Stands for Stronger Volstead Act, International & Industrial Peace, Aid for Mothers and Children, Opposes Canes and Ring Rule.

Major Hastings Released.

Major William H. Hastings, a brother of the late Daniel H. Hastings, former governor of Pennsylvania, was released from the eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia a few days ago and went to Erie to round out his years, "to be left alone and to die alone outside prison walls."

The prisoner was serving a twelve year sentence for attacking his nephew, Ross A. Hickok, of Harrisburg, in 1913. He is 80 years of age and a well educated man of letters and art connoisseur. He was convicted of shooting Hickok and several policemen during a dispute over settlement of the will of the late Daniel H. Hastings. His release was brought about by an appeal from the Woman's Relief Corps of the G. A. R.

London Gayety Girls.

Griff Williams' London Gayety Girls, the famous musical comedy, will be at the opera house, Bellefonte, Friday night of this week. It has an all-star cast, with Benny Small, Eddie Welch, Sue Milford and twenty beautiful chorine girls. See the surprise finish.

DEATH RECORD

ALLISON.—Hon. William Allison passed away at his home at Spring Mills, Tuesday afternoon, after an illness of several years, during which time he was unable to care for himself. His condition was due to several strokes of paralysis which left their mark on both body and mind.

Mr. Allison was a descendant of Archibald Allison, Sr., who with his family came from Ireland in 1773. Archibald Allison, Jr., grandfather of the subject of this sketch, sought for himself a home in Pennsylvania and located at Spring Mills. It was here that William Allison, Sr., was born, in 1794. His wife was Miss Sarah McNitt, and these children were born to the union: William M., Esther E., married to Dr. J. F. Alexander, Centre Hall; and Archibald, Bellefonte.

Hon. W. M. Allison was born November 4, 1850, in Gregg township on the farm where he died. He began business at Potters Mills, where he and his brother Edward conducted a woolen factory. In 1887 he moved to Spring Mills where Allison Brothers purchased the grist mill, which was conducted by them until sold a few years ago to the present owners. He married Miss Laura B. Higman, of Corning, N. Y., in 1880. She became the mother of four children, namely, Charles E., Mabel, William H. and Frank.

Mr. Allison was several times a candidate for political offices. After being defeated by but a few votes for the legislature, he was successful in being elected by the Republicans for the 1886-1888 term, and in 1900 he was again elected to the same office for the 1901-1902 term. He also held minor township offices and was much interested in the advancement of the school system and was a member of the Gregg township school board.
For a number of years Mr. Allison was a stockholder in the Penna Valley Banking Company, a private banking institution, and during the greater part of that period was its president. In his home community Mr. Allison was a leader. He was prominently connected with most of the local undertakings and if he was not identified with the movements there was, as a rule, much hesitancy on the part of many citizens to join in them.
Interment will be made Friday afternoon, 2:00 o'clock.

BRIGHT.—On Monday morning was received at Centre Hall of the death of Dr. John W. Bright, which death occurred in Philadelphia to which city he and his family moved from Rebersburg several years ago. Dr. Bright was well known throughout Centre county. He was a son of Samuel Bright and was born in Aaronburg, November 17, 1854, making his age almost sixty-eight years. He graduated from Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in 1880, and eight years later pursued his studies further abroad. His wife, who survives, before marriage was Miss Sarah Meyer, of Rebersburg. There survive also three daughters, Mary E. and Florence and Lucile, twins.

BOY KILLED BY BULL.

Younger Brother, Badly Hurt, Saved by Barking of Dog.

Attacked by a bull while they were driving some cattle in late on Sunday, Reed Allison, aged 12 years, was trampled to death and his brother, Archibald, aged 10, was seriously injured. The boys had been sent out on horses to bring in the cattle on their farm near Jacksonsville and were warned, not to dismount, owing to the danger from the bull. As they were unable to get the cattle together, both boys got off their horses and the bull immediately attacked them. The barking of a dog alone saved the younger lad, as it gave him time to crawl over a fence before the bull charged him the second time.
The boys were sons of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Allison, and lived about one mile southeast of Jacksonsville.
The bull has since been killed.

Our Weekly Primer Lesson.

Yes, dear children, that is going to be a bridge. It takes some men a long time to build a bridge, but it may be finished some day. Yes, those workmen are alive, don't you see them move at times. No, there are only a few men on the job. If they had too many men working the bridge might be finished before winter. Yes, we must pay to cross the little wooden bridge. You see a man put that thing there and folks pay to get over it. Yes, everybody pays toll, some pay more than others. Yes, this is the first bridge this contractor ever built. He will know more about the next one, maybe. It is a great convenience to the public, but who cares for the public? No one, but the man who rakes in the shekels from the toll gate.
The above is reprinted from the State College Times and refers to the bridge being built between State College and Lemont. The Times in its Primer Lessons fails to lay the blame where it belongs—that is, to the county commissioners.

SEPTEMBER COURT.

Great Amount of Work Before Court Expedited by Defendants Entering Plea of Guilty.

September session of Court convened Monday morning at 10 o'clock with the Hon. Henry C. Quigley on the bench and the Court officers in their usual places.

The first business taken up by the Court was in going over the civil list of cases on the trial list for the present term. A number of cases were continued and several settled.

The case of Elsie M. Hall vs. State Centry Electric company was settled. The case grew out of an accident causing the death of Elwood S. Hall. Considerable time was consumed in hearing motions and petitions as presented by the several members of the Bar.

The grand jury was called and sworn, and O. J. Harm, coal operator of Snow Shoe, selected as foreman, and after being charged by the Court as to its duties, retired to the grand jury room to pass upon the several bills of indictment that will be laid before it by the District Attorney.

List of traverse jurors called and absentees noted and excuses allowed wherever it would work a hardship for the juror to remain.

The following criminal cases were disposed of on Monday afternoon, being cases where pleas of guilty had been entered by the several defendants.
W. Howard alias Doctor Powers, entered a plea of guilty for stealing a pair of horses and wagon from John A. White and driving them through Centre Hall and on to the east where he was captured. Sentence, $100 fine, penitentiary from five to six years.

Commonwealth vs. Roy Gentzell; prosecutor J. O. McCormick; defendant being charged in two cases with adultery, and defendant appeared in open court, waived the finding of the grand jury in both cases and entered a plea of guilty. The court passes sentence to pay the cost of prosecution and paroled the defendant for the period of two years.

Commonwealth vs. William A. Stewart; prosecutor Marshall M. Akers, State College. The defendant being charged with carrying concealed weapons and wantonly pointing firearms. The defendant waived the finding of the grand jury and plead guilty as charged.

Comm. vs. same; prosecutor Eugene Strunk, the defendant being charged with aggravated assault and battery. The defendant plead guilty; sentence $100.00 cost of prosecution and undergo an imprisonment in the county jail for the period of six months.

Comm. vs. Robert Leathers; prosecutor Edward Bartley, charging the defendant with forgery to a check of $65.00. The defendant is a young man and the court sentenced him to pay the costs within three months and paroled the defendant in the custody of Harold Fisher of Union township; with the further condition that the defendant earns the money, the amount of the forged check to be paid to the prosecutor.

Comm. vs. William Kutz, prosecutor Daniel Brink; charged with selling liquor without a license. The defendant wived the finding of the grand jury and plead guilty and upon the showing that the defendant was an invalid and the sole support of an aged mother of about 87 years. The court suspended sentence on condition, however, that the defendant not repeat, and pay the costs within three months.

Comm. vs. J. T. Yarnell, charged with selling liquor without a license; prosecutor, Harry Burris and Daniel Bloom. This case is from Snow Shoe and the defendant waived the finding of the grand jury and plead guilty and was sentenced to pay the costs, $100.00 fine and undergo an imprisonment in the county jail for a period of six months.
The first case taken up for trial and jury selected, was J. Henry Showers vs. Newton O. Weber, and is an action in trespass from Miles township. This case continued until a part of Tuesday afternoon, and was the result of the closing of a road by Mr. Showers which it was claimed had become an open road by continuous and uninterrupted use for from 40 to 60 years. The jury found in favor of the defendant which in effect declares the road open.
The grand jury reported it had passed on twenty-four bills, eighteen of which were found true. It recommended that the exterior woodwork be repainted and the whitewash on the interior be removed and calcimine be used. It termed the mattresses "dirty and filthy" and recommended that army cots be supplied instead.

On reading the recommendations of the grand jury the Court gave expression to the fact that the jail was in very bad condition and that it had been so recognized heretofore and had been condemned by state authorities. The Court commended the jury for its recommendations and congratulated it for having accomplished so large amount of work in the brief space of one and one-half days.
The Court called before the bar a jury who was one and one-half hours tardy and could give no other excuse than that he had gone home after having been empaneled on a jury and was unable to reach the court house sooner. The Court tried to impress him that it was his duty to be punctual and that it was only on account of the good spirit of the attorneys at the court's work had not been greatly delayed.
