

MRS. FRANK WILKIE, of Syracuse, N. Y., formerly matron at the State Reformatory at Industry, N. Y., who says she is delighted with Tanlac since it restored her health after she suffered eight years.

"This is the first time in eight years that I have been free from stomach trouble and it is all because of the wonderful good Tanlac has done me," said Mrs. Frank Wilkie, 229 Cedar St., Syracuse. Mrs. Wilkie formerly resided in Buffalo and for two years was matron of the State Reformatory at Industry, N. Y.

"I was eating scarcely enough to keep alive," she declared, "for I would rather not touch a bite than suffer the misery I knew would follow. Even sweet milk disagreed with me. I was sick in bed for two and three days at a time, and gas on my stomach made such awful pressure on my heart it almost cut off my breath. I had horrible dreams at night and in the morning was all tired out."

"Well, the longest day I live I will praise Tanlac, for my improvement has been simply remarkable. I have no more heartburn, my appetite is wonderful, I can eat most anything I want, and my sleep is sound and restful. I am thoroughly delighted with Tanlac. It is wonderful."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Advertisement.

Export of Chinese Hair Menaced.

China's export pigtail industry is threatened by the preference of American women for double hair nets, according to a report to the Commerce department from Consul Gauss at Tsinan.

Manufacture of double hair nets, the report said, threatens to reduce the human hair set business very much, as the double hair net long outlasts the single net, and advices in China indicate that an association of hair net importers has been formed in the United States, one of its objects being to discourage the making of double nets. It is estimated, the report added, that unless the double net is driven off the market the hair net business in China will decline by 75 to 80 per cent.

The SANDMAN STORY

THE LEAFLET'S DANCE

ONE day before the flowers had bloomed or the buds come out the little Leaflets began to complain to the Trees where they lived that they never had any fun; that no one ever noticed them, either, for all the Blossoms and Fruit took the attention from them.

"We never have a party or anything," sighed the Leaflets, "and no one cares anything about us. But if it were not for us I am sure the Trees would look queer and the Fruit or Blossoms would not be half as beautiful."

By and By the Moon Came Up.

In vain did the Trees tell them that they were beautiful, and that everyone loved to look at their shining green dresses, but still the little Leaflets grumbled and fussed, and at last all the trees talked it over one night, and it was decided that the Leaflets should have a dance all by themselves, before the Blossoms or the Fruit came.

As all the festivals and parties take place on moonlight nights, the Trees waited until the moon was shining full and bright, and then they told the Leaflets about the dance.

All the little Breezes were invited to help with the dancing, and even Brisk Wind was asked to come around for a while. The Soft Sighing Winds were asked to furnish the music, for the Trees wanted the Leaflets to have a wonderful dance.

When the little Leaflets heard they were to have a dance they could not keep still, and long before the dance began they were swaying and fluttering about, practicing all the fancy steps they could think of for the wonderful dance.

By and by the Moon came up and the dance began. The Little Breezes were their partners, and they enjoyed the frolic as well as the Leaflets.

Suddenly some of them discovered their shadows on the ground, and they danced faster than ever. In fact, old Mr. Moon grew tired and sleepy and went to bed, and still the dance went on, for now they had found something that amused them the Leaflets would not stop. They tired out the Little Breezes and they went home; and not until then did the Leaflets stop dancing.

It was a long time ago that the Leaflets held their first dance, but ever since they are always calling the Little Breezes or the Brisk Breeze to come and dance with them.

Often, when all the rest of the world seems quiet, if you look at the young Leaflets you will no doubt see some of them, at least, swaying and swinging, trying new steps and watching the shadows they make on the ground.

Never since that night long ago have the Trees been able to keep the Leaflets from dancing; but, as they never fuss or complain, the Trees do not mind. And so, while they sleep, the little Leaflets go on with their dance, sometimes even dancing in the rain.

By MARJ MARSHALL DUFFEE

SPEAK TO FRIENDS

DON'T be one of those careless individuals who walk along the streets with their heads bowed, forgetting to look up when they pass their friends.

You will really find it a social acquisition if you cultivate the habit of keeping your eyes open, ready to greet your friends when you pass them in the street. You will acquire a reputation for friendliness and thoughtfulness that is quite worth while.

It is especially the part of anyone who has lived for a long time in a community to recognize the newcomers. She should remember that it is harder for one newcomer to remember a hundred old residents than it is for each of the old residents to remember the newcomer.

However, if you are the newcomer, make it your life work for a few weeks to remember the persons whom you meet in your new home town, for much of your future social success depends on recognizing the people you meet the next time you meet them. Many an undesired reputation for snobbishness has been the result of carelessness about remembering new faces. And you can remember new faces and the names that go with them if you give your whole mind to it.

Income.
 Speaking of overhead and excess baggage, the census bureau adds up and reports that the value of all American farm products raised in 1919 was $21,425,623,014.

The income of all Americans combined in the same year was $85,900,000,000, or over three times the farmers' income.

The farmer, for actually producing everything that feeds and clothes us got only a third of the pie!

Out of each $3 farmer gets $1, city men $2.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

FACTS about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

PATRICIA

IT CAN truthfully be stated, without fear of pushing, that Patricia is a patrician name. It signifies "noble" and comes from the Latin pater—father—which was the source of "patria," the "fatherland."

The patricii were the privileged class of Rome since its members were descended from the original thirty fathers, or patres. Patricius, meaning the noble, was the title given to the young Roman-British Calpurnius who was stolen by Irish pirates in his youth and, when ransomed, returned as an apostle to the land of his captors, bringing the name of Patrick, which is so popular and so revered in Ireland, in memory of the patron saint.

Patricia is a Scottish invention, according to etymologists. The name made its appearance there as the feminine of the masculine Patie, which was the Scotch form of Patrick. Though Patricia spread to England and won great popularity there and later found vogue in Ireland, no attempt has ever been made to change its form or spelling.

Patty, which is often thought to be the diminutive of Patricia, has no relation whatever to the noble name. It is the diminutive of Mary, in its rightful sense, and means "becoming bitter."

The ruby is Patricia's talismanic stone. It is the gem of kings and promises for its patrician daughter courage, a dauntless ambition, success, and bodily health. Wednesday is Patricia's lucky day and 7 her lucky number.

The Friendly Path

By WALTER L. ROBINSON

HELP YOURSELF

"MAN is in the world to overcome himself."

How often have you thought of this when finding fault with the world in general because you thought your luck was hard? It's a safe venture to guess that most unhappy persons never even consider their own positions from this angle.

Too many blame others for their own misfortunes when they could find the fault at their own doors. Too many consider their luck bad when it is better than they deserve. If they recognized their own shortcomings or tried to overcome them when acknowledged, they'd frequently overcome their worst handicaps.

If one starts out to get somewhere he isn't likely to reach his goal as quickly as he desires if he sits by the side of his pathway and hopes for some miracle to happen which will bring him to the desired destination without climbing up the hill.

Once in a lazy motorist will overtake the laggard and give him a lift. But the chances are against such good fortune when the pathway follows an upgrade course. For few stop to pick up passengers while trying to reach the top on "high."

Cub Tricks.
 He had been a newspaper reporter long enough to consider himself well past the "cub" stage.

It was 2 a. m., barely an hour before press time, when the phone bell rang. Replacing the receiver after a few excited "Whats?" and "Whens?" he grabbed his raincoat and telling the city editor there was a big train wreck on the W. and N., rushed out.

Breathless, he gasped at the bridge watchman ten minutes later;

"Where's eighty-five? Did she sink?"

"Where's what? Yuh crazy?" asked the watchman.

"I'm from the Clarion; we got a report train eighty-five just ran off the bridge."

"It did. It does every morning about this time. Whaddya think—this bridge goes everywhere with the train?"—Everybody's Magazine.
