears above the low Eugenie neckline of a black crepe de chine frock.

Ermine is a trying fur in daytime for any but the young and lovely. A blonde debutante cannot go astray in her choice of a wrap if she chooses black crepe de chine lined with gold brocade and topped with an ermine collar, especially if the hat atop her shining curls is a black toque with crystal ornaments.

Duvetyn holds its own tenaciously in the bewildering display of new fabrics. It is very delicate in texture and rather perishable. But it is too lovely to be given escape from the modes. There are harder weaves that looks kinship to duvetyn in downy surface, including moussayne and erminie. The dovedown satin combines the dull luster of duvetyp with satin facing.

Rust From Steel. To remove rust from steel fire irons they may continue to scorn "stays."

Dusty Rugs.

Moisten some coarse salt with ker-

What could be smarter than this first rub them with a piece of flannel three-piece suit of plaid polo cloth saturated with ammonia. Then dry with beaver collar? It will have many with powdered bathbrick and polish with a dry cloth.

SLIP-OVER FROCKS POPULAR of corsets would be effected when fitten frocks came into vogue, but even this seems doubtful. The slim, youth-Garment Easy to Make-Any Home ful models who wear these new frocks Needlewoman Can Turn Out Satat various style promenades are corisfactory Model. setless, usually, and if only the very admirere.

The slip-over frocks of silk or linen. serge or cotton that are worn with a blouse beneath them to supply the The woman who is at all inclined to sleeves which they lack are tremen. be stout or to have hips that curve dously popular, but they are still must be well corseted or else shun the smart enough to pass muster. They tight bodice. are the easiest sort of thing to make and any home needlewoman could accomplish one satisfactorily. The edges are sometimes simply turned under and osene and sprinkle it freely over your machine hemmed. Sometimes they are solled rug; brush a little away; let refinished with a cording, sometimes main for five or ten minutes, then with a binding. Sometimes a white finish the rug. The oil (if you do not one, for instance, of linen, will be use too much) will gather the dust bound with red slik braid. Such a and the colors will be brightened, combination could hardly be put safely Moths are killed by the mixture of through the laundry, but the color con- salt and oil, so in addition to its trast is good, and that is all some de- original work, it acts as an extermi-signers think of, naturally. For the nator, home dressmaker, however, it is well to think of the practical side of life, and washable colors are on the practical side.

Younger Women Ban the Accessory Since Straightline Dresses Are in Favor. There has been considerable dis- ing away," are appropriate nests to masion of the corset subject since the hold an announcement of an engagetendency to somewhat fitted effects ment or a trip.

became evident. Many of the younger women have absolutely banned corsets during the past few years, espefresses came into prominence. vinegar. Use steel wool to remove It was thought a reaction in favor spatters of paint on window panes.

"Classes" for the newly appointed women magistrates have been held in London.

cially since the straight-line, one-piece panes apply a cloth dipped in hot LADIES-GASPER HAIRPINS lock the hair, CASPER & WASCHKO, HAZLETON, PA.

window should have its pot of parsley for winter garnishing.

To remove paint spots on window

Hints to Housewives.

Remove Paint Spots.