

HARBOR TALK.

More lonesome than a lonesome ship at sea.
The sailing moon rides beautifully by.
Blown from such purple harbors as may be
In unimagined corners of the sky.

She is not careless where she gazes down
On sleepy streets the silver silence fills.
But thoughtful ever of a little town.
And foolish-fond of little wooded hills.

Sea-folk are given so to telling tales,
I think the moon, when she puts in at last,
May spin a story where she reefs her sails—

And there her talk of shorelands that she passed
Is all of glistening meadows, ghostly still,
A sleepy town . . . a lonesome little hill.

HOTEL HAS OWN NEWSPAPER

Decidedly Novel Journalistic Enterprise Recently Launched by Large New York Hotel.

A novel journalistic enterprise has been started by a large New York hotel, which issues a daily newspaper for the benefit of its patrons. It is a four-page sheet, and a copy of it is placed under the door of each of the rooms in the hotel every afternoon at five—the psychological hour when the guest returns from matinee or shopping and drops into a chair for half an hour's rest before dressing for dinner. Its editor is a woman who has had considerable experience in the editorial and circulation departments of various American newspapers and publishing houses. She keeps her finger on every news detail in connection with the hotel, and has secured the willing help of the employees in making her acquainted with everything of interest that is going on.

But the most notable feature of the paper is its interviews. The editor interviews two prominent guests every day of the week. Among those from whom she has extracted good "copy" have been explorers from Borneo, importers from Hong Kong, deep-sea divers from South America, diplomats from France, church dignitaries from Italy, princes from India, writers, sculptors, dry goods merchants, office-holders and office seekers. She has often had to provide herself with the assistance of two interpreters, for sometimes her victim can speak only French or German or Italian or Spanish or Russian or Chinese or Japanese.

Solves Lathe-Work Problems.
A very comprehensive machine-shop rule, now on the market in New York, makes possible the solution of many problems in connection with lathe work, without the lengthy calculations that would be otherwise necessary. From graduations on one face of the rule, which is about 1 1/4 in. wide, there can be read: the number of revolutions in proportion to the diameter of the bar and the cutting and grinding speed; the time required to turn or grind a bar in proportion to its length and rate of feed and revolution; the volume of metal removed in proportion to the depth of a cut, the rate of the feed and its speed; and the area machined in proportion to the rate of the feed and the cutting speed. On the other face of the rule are very complete inch and metric graduations, so that it can be used as an ordinary measuring rule.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Superstitions of the Airman.
It has been noticed lately at the London air stations that one express pilot before ascending walks along the same strip of grass to reach his machine and moves round the tail of it always in the same particular way. This, he says, is his invocation to the god of chance.

Instances are coming to light of the superstitions of the airman. The other day, just before a machine was to leave, a notice board standing near it fell. A friend laughingly said to the pilot, "You're in for a rough trip." The airman was indignant. "Don't say a thing like that," he exclaimed, replacing the board again. Telling the tale afterward the pilot said: "I was not a bit surprised when not long after I had started my engine suddenly gave trouble and forced me to land."—From the Continental Edition of the London Mail.

WITH OFFICES AT 139 S. McALLISTER ST., STATE COLLEGE, PA., IS ONE OF THE FOREMOST CHIROPRACTORS OF THIS SECTION AND ENJOYS A LARGE CLIENTELE FROM ALL THE SURROUNDING TERRITORY—A MAN OF EXCELLENT EDUCATION, WIDE ATTAINMENT AND AN EXPERT ON SPINAL ANALYSIS, WHO HAS BROUGHT RELIEF AND HAPPINESS TO MANY.

Science has progressed perhaps more rapidly during the last decade than in any previous period of the world's history, and one of the sciences that has been brought to a high degree of perfection is that science and art of chiropractic.

We are fortunately represented in this profession here in this county by this well known chiropractor who is a close student of the times, and during the term of service in the profession has kept thoroughly abreast of the times by reading, study and wide research. He is a doctor of excellent standing, wide professional ability and considered by others in the profession as one of the most expert upon spinal analysis and adjustment in the country, and as a consequence enjoys a practice that is ever increasing.

He is a graduate of the foremost college of chiropractic, one of the best schools in the profession, and also having post graduate work which has been used to a marked advantage since locating in this community. Previous to this time this prominent chiropractor received a general and special education, preparing to a marked degree for the work that the profession embraces.

The science of chiropractic is founded upon the principle of spinal adjustments as the spine is the index to your health and removes causes by relieving pressure on the nerves. The slogan is: "If the spine is right, the man is right." Consultation and analysis are free to all and anyone who is not feeling in the best condition should call around and have an examination or an adjustment or two taken in time is a powerful preventative and may save you much future trouble and pain.

People from all over this section come for consultation and have chiropractic spinal adjustments made that invariably result in a very beneficial manner. These people are of high standing in the communities in which they live and in this edition we are glad to compliment him upon the excellent standing he has attained in the profession and upon the high character of his work and the assistance he is lending in keeping the people of this section of the country in a good, healthy condition.

TOMMY KIT'S DREAM.

MRS. TABBY felt highly insulted one morning when she went into the barn and found five traps placed near holes where the mice lived. "The very idea," said Mrs. Tabby to her four kittens, "just as if I could not attend to this without these traps around."

"Children, I want you to pay strict attention to what I say, for you are now old enough to help, and it may be that I have given more time to playing with you than to my work. Now you must help. I want each of you to watch near one of these traps and when a mouse runs out of its home don't let him get into the trap—CATCH HIM!"

After telling her children this, Mrs. Tabby sat down to watch near the fifth trap herself and soon all were so busy watching for a mouse that they forgot each other.

Tommy Kit, however, grew tired of watching and after staring hard a

Kit. "I'll run right off to mother and show her what a smart son she has."

"CLICK!" Tommy Kit opened his eyes and there in the trap was a mouse, and at the sound his brothers and mother turned and looked. Tommy felt very much ashamed, for there was not a mouse in the other four traps.

"Why did you let him get past you?" scolded his mother. "Your brothers have each caught one. I am ashamed that a child of mine should be so stupid."

"But I did catch two," said Tommy Kit, not quite sure he had dreamed it. "I had one in each paw when the trap clicked. I could not catch three, mother, now could I, for I have only two front paws!"

"Two mice at the same time!" exclaimed his mother.

Tommy Kit was now wide awake. "I—I guess I dreamed it," he said. "I dreamed I caught two mice, one in each paw, and I was just going to show them to you when the trap clicked."

Mrs. Tabby quickly boxed her son on the ear. "You fell asleep, did you?" she said. "Now you sit here and catch two mice before you get a drop of milk."

Off trotted Mrs. Tabby with her other children, while Tommy sat sadly watching the hole. Out ran three mice and Tommy ran after them. He caught one and then seeing the other hiding behind a barrel he quickly went after that, while a third was so frightened he ran right into the trap. "I could not help it mother," exclaimed Tommy Kit, as he proudly displayed the mice.

"That is all traps are good for," said Mrs. Tabby, "to catch the third mouse while you are chasing two, and now you children must catch two mice and drive the third into a trap. We will soon clear this place and be rid of these insulting traps as well."

But it was not long before all the kittens were sprawled out in the sun fast asleep, for they had cleared the mice from the barn; but Tommy, if he had any more dreams, did not tell them to his mother.

(Copyright.)

The dog had introduced into the house his long time at the hole he was to watch he grew sleepy and, curling up on the floor, soon was fast asleep.

Tommy Kit had the mouse on his mind, though, and so he dreamed about mice, and in his dream he thought two fat mice ran out of the hole he was set to watch. Up jumped Tommy Kit and pounced upon them, catching a mouse in each paw.

"I guess none of the others will be as smart as I am," dreamed Tommy

"THE LITTLE BLACK HEN"

Said the little red rooster, "Gosh all hemlock! Things are tough. Seems that worms are getting scarcer, and I cannot find enough. What's become of all those fat ones is a mystery to me; There were thousands through that rainy spell—but now where can they be?"

The old black hen who heard him, didn't grumble or complain, She had gone through lots of dry spells, she had lived through floods of rains;

So she flew up on the grindstone, and she gave her claws a whet, As she said, "I've never seen the time yet, there were not worms to get." She picked a new and undug spot; the earth was hard and firm, The little rooster jeered, "New ground! That's no place for a worm."

The old black hen just spread her feet, she dug both fast and free, "I must go to the worms," she said, "the worms won't come to me." The rooster vainly spent his day, through habit, by the ways Where fat worms had passed in squads, back in the rainy days. When nightfall found him supperless, he growled in accents rough, "I'm hungry as a fowl can be, conditions sure are tough."

He turned then to the old black hen and said, "It's worse with you, For you've not only hungry, but you must be tired too. I rested while I watched for worms, so I feel fairly perk,

But how are you? Without worms too? And after all that work?" The old black hen hopped to her perch and dropped her eyes to sleep, And murmured, in a drowsy tone, "Young man, hear this and weep, I'm full of worms and happy, for I've dined both long and well, The worms are there, as always—but I had to dig like hell!" Oh, here and there, red roosters still are holding sales positions, They cannot do much business now, because of poor conditions, But soon as things get right again, they'll sell a hundred firms— Meanwhile the old black hens are out, and gobbling up the worms.

WITH MILLING ESTABLISHMENT AT MILLHEIM ARE EXTENSIVE PURCHASERS OF WHEAT, CORN AND OATS AND OFFER THE FARMERS OF THIS PART OF THE STATE THE HIGHEST MARKET PRICES—HEADQUARTERS FOR FLOUR AND FEED—AN INSTITUTION THAT IS OF GREAT BENEFIT TO THE PEOPLE OF THE COUNTY—McMULLIN BROS. ARE MASTER MILLERS AND EXCELLENT BUSINESS MEN.

The community which provides the farmers in the county surrounding with a market for their grain and other products is the one which will attain the greatest measure of prosperity. The fact that this mill pays the highest prices consistent with the conditions of the market brings many dollars worth of business to the county and aids in no small degree in making this a more live and progressive community.

The proprietors know the business from beginning to end. The application of progressive, business methods and the sustaining of the mill's reputation for fair and honest dealings has won for its home town a prominent place in the business life of this section. It is essentially a local mill. It is a custom mill and a feature with it is the grinding department, where this work is done by men who know-how. It is important that grinding be done by men of experience and this branch of the work has been giving universal satisfaction. Every day is grinding day and the farmers have come to know that this is headquarters in this section for this work.

The mill is a large purchaser of wheat and allied lines and the fact that the storage is tested to its capacity during the season is a guarantee of the extensive business transacted. Here always the highest market prices are paid and as a consequence hundreds of farmers in the county have come to know that this is a safe haven to drive in when they have anything in the line to dispose of.

An exchange business is conducted on a very advantageous basis and has become exceedingly popular among the farmers all over this section. The dealing along this line is on a par with their other business. The managers and establishment are important features of the life of the community, and no matter what may be your needs in this line, when you call at the place you will find them courteous and accommodating.

Their charges are always right. They are of the prominent business men of the county and worthy of extended mention in this review of our progress.

There are no more public spirited citizens in the community than the management of this well known establishment and in making this view of the onward progress of this section of the state we wish to compliment them and to direct your attention to this establishment as one of the reliable business institutions of the community that has added to the development and progress of this part of the state.

WITH EXTENSIVE HARDWARE ESTABLISHMENT AT BELLEFONTE ON ALLEGHENY ST., CARRIES STANDARD LINES OF HARDWARE, ASSURING THE CUSTOMERS OF HIGH CLASS HARDWARE AND SPECIALTIES AT UNIFORM AND REASONABLE PRICES—A STORE THAT HAS A LARGE PATRONAGE FROM THE SURROUNDING TERRITORY AND CARRIES AN IMMENSE STOCK OF GOODS.

This huge and commodious store is headquarters for all classes of hardware, modern cooking utensils and supplies of every description and farm supplies. So large is the stock and so comprehensive it draws trade for miles around.

It is comfortably housed in a very modern building where every convenience for the handling of the large stock has been provided both for the convenience of the force and the accommodation of the public. To convey an idea of the mammoth stock of this concern we might go on for a long time, and still omit some very important items. Suffice to say, however, that here you will find everything you would expect to find in a modern store and hundreds of other articles that we could not call to mind off-hand.

The stove department is one of the features of the store where they have a full line of stoves of all models. These stoves have on them the latest fuel and labor saving devices and in these days of high prices of fuel it behooves everyone to be very careful of the kind of a stove that they buy. This line will pay for itself in a short time in the saving in fuel.

In the way of paints, varnishes, and painters' supplies the stock is large and most complete. No matter what you may desire in the way of paints, you will find a most complete stock at this store.

The hardware department includes a full line of shelf hardware, tools, cutlery, and those many little accessories that go to make up the stock of a modern hardware store of the period.

In the builders' hardware department you will find all kinds of builders' supplies, including standard lines.

This store specializes on high grade standard lines of goods which are sold as reasonably here as any place on earth. This assures the customer of a square deal. Here are a few of the lines they feature: Detroit Red Star vapor oil stoves, Dutch Bay and Carter white leads, W. W. Lawrence & Co. paints, genuine Townsend lawn mowers, straight line poultry netting, Lehigh Portland cement, W. Atlee Burpee's famous garden seeds, galvanized and asphalt roofing, screen doors and windows.

One of the features of the service is the accommodating policy of the management. They are well read on all the latest phases of the business and stand ready and willing to give you any information you desire. They are courteous and ready to serve you in this manner and your asking of questions incurs no obligations.

We wish to compliment them upon the valuable service which is being furnished the people of this community and to give them a place among those concerns in this section which are aiding in the progress and prosperity of this community.

John Haugh & Sons

AT 106-108 NITTANY AVENUE, STATE COLLEGE, PA. ARE AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN THE BUSINESS AND AGRICULTURAL LIFE OF THIS PART OF PENNSYLVANIA, OPERATING GOLDEN SUNSET FARM, THE HIGHLAND GROCERY CO. AND BEING THE HEADQUARTERS FOR IRON AGE POTATO EQUIPMENT AND IMPLEMENTS—A FIRM THAT TRANSACTS AN EXTENSIVE WHOLESALE AND RETAIL BUSINESS.

In this entire part of the state there is not an establishment that surpasses that of this well known dealer in point of the diversity of articles carried for the farmer. They handle Iron Age implements of all kinds, farm machinery and farm supplies. During the time that they have been in business they have built a wonderfully large trade from this and adjoining counties and it is safe to assert that the name and business is probably better known among the farmers of this section of the state than that of any other similar establishment in the nearby towns and cities.

In this age it is essential that every farmer procure the latest machinery for the farm in order that he can compete with the modern scientific producer and secure the largest returns from each acre of land. This concern has not only provided machinery, but it has selected lines that are known the world over and are being used as standards of design and quality by the farm industry. These all have stood up under every test and have proved to be of the most correct construction for all classes of farm work.

With that business acumen and foresight which has won such wide popularity and patronage for the company in the past, the management has anticipated the needs and demands of the people of this section of the state and the establishment of this company is one of the busiest spots in this section and the business has grown to large proportions and the demand is far surpassing even their largest expectations, this firm still specializes in rendering individual service to every patron. Courteous and efficient to a marked degree the manager has surrounded himself with employees who, like himself, are thoroughly conversant with every feature of the business, and as a result the work moves along at a most rapid and highly satisfactory manner.

They operate the Golden Sunset farm, being an excellent farm of 260 acres, which is devoted to the raising of all kinds of green goods, which is disposed of both in a wholesale and retail manner. They have a fleet of trucks for delivery and render their customers the best of service. This business is conducted under the name of The Highland Grocery Co.

In making this review of the progress of the county we are glad to compliment this firm upon the prominent position they occupy in the business life of the county because of their large and varied industry.
