

If You Need a Medicine
You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores. Advertisement

FIRST TO HELP UNFORTUNATE

Idea of Teaching Deaf and Dumb Had Its Inception in Brain of Spanish Monk.

Search for the first man to conceive the idea of imparting knowledge to the deaf and dumb leads one into a cloister in the Middle Ages. There, in his little cell in a Spanish village near Madrid, the Benedictine monk, Pedro de Ponce, pondered in 1570 over the problem of how to make useful citizens of those who had been denied both speech and hearing.

Two centuries passed before modern England took up this charity, the Detroit News states. George Townsend finally succeeded in establishing a deaf and dumb asylum in London in 1792, and in 1810 Thomas Braidwood induced the city of Edinburgh to follow the example of the capital.

America's first deaf and dumb institution was not founded until 1890, after the famous William Van Praagh had introduced the oral method of teaching both in this country and England.

Air Traffic in Germany Grows

First Timetable and Schedule Are Published in Berlin, a Great Center.

COMFORTABLE AS STEAMERS

Fares Are Cheaper Than on Rival Lines in Other Countries, Though Engine Fuel is More Expensive.

Berlin.—Germany's first air traffic timetable has just been published here. It contains many interesting facts about the development of Germany's peaceful air fleet, which leading air navigation experts claim will become a strong competitor of the republic's newly organized railroad system at the very moment that the entente lifts the ban on the building of planes intended for peaceful air traffic.

Today Germany is rebuilding on the wreck of the old an entire new air fleet of modern construction. The modern airplane factories of Germany are equipping their planes with large, comfortable cabins and staterooms.

In the first eight months of this year 3,714 scheduled flights were made, against 1,878 flights in 12 months the year before. This not only indicates that this year more flights were made compared with last year but also that new air routes were opened and more planes were added to the fleet. The German Air Navigation service, as the associated enterprises call themselves, has today about 150 airplanes of one type or another at its disposal.

Berlin the Great Center.
The new air service schedule just published shows that Berlin has been made the center of all important air routes.

From Berlin there are daily trips to and from Brunswick, Dortmund, Dresden, Hamburg and Bremen, extended by the Baltic Air service of the Sablatnig airplane firm to Travemuende, Warnemuende and Sassnitz, making connections with the steamers leaving town for Sweden, Norway and Denmark.

Then there is the Danzig Air service, which co-operates with the Sablatnig service in maintaining the flying routes between Berlin and the East Prussian route—Danzig, Koeningberg, Memel—with connections at Riga and Revel.

The Lloyd Air Service Sablatnig has an additional route from Berlin to Westphalia, Muenster, Bremen, Wangerood.

The Rumpler Air service provides planes for the Berlin, Leipzig, Nuernberg, Munich, Augsburg route, and at Munich the Bavarian Air Lloyd provides transportation facilities by air to Constance.

Another direct service between Stuttgart and Constance is furnished by the Staehle Air line.

Then there is the Deutsche Luft-Lloyd, which has several planes traveling daily from Berlin over Magdeburg to Hamburg and Bremen, and from Bremen over Magdeburg to Leipzig and Dresden. At Hamburg and Bremen connections can be made with Dutch and Danish air lines for Amsterdam, Rotterdam and Copenhagen. From Amsterdam and Rotterdam, French and English planes take passengers to London or via Brussels to Paris, where air connections can be made for Spain.

German Lines, Cheaper.
Although the price for benzine and gasoline is much higher in Germany than in all the other countries the fares on the German air lines are the cheapest.

Travelers coming to Berlin can fly for two hours all around the surrounding districts for 200 marks—about $2 at the present rate of exchange. This price even includes the automobile from the offices of the Hamburg-American line or the North German Lloyd, both of which are in the downtown district, to the flying field, some ten miles out of town.

So far 5,581 persons have been transported by the regular air service

Hickory Cut Down as It Reaches 108 Years

Middletown, N. Y.—Probably the last hickory tree in this section, planted in honor of Andrew Jackson, has just been cut down at Walton, Delaware county, because it was so badly decayed.

When Jackson was elected President in 1828, Col. John Townsend set out the sapling, in honor of "Old Hickory." A count of the rings in the wood after the cutting showed the tree was one hundred and eight years old.

this year. During all of last year only 2,030 persons were carried.

This shows how rapidly the new air passenger service is developing in Germany in spite of the prohibitive articles of the Versailles treaty.

CHOLERA HAS RUN ITS COURSE

Coming of Cooler Weather Checks Disease Along Volga.

Medical Men With Knowledge of Health Conditions in the Region Say Death Rate Ranged From 50 to 75 Per Cent.

Samara.—Cholera has about run its course along the Volga for this year and, as the weather grows cooler, is disappearing very rapidly in spite of the weakened condition of the famine-stricken population and the unsanitary condition of impoverished refugees crowded into camps where there is absolute lack of sanitary precautions.

Vital statistics are lacking, but the testimony of medical men who have wide knowledge of health conditions in the Volga districts indicates that the death rate among persons who were taken with cholera ranged from 50 to 75 per cent. This was attributed to the undernourished condition of the population and lack of facilities to treat the malady.

Dr. Emily Burkhardt, a Russian physician who is now in the service of the American committee for relief in the Near East, with headquarters in Tiflis, visited the famine area recently to study the cholera situation.

She is an expert in the treatment of cholera and talked with many physicians and nurses who are battling with the disease in the famine area. The testimony of these medical men and women was that they were helpless because of the lack of beds for patients and proper facilities for their treatment.

"The work of the doctors and nurses has been highly dangerous and hopeless," Doctor Burkhardt said. "Underfed doctors and nurses who try to care for cholera patients without decent hospitals and every facility for protecting themselves against the disease know that they are really risking suicide."

"The greatest guarantee against cholera is a stomach filled with properly prepared food. Proper feeding generates acid in the stomach, which kills the cholera germs and makes the attendants immune."

"Years ago I saw one of my professors at the University of Moscow drink a pure culture of cholera germs to prove that persons who are in good health and properly fed have acid in their stomachs which combats the disease. He suffered no ill effects."

"The underfed medical men and women in the famine area undertake their task with the full knowledge that they risk death every time they touch a patient. Their hospitals are not screened. They have no saline solution and in most cases haven't the means for injecting it. They are without medicines and frequently without disinfectants."

UNITED STATES DISOWNS YANKS

Men Who Joined Spanish Army Hit by State Department.

Officials Say American Recruits Need Not Apply to Consuls or Diplomatic Agents for Assistance.

Two hundred and fifty Americans who have enlisted in the Spanish army and taken oaths of allegiance to the Spanish crown, are now at Ceuta, a debarkation point on the coast of Morocco.

They are awaiting transport to the zone where Spanish troops are waging war on Moroccan revolutionists.

These Americans are mostly veterans of the World war. Some of them were officers. They were picked up by Spanish recruiting agents in New York and New Orleans. Most of them joined the Spanish forces as a refuge from unemployment and starvation.

If the reverses and heavy casualties which thus far have marked the Spanish campaigns in Morocco continue when the Americans get into action, their chances of returning to the United States alive will be very slender.

Spain has used the same methods in colonizing Morocco she used in settling South America—murder, rapine and pillage. Her tenure of Morocco has been marked by a series of wars and rebellions, while French occupancy of adjacent sections of North Africa has been highly satisfactory both to natives and Europeans.

Lieut. Col. Victor P. Vidal, military attache of the Spanish embassy here, officially verified in an interview reports that Spanish agents had recruited in America forces for the Morocco campaign.

"We stopped a month ago," he said. "Up to that time we had accepted 250 men. Hundreds of applications still are pending. Many of the recruits were of Spanish or South American descent."

The State department declared it will have nothing to do with Americans in the Spanish forces, and that they need not apply to American consular or diplomatic agents for relief in case they get into trouble.
