THE REPUBLICAN PROGRAM.

Bonus Bill to be Shifted Onto President's Shoulders.—At Seas As to Ship Subsidy Measure.

The Republican legislative program as near as one can guess, which is the only means of knowing what the Republicans propose to do, for they never really have a definite program about anything, is to send the Tariff bill to conference by Sept. 1, and then to adjourn about Oct. 1. The interval between these two dates is to be devoted to a consideration of the Bonus bill.

It is generally understood and accepted that President Harding will veto the Bonus bill in its present form or any bonus bill that does not provide for a sales tax, so that the big taxpayers will escape payments and that the tax will fall upon the general public made up of small taxpayers.

With the responsibility on the President for vetoing the bill, it is thought that a number of Republican Senators can be brought to permit the passage of the bill even though they are opposed to it. In this way they expect to fool the soldier by voting for the bonus knowing that it will never become a law.

Just what Congress intends to do about the Ship Subsidy bill, which President Harding insists shall be passed before adjournment, is not definitely known. The general impression is that Congress will not attempt to pass the bill before adjournment, although President Harding has threatened to reconvene Congress if it fails to do so. There is no terror, however, in Mr. Harding's threats, because like railroad time-tables they are subject to change without notice.

In the meantime, it is assumed that the members of the House are finding out the views of their constituents with respect to the Ship Subsidy bill. If they really learn the truth, it may be safely predicted that there will be no Ship Subsidy bill before adjournment.

DEATH RECORD.

FLEISHER.—The following is reprinted from the Jamestown (N. Y.) Evening Journal, and refers to the death of a former Potter township citizen, a brief mention of whose death was made in the issue of this paper of last week:

Jared B. Fleisher died at his home, 731 East Second street, at an early hour this morning, aged 76 years. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Chester L. Guernsey of Jamestown, and Miss Leonora Vesta Fleisher, of Washington, D. C. He was born at Centre Hill, Pa., March 14, 1846. His great grandfather was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, and his grandfather was killed in battle in the War of 1812. His grandmother, Mary Boone Fleisher, was a near relative of Daniel Boone of Kentucky pioneer fame.

In youth Jared B. Fleisher attended the public schools of his native town and later attended college at Albion, Mich., being compelled to retire on account of illness. When 19 years of age, he became interested in the production of oil, which claimed his attention for the remainder of his life. He drilled the first oil well on the Royal Scott farm near Tidoute, Pa., and thus was a pioneer in the development of the great oil field of Fagundus more than 50 years ago.

He was united in marriage to Emma V. Scott of Fagundus, Pa., to whom was born three children, Willie S. and Emma Viola, who died in infancy, and May Fleisher, the wife of Chester L. Guernsey, of Jamestown. He came to Jamestown in 1880, but continued more or less interest in oil operations in the Petrolia and Bradford fields, but for many years had led a retired life. Some years after the death of his wife he was united in marriage to Miss Dora Johnson, to whom was born one daughter, Miss Leonora Vesta Fleisher, of Washington, D. C.

WEAGLEY.—Mathias Weagley passed away at his home at Spring Mills, after a siege of sickness that lasted for months. His health had been failing for the last few years but of late he grew weaker rapidly, and finally had a paralytic stroke from which time he got worse although he was conscious up to within a short time of his death. He was aged 63 years, 4 months and 21 days.

He leaves the following to mourn: His widow and two daughters, Mrs. John Albright and Mrs. Ralph Ziegler; two brothers, George, of Spring Mills, and James Weagley, of Bellefonte, and one sister, Mrs. Greeninger, of Freeport, Ill. One daughter died about 28 years ago.

Mr. Weagley was always a hard working man, farmed one of the Allison farms for 33 years, but for the last five years he lived retired, still always busy. He was a member of the M. E. church and was buried last Thursday forenoon in the Spring Mills cemetery.

BOALSBURG.

Clyde Smith had the pleasure of entertaining his brother from Philadelphia over Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Breen and children, of Ohio, are spending some time with Mrs. Breen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cori and Mervin Kuhn and family motored to Maitland, Mifflin county, Sunday, to visit the Hummels, who are relatives.

Roy Coxy moved to Pine Grove Mills last week where he will start in the butchering business. Samuel Roberts has moved into the house vacated by Mr. Coxy.

Merchant A. J. Hazel and wife and little daughter Jane, and Mrs. Charles Faxon are on a motor trip to York state where they are visiting Mr. Hazel's daughter, Mrs. Florence Maxwell. They expect to be away about two weeks.

Seniority Rights Rejected.

Railway executives of the nation on Tuesday firmly but courteously rejected the program advanced by the Harding Administration for the settlement of the rail strike.

Willing to accept conditionally two suggestions put forward by the White House—that both sides abide by wage decisions of the Railroad Labor Board, and that lawsuits springing out of the strike be withdrawn, the heads of 148 roads declared emphatically that it was impossible to reinstate strikers with unimpaired seniority rights, the third provision in the President's plan.

Notice for Settlement.

The books of the late Robert D. Foreman, of Centre Hall, deceased, have been placed in the hands of the undersigned. Parties having claims against him, as well as those indebted to the estate, are requested to be governed accordingly.

Foreman Grain House Sold.

The Foreman grain house and coal yards were sold a few days ago by Mrs. Savilla Breen Foreman, executrix of her husband's estate, to William McClenahan, for many years a drayman in Centre Hall. Rumor has the price set at about $4500. The buildings are located on Pennsylvania Railroad ground under a lease.

This business was originated about 1895 by B. D. Brislin, who about two years later sold it to George W. Ocker. In 1902 co-partnership was formed by R. D. Foreman and W. F. Flory, who took over the business from Mr. Ocker. A year later this firm sold to a new partnership between Mr. Foreman and Lyman L. Smith, who conducted the business until 1910, during which year Mr. Foreman took over his partner's interest, continuing the business until his death a few weeks ago.

The business was sought by several parties, but it was finally agreed to sell it to Mr. McClenahan, who is about to take actual charge of it.

Tubercular Cattle Killed.

Eight head of cattle, consisting of six milch cows, one heifer and one bull were destroyed on the farm tenanted by H. E. Shreckengast, east of Centre Hall, during the past few weeks, the last lot, five in number, having been killed on Friday of last week. The carcasses were taken to the Milesburg fertilizer plant.

The animals were ordered destroyed under the direction of Mr. Mitterling, of Hollidaysburg, a state agent, after being tested and found tubercular by Dr. Neidigh, of State College. Mr. Shreckengast received an average of about $11.00 for the cows, out of which the cost of testing was taken. The loss to him was considerable, the cows having been grade Holsteins and Guernseys. On finding some of his cattle not doing well, Mr. Shreckengast reported their condition to the state authorities and out of this the action grew. He has now on the place three cows that are free from the disease.

Deer Killing Case Ends.

A case of interest to sportsmen of this state was decided at Clearfield a few days ago when Gerald Hayes, 16-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Leo Z. Hayes, of Brynedale, was fined $100 and costs, on a charge of killing a buck deer illegally.

The case was prosecuted by Field Game Warden W. Clair Kelley, of DuBois, and has been hanging fire since last hunting season. More than a score of witnesses were heard. He admitted that he killed the buck in question, but the points at law revolved about the killing of another buck two days previous, in which Hayes is said to have had a part. It appears that he was a member of a hunting party near Winterburn that came across a buck deer that had been slightly wounded by a party of Falls Creek hunters. A member of the Brynedale party, named McKnight, shot at the buck and wounded it fatally. It was claimed by the defense, J. D'Anna, of Falls Creek, with Hayes and McKnight ran the deer, D'Anna finally catching it and throwing it. It was badly wounded and Hayes shot it through the head to "end its misery."

He claimed that the buck belonged to McKnight but the two parties had a squabble over ownership and it was finally divided. There was bad blood, however, and when Hayes continued to hunt and killed a buck two days later he was reported. The defense based its legal battle upon the claim that the first buck was already as good as killed when Hayes put it out of its misery, and that he was entitled to kill his buck. The prosecution contended that the laws made no distinction upon such a point and that when Hayes fired the shot that summarily ended the life of the first buck, he had completed his buck shooting for the year and was not entitled to kill another buck.
