The true artists in photography are few and far between. What a difference when your friends remark, "Oh, that is a good photograph of you," and when they say, "I don't like that at all." There is only one way to make absolutely certain of getting the best there is in photography and that is by going to a studio with a reputation. In this respect we suggest this studio. By the way, have you noticed the display case of this popular studio recently? Here you will find from time to time the familiar faces of the best known people of the surrounding country, which one is engaged and in photography one must be a true artist in the line in order to achieve success. In all "quick action" work it has become the popular studio in the profession and wherever they are called their work elicits commendation. In fact it has become a popular saying that they are prepared for superior work "anything, anytime, anywhere."

Their line of work embraces all branches of commercial photography. The success of this studio and its liberal patronage that it receives from the people of that community, is due to the uniform good work that is turned out there and the fact that in this studio only competent and experienced artists are employed. A person must know the profession in which one is engaged and in photography one must be a true artist in the line in order to achieve success. That is why this studio has become so popular in this section, and why its patronage is ever increasing.

Walter R. Mason

WITH OFFICE AT 220 EAST COLLEGE AVE., STATE COLLEGE, CONDUCTS A MOST COMPLETE SERVICE IN INSURANCE OF ALL KINDS—AN OFFICE NOTED FOR ITS COMPREHENSIVE KNOWLEDGE, EFFICIENT SERVICE AND THE COURTESY AND ACCOMMODATION WHICH MARKS ALL THEIR TRANSACTIONS—IF YOU ARE NOT SATISFIED WITH YOUR INSURANCE GO IN AND HAVE A TALK WITH THEM.

This is an office that is aiding in the retention of the wealth of the county and has protected many people from losses that otherwise might have placed them in a very embarrassing position.

A wide familiarity with the laws of the state, the rules of the companies and a broad general knowledge of business and value of property places them in a position to render the most efficient and comprehensive service. They handle all kinds of insurance such as fire, accident, life, compensation, plate glass, factory, liability, automobile and in fact carry everything included in the general insurance line of the day. They are very accurate as to rates and if you do not think you are paying the right rate or are not insured in a strong enough company, drop in and have a talk with them.

Service is the watchword of their office and they render the most efficient and courteous service. They will not permit your insurance to lapse without notifying you in plenty of time to protect yourself.

In case of fire or other cause for adjustment they are very prompt in making settlement and often adjust some of the matters right in their office. This is a very important feature of the modern policy and should be taken into consideration when making the selection of a firm with whom to transact business.

In making this review of the onerous progress of this community we are glad to compliment him upon his standing in the business and professional world of this section of the state and to refer the place to all of our readers as one worthy of the fullest consideration.

WHY So Many People Are Killed by Mushrooms.

Numerous fatal poisonings from eating "mushrooms" reported in the news this summer were not due to mushrooms at all, says the American Forestry association of Washington. The association says the greatest care should be taken in selecting this article of food. In an article in the American Forestry Magazine attention is called to a statement by Prof. Louis C. C. Krieger, who said:

"To ask a person to gather his own mushrooms for the table without previous instruction that will enable him to avoid the deadly kinds, is equivalent to not worse than inviting him to put his unprotected hand into a den of rattlesnakes. Indeed, of the two risky performances, the latter would be the safer; for there are at least two known antidotes for rattlesnake venom, whereas there is none for the poison or poisons of the exceedingly common Amanita phalloides and its multitudinous forms and varieties."

On the same subject Dr. R. W. Shufeldt, C. M. Z. S., writes in American Forestry:

"Every word of this can be indorsed and inasmuch as the poisonous species of mushrooms met with are numerous, and often closely resemble some of the harmless ones, one should be as certain of diagnosis of a harmless or edible species as knowing black from white, or arsenic from gunpowder."

"When properly prepared, some of our mushrooms stand among the most delightful foods known; and when the forester is serving far from civilization, in a country where many species grow in plenty at certain seasons of the year, it is of great advantage to him to be able to gather with certainty as to their non-poisonous qualities, a mess of these delicious morsels for his morning or evening meal. But, mind you, "there's death in the cup"; and, unless one is certain of the species beyond all doubt, it is decidedly better to stick to the regular camp fare and pass the mushrooms by."

HUMAN OPTIC MOVES THINGS

Why the Superstition of the "Evil Eye" May Have a Foundation of Fact.

At a meeting of eye-specialists held in Oxford, England, a startling announcement was made by Dr. Charles Russ, M. R. C. S., L. R. C. P. It was that, after three years of patient research, he has proved by means of a delicate instrument, that the human eye radiates a form of power or energy, which can be measured upon his instrument. The operation of the instrument in question was proved in the congress, and a sensation was created by the announcement of his remarkable discovery.

The instrument was a brass cylinder in which was hung a delicate spiral of fine copper wire. This solenoid was wound upon a cylinder of celluloid and was suspended by a fiber of unspun silk, contained within a long glass tube. A small magnet held the solenoid in position, and the apparatus was electrically earthed by a connective wire.

Doctor Russ proved that if he concentrated his gaze upon one end of the suspended body, through the window-slit, it would sway away from him; when he looked at the opposite end, it swayed toward him, and when he looked directly at the center of the body, it was stationary.

This apparatus, therefore, seems to show us that there is a definite force radiated from the human eye, and that, when one person looks at another, a real form of power is thereby transferred. This force Doctor Russ believes to be physical in character, probably akin to heat or the electric rays, though its nature has not so far been determined.

It is interesting to note, in this connection, that "occult science" has taught this for many years.

Why France Had Poor Crops.

During the year 1861 the harvests of France gave an unusually poor return, and a commission to investigate the cause of the deficiency was appointed at the instance of the minister of agriculture. The commission took counsel of experienced naturalists, St. Hilaire, Prévost, and others. By this commission the deficiency was attributed in great degree to the ravages of insects which it is the function of certain birds to check. The commission placed the blame for this condition on the French people, who had destroyed millions of birds.

Why Centrifugal Gun Was Dropped.

After testing out the centrifugal gun at Aberdeen proving ground, the ordnance department has decided that because of its great weight and its inability to obtain high initial velocity no centrifugal gun can have military value. The centrifugal gun is a perennial. This last report is one of several adverse judgments that have been pronounced against it by expert authorities.—Scientific American.

Why She Chose Friday.

Two stars were discussing the wedding of a third.

"Why did Elfrida choose Friday, of all days, for the ceremony?" inquired one.

"Well," explained the other, "you see, she had been married on each of the other days, and not one of the matches had turned out lucky. So she thought she'd try Friday just for a change."

JAIL OR ROLL 'EM UP, GIRL IS TOLD

She Chose Jail and Says, "It's None of City's Business How I Wear My Stockings."

Miss Louise Rosine, who admitted she is a novelist of Los Angeles and thirty-nine years old, most emphatically declared it was "none of the city's business whether she rolled her stockings up or down," and is now in the city jail in a state of mutiny and uncovered knees at Atlantic city, N. J. She has avowed she will fight her arrest in the courts, even if it must go to the United States Supreme court.

her and informed her courteously it was against the regulations there.

"I most certainly will not roll 'em up," she told the bluecoat. "The city has no right to tell me how I will wear my stockings. It is none of its business. I will go to jail first."

The policeman then said he would have to take her there. As he took her by the arm, she is alleged to have swung a wicked right to the official's eye, nearly flooring him. He recovered and blew his whistle. Lifeguards responded and Miss Rosine was taken to jail in the wagon.

The officer, his glasses broken and his dignity ruffled, has preferred a charge of assault and battery in addition to disorderly conduct against Miss Rosine.

Advised by the police matron to roll up her stockings, the novelist still refused, and, according to the latest reports, is occupying a cell in the glory of uncovered knees. She was, further, refused to try to get bail.

DOG CHEWS WIG; OWNER SUED

Girl Loses Headgear While on Gay Yachting Trip at New York.

New York.—A gay party on a rich man's yacht resulted in a lawsuit. It was learned, when a dog belonging to the owner of the yacht chewed up the blond wig of one of the guests. The yacht was George L. Triffon's Saraphis.

Miss Alice Bloom is a model and former chorus girl. Recently she had her hair bobbed. But soon it began to fall out. She went to a beauty doctor, who said he could save her golden locks if she would consent to have her head shaved. Reluctantly she did this. Then she bought a lovely blond wig. It cost her $125.

On the yacht, Alice began to notice that the damp air was taking the curl out of her wig. She went below and took it off, returning without it.

At what hour the dog, Gyp, observed Alice's headgear is not stated in the complaint. But that he did take a fancy to it is stated specifically. When Gyp had finished with the wig there was scarcely enough of it left for Mr. Triffon to have overboard, which he did. Alice sued for the value of the wig, but settled the case for $50.

Big Cod Gulps Down a 12-Pound Salmon

Victoria, B. C.—Reputable eye-witnesses solemnly state that a local fisherman, while trolling for salmon at Brentwood, hauled in a huge cod. The cod, on being ripped open, was found to contain a whole salmon weighing 12 pounds. It is asserted. The salmon had gulped down the bait, and in turn had been inhaled by the hungry cod.
