The Republican newspapers throughout the country are naming William Gibbs McAdoo as the Democratic standard bearer in 1924. The way the same papers are trying to discredit him indicates the Republicans are just a bit afraid their prophecy will come true.

Remodeling for New Bank.

The transfer of the Reporter building to the First National Bank has been accomplished, the instruments necessary to the transaction having been passed at a meeting of the directors of the institution held Tuesday evening. The consideration is $12,000. Work on remodeling the private dwelling portion of the building for banking purposes will begin within a few days, and it is the purpose of those having the matter in charge to rush the work to completion. The construction of a vault which will be entirely new and altogether modern, will of necessity require some time. The remodeling itself as well as the placing of fixtures other than the vault and safe will require but little time and expense.

The cashier, H. Leigh Ehrhart, expects to be here the greater part of the time the work of construction is being done.

Caught 150 Trout.

The best success on the opening days of the trout season to reach the Reporter was that which came to a party of three fishermen—B. Gardner Grove, of Centre Hall; John Ream, of Brush Valley, and Earl Shreckengast, of Zion. The three gentlemen, with their wives, went to their camp in the Brush Valley Narrows the day before the trout season opened, and prepared the place for an enjoyable outing. On Saturday the men succeeded in getting the limit of trout each, and on Monday they repeated the performance, making a total catch of 150 trout which ranged in size from 6 to 14 inches.

PINE GROVE MILLS.

Our mutual young friend, Clyde Price, is sporting a brand new Liz. On going to the barn Friday morning Leonard Griffin, of White Hall, found his big stallion dead in the stall. William Rossman motored up from Pleasant Gap and spent Easter at the Fred Rossman home at Rock Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williams motored to Tyrone and spent Easter at the home of their son Fred.

Miss Catherine Dunlay is plying her needle among her lady friends in the Mountain City.

Elmer E. Royer is handling the ribbons on a Hambletonian stepper purchased of J. Harry Williams, and is grooming him for the fair.

Mrs. Clara Smith, of this place, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Mabel Martz, of Cleveland, Ohio, spent Easter with relatives at Altoona.

Miss Emma Johnson departed for Youngstown, Ohio, to aid her sister, Mrs. Wood, who is among the sick, having recently undergone a surgical operation.

Dr. C. T. Aikens, president of Susquehanna University, was greeted by old parishioners of thirty years ago. He was called to officiate at the Mrs. Cramer funeral, Thursday.

The election of a new pastor for the Lutheran charge—Gatesburg, Pine Hall and Pine Grove Mills—was held on Easter Sunday. Only one dissenting vote was cast in the election of Rev. J. S. English, of Maryland state.

Dr. Stork, on his rounds, left a little son—the first born—at the J. F. Musser home on the Branch. The little chap has been named J. Foster, and Grandpa Elmer Musser is all puffed up over the event at the old homestead farm.

"Squire Keller Dead. Jacob Keller, one of our oldest and best known citizens, died at his home on East Main street on Easter morning at 10 o'clock, after a long illness of hardening of the arteries, the result of several strokes of paralysis. He submitted to two surgical operations.

He was a native of Huntingdon county, where he was born on June 23, 1843, a son of Jacob and Mary Bottorf Keller, early settlers of that section. His boyhood days were spent on the farm, and later he learned the carpenter trade, following that vocation up until 1900 when he engaged in the coal business. When his health failed several years ago he was succeeded in business by his son John. On March 5, 1868, he was united in marriage to Miss Sara Jant Irvin, to which union twelve children were born, seven of whom are dead. Those living are: Irvin H. J. Milton and William W. of Pittsburg; John, of Pine Grove Mills, and Miss Ella, at home. Also one sister survives—Mrs. Mary Stoffey, of Newark, New Jersey; also 23 grandchildren and one great grandchild. Deceased was a lifelong member of the Lutheran church; politically he was a staunch Democrat and served as Justice of the Peace for twenty years; on account of ill health he resigned the office. He was prominently identified with every movement for the upbuilding of the town and community, and was a home maker, a loving father and husband. He was a resident here for fifty-four years. A good man has gone from among us.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, 19th, at 10 a. m., in the Lutheran church, Rev. W. P. Ard, of Bellefonte, officiating and paying a glowing tribute to his worth. Interment made in new cemetery at Pine Grove Mills.

A program educational and entertaining is broadcasted, and was heard on Saturday in Brookville, Houtzdale, Phillipsburg and Bellefonte.

Bedtime stories for the little folks with popular selections from the famous Bubble Book will be broadcasted every evening.

The call assigned this station by the government is W. P. I.

Centre County Near East Relief.

"Near East Relief has been obliged to cut its orphanage appropriations twenty-five per cent because of lack of funds. This means that thousands of children must be driven from its doorsteps to die by the roadside, who three weeks ago hoped for their chance at life. For they love life as your children love it." This is the latest message from New York.

As reports stand now 13 of the Armenian children "looking to Centre county" have been looking in vain and will be turned out with the others. What can you do about it? Surely Centre county will fall to and raise the $700 necessary to keep those thirteen children in safety and comfort.

DOCTORS EXPLAIN

HEADACHE CAUSES.

Interesting Paper Read at Regular Meeting of Millin County Medical Society.

An unusually interesting paper on the subject, "The Interpretation of Headaches," was read by Dr. H. W. Sweigart at the April meeting of the Millin County Medical Society, who very strongly emphasized the fact that in the majority of cases headache is only a symptom, not a disease in itself. Migraine, he added, is a peculiar and rather rare form of headache, usually affecting only one side of the head, generally the left side. With the possible exception of migraine, headache is always a symptom of some underlying condition, and the cause of the headache should be carefully sought.

Such cases might be one of the infectious fevers, as typhoid or malaria, and the older practitioners well remember the headaches when malaria was prevalent in this vicinity before the old canal bed was cleaned. Other causes of headache were described as over-eating, over-work, bad eyes, infected tonsils, and, especially in the young, adenoids. Since headache is only a symptom, and not the disease itself, the practice of merely treating the headache was strongly condemned.

SHOWED SKILL AS ENGINEERS

Ancients Did Remarkable Work Considering the Limited Mechanical Means at Hand.

That ancient Greek and Roman engineers were ingenious as well as skillful is proved by the works that are still extant, for instance when the Eupalinos, island of Samos, water-works mentioned by Herodotus were constructed in the middle of the sixth century B. C., a tunnel about one mile long was driven through the Kastro mountain, certainly a respectable achievement when one considers the limited mechanical means at the disposal of the builders. From the books of the Alexandrian mathematician Heron, one sees that ancient engineers knew how to figure beforehand the direction of a tunnel. The fine medical instruments, of which many have been excavated, give evidence of high mechanical skill. Ancient instrument makers manufactured clepsydras (water clocks) that could be carried in pockets and devices used by Herophilos to measure the temperature of patients. The present-day slot machine and taximeter are limitations of similar ancient inventions. Even to ballistic war machines ancient people applied ideas which play an important part in modern warfare—the "poly-bomb" being in a certain meaning, the predecessor of our repeating arms, and the "monakonk," of the mine thrower.

Credited With the Word Bohemia.

The novelist to whom nature owes the word bohemia—not in the geographical sense, but a moral condition—was perhaps Henri Murger, if the word can be ascribed to any one writer.

Henri Murger, novelist and poet, was born March 24, 1822, in Paris. He made attractive to his readers the irresponsible life of artists and students in Paris, and left some classic tales and songs of dissolute thriftlessness and literary impeccability. Murger was trained for the profession of law, became for a time secretary of Count Leo Tolstoy, but, like that earlier bohemian, Villen, he chose dissipation rather than decency. He died in a charity hospital in Paris in 1861. A monument has been erected to his memory, but not without protest. Several of Murger's songs have been translated by Andrew Lang in "Ballads and Lyrics of Old France," published in 1872.

Printing Stamps by Millions.

Few labor-saving machines are more ingenious in combining a number of operations, or more impressive in the amount of work they do, than the new stamp-printing presses of the United States bureau of printing and engraving. Each press, with two operators, moistens, prints, gums and rolls a total of 4,000,000 postage stamps in an eight-hour day, states an article in Popular Mechanics. The perforations are made both lengthwise and across, both the roll and the punches being adjustable for position. One operator, in front, takes care of the unwinding roll and adjusts its path to the perforators by means of a screw. The other operator, at the rear, regulates the speed of the machine and inspects the finished work. Finally, the roll is cut into sheets of 400 stamps each.
