Something to Think About
By F. A. WALKER

PUT FORTH YOUR HAND
WHEN you put forth your hand to feel the throb of the laughing water of a little mountain stream you touch the waters of the whole world!
So do you come in contact with the universe when with a hard word you touch the heart of a child, a dear friend, a father or a mother and leave a scar which in later years you would gladly give all you have to obliterate.
Words and water flow on and on forever, carrying with them their songs of cheer or their dirges of sorrow.
They purr in the sunlight or snarl in the storm, doing good or evil, leaving in their wake gladness or desolation, never stopping in their swift run to the great sea of eternity with which unconsciously all human lives are in touch.
Consider this and get from the thought a principle for honest judgment and noble action.
When tempted to blurt out an ugly word, hold your tongue.
When inclined to ridicule, be careful lest you humiliate, discourage and rob the miserable victim of his or her last ray of hope.

Uncommon Sense
By JOHN BLAKE

WHAT OTHERS HEAR
"THAT man isn't on the level," said a very experienced judge of humankind recently. "When he talks he doesn't mean what you hear."
Talkative, even persuasive people who don't mean what you hear are considerably too numerous in the world.
Their words sound plausible, convincing. You can hear them. But you cannot hear the silent thoughts that are going on in the head of the man who is talking to you; the thoughts that do not check up with the words at all.
You will learn in time that such men are not to be depended upon. Unless you are shrewd or widely experienced, you are likely to learn too late.
But never mind that. You will profit by what your first mistake costs you. And after that you will be a little bit cautious about words, unless you know that the thoughts behind the words agree with them.
Of course it is impossible for you, or for me, or for all the forces in this world, to make every man mean what we hear him say.
But we can at least contribute to the general sum of frankness and honesty by always meaning what the other fellow hears.
As it always pays to be on the level—a thing no crook ever seems to be able to discover—it will pay us to make our words express our thoughts, and nothing but our thoughts.
It is not necessary to pour out our hearts to strangers and acquaintances. It is not necessary to acquaint our friends with everything that is in our minds, although most men are far more secretive than is at all necessary.
When we do talk, whether much or little, we ought to speak our thoughts and not continually make mental reservations as we go along.
The writer knows of an able and brilliant man who might have gone far in the world but for a reputation for mental trickiness that he earned deservedly long ago.
He is not dishonest. He means nobody any harm. But in order to curry favor he is continually telling people things he doesn't mean. By and by the people get to comparing notes, and presently they have his measure.

Today he earns in his profession about half the salary he ought to earn, and stands about a quarter as high as he could stand, chiefly because he never means what the other fellow hears.
Words are an imperfect means of expressing thought, but they are all we have. If we use them to conceal thought we are getting very little out of them, and incidentally doing very poorly by ourselves.

CAKE FILLINGS
IF ONE is fortunate enough to have a cupful of sour cream a most delicious cake filling may be prepared with sugar and nuts. Boil one cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of white, or two of either, with one cupful of cream until it may be stirred into a waxy mass, then add one cupful of minced hickory nuts or any nuts at hand—pecans are especially good. Beat until cool and creamy, then spread on the cake.
Maple Raisin Filling.
Take one cupful of maple sugar, one-half cupful of chopped raisins, two tablespoonfuls of cream and one-half cupful of chopped bechnuts. Cook the sugar and cream, adding the raisins. Stir until cool, adding the nuts after taking from the heat. Fine filling for gold cake.

THE OLD SONGS

SWEET songs of old! How memory brings
Their music back to me
Until each bell of heaven rings
Salvation full and free!
"Joy to the world," the music sweet
Has filled a million souls,
And marked the time for marching feet
To where old Jordan rolls.
"I need Thee ev'ry hour," for I
Oft weary by the way;
And "while the years are rolling by"
Thou art my guide and stay.
"Abide with me" through calm and stress,
Protect me by Thy might;
My weak and faltering footsteps bless
With Thine own "Kindly Light."
The dear old songs! Their echoes fill
The quiet evening air;
They bid me bear life's load until
"There'll be no sorrow there."
"By cool Siloam's shady rill"
Whose waters floweth free,
Lead me each day and night until
"Nearer, my God, to Thee."
And when "on Jordan's stormy banks"
My feet shall stand at last;
When I shall see the ransomed ranks
From whom all care is cast,
"O there may I, though vile as he"
Christ did that day behold,
The city's walls of Jasper see
And walk its streets of gold.

SCHOOL DAYS

THE FRIENDLY PATH
By WALTER I. ROBINSON.
AIM high.
"If you hit the mark, you must aim a little above it; every arrow that flies feels the attraction of the earth."
This was the advice of the great poet, Longfellow. By following this rule he won lasting honor, and scattered sunshine throughout the world. But even with all his success, one finds conclusive evidence in many of his writings that he was never satisfied. He never quite gained the place he aimed to reach, according to the estimate placed upon his work by himself.
A man is unfortunate if he is absolutely satisfied. This assertion has been widely contradicted. But proof of its logic is found in the careers of all the truly great.
If he is satisfied with what he has done or is doing, he never is likely to get much further unless pushed ahead by sheer luck.
To everyone there comes a feeling of satisfaction and happiness whenever he accomplishes something which brings him returns in gold or honor. But there may still be something lacking to make his joy complete if he does not see the benefits of his labors reflected in the smiles of the world.
No matter how high he may go in the opinion of others, there is certain to be a feeling of resentment in his own breast if he believes he is leaving undone some service which will add to the joys of his fellows.
The most inviting pathways are bordered by blossoms. The happiest lives are surrounded by smiles.
Let us aim to deserve the honest praise of thankful friends.

TANLAC KEEPS HIM FIT, SAYS MCGRAW
Has Used It for Years With Splendid Results—Fine for Run Down Condition.
"For four years Tanlac has kept me in the pink of condition as I take a few doses of it every time I feel a little run down and it always builds me up again," said Wm. A. McGraw, 207 Beach Place, Tampa, Fla.
"I began taking Tanlac first about four years ago when I was in a very bad state of health and had been run down for several years. I was always taking laxatives, too, but I believe they did me more harm than good. "Tanlac made me feel like a brand new man in a very short time and I have never had a return of any of my old troubles. The reason of this I am firmly convinced is that I always have Tanlac handy and take a few doses every time I feel a bit under the weather."
Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.
