KIMBERLY FARMERS died poor because they claimed they couldn't make a living on their farms; yet their children were playing with diamonds in their very fields.

—Lots of folks are just like these poor Kimberly farmers. They search for opportunities far away with field glasses when real ones are close at hand, within their very grasp. Buying opportunities in big city stores tempt some people—appeal to their imagination; but wise buyers know that close at home in their home stores can be found just the things they want.

—Merchandise assortments offering variety, quality, style and value, and price concessions, too, may be had right in Centre Hall or in Altoona—the center of Your Shopping District. Don't miss the advertisements in your local newspapers; they are the business mines of opportunity and will save you time, effort and money.

---Remember---Altoona for what you can't get in Centre Hall.
