COMMUNITY DAY AT SPRING MILLS

A Success in Every Detail—Large Crowd in Attendance at All Sessions—Exhibits Larger and Better.

Over 800 people enjoyed the varied program prepared for the annual Community Day at Spring Mills, on Friday of last week.

The health program in the forenoon was instructive. Fun Lu, the Health Clown, amused and impressed the children with her quaint stories and antics. The noon lunch was palatable, as the hungry who partook of it can testify.

The weather was so comfortable that the afternoon program was conducted on the campus, the speakers using the school porch as a platform, the crowd grouping itself on the front lawn. Dean R. L. Watts gave a most interesting and practical address. Prior to the address the Dean had carefully gone over the exhibits and in his address referred to the improvement in the variety and arrangement of exhibits. He spoke at some length upon the importance of the Rural Community Vocational school and stated that there should be more of them in Pennsylvania.

Dr. J. D. Blackwell of the Vocational Bureau at Harrisburg was well received in his address on The Relation of the Individual to the Community. He emphasized the fact that the individual to be worth while in his community must cultivate the spirit of unselfishness and cooperation. A man is either an asset or a hindrance to his community, each should examine his own attitude toward the community.

The athletic games conducted by the class in agricultural education of State College were participated in with zest and were highly enjoyed by those who took part and by those who cheered from the sidelines. Much credit is due the college group who so efficiently carried out the sports program.

The tempting aroma of fried chicken coming from the direction of the Vocational kitchen reminded everybody of that part of the program scheduled for 5 P. M., and a large crowd was standing in line awaiting the word to pass to the dining room where over 200 enjoyed the toothsome chicken dinner prepared by the Home-Making Department, accompanied by tantalizing strains from the Sigma Nu orchestra.

The evening program proved to be entertaining in a high degree.

A crowded house greeted Dean Watts who in Mr. Blackwell's stead awarded the prizes to the successful exhibitors of the day. The list of ribbon prizes totaled 140; the money prizes about 25; both too long to be given in detail here. The prize for the best Township School exhibit was awarded to the Hoy School (Miss Rena Wagner, teacher). The second prize to the Farmers Mills School, and third to the Spring Mills Grammar School.

Wells and Hart, two clever monologists from the College, together with the orchestra, entertained the crowd for more than an hour, after which all hid themselves to the gymnasium where they witnessed a four-round boxing bout by the Rothrock Brothers, and two good basket ball games—one between teams of the Vocational girls' squad and one between the boys' town team and the Vocational boys. The events at the "gym" closed the day's program, thus closing one of the most helpful, pleasant and beneficial days in the history of Spring Mills.

H. M. Myers, of Tyrone, owner of the State College bus line, has been awarded the contract for carrying the United States mail between Tyrone and State College, effective November 1st. The route will be known as the State College route.

The Community Spirit.

Last year in connection with the community day in connection with the Gregg Township Vocational School, the writer stated that the citizens entered into the spirit of the occasion and that the Vocational School was finding its way into the hearts of the people. This year the same thing may be said with added emphasis. The school is becoming popular and is being supported by practically all of the people in the district because it has proven itself to be worthy of that support. The institution has had its trial in the court of the people who pay the bills and has won its case on every count. The people are not merely enthusiastic over the period of the Community Day, they are heart and soul with the institution three hundred sixty-five days in the year. That counts. With such a spirit, everything that ought to succeed will succeed.

If you were to ask twenty well-taxed people in Gregg township what the one leading motive power of the Gregg Township Vocational School is, nineteen would say Prof. Gehr, and the twentieth would agree. Gehr is not a stationary engine, he is a tractor, with ample drawbar pull and belt power. He is available in all fields of usefulness—educational or otherwise. With Mr. Gehr, of course, is a corps of trained instructors, each having his or her special line of work: Prof. Bennett, supervisor in agriculture; Edwin Dale, assistant in agriculture; Miss Watts, economics department; Miss Wieland, academic department.

The new wing of the school building is not entirely completed but was in use for the occasion. When this addition is supplied with its equipment, the school facilities will be well up to the present day needs.

To the average Vocational School student the dearest place of all is what was once used to store provender for the old faithful family horse and cow—the hay mow of the barn to the rear of the school building. This has been converted into a gymnasium and answers the purpose admirably, as will be attested by several hundred men, women and children who witnessed the sports there on Friday night. And, my, how the youngsters did put the pep into their play! They could have done no better had their life depended on their success.

In another column will be found an account of the activities of the day.

Institute November 13-17.

County Superintendent D. O. Etker, has announced the week of November 13th to 17th as Teachers' Institute week, and the session will be held in the Court House. He has mapped out an interesting program of instruction and entertainment covering the five days, with himself as president, assistant superintendent H. C. Rothrock and John B. Payne, head of the Vocational schools as vice presidents, Prof. S. S. Williams secretary, and Prof. Henry M. Hosterman and F. Milford Fletcher as registrars.

The instructors will be Hon. Albert Johnson, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg; Dr. Lee L. Driver of the same department; Dr. L. H. Beeler, educator and lecturer, Chicago, Ill.; Supt. Richard Clark, Director Research and Measurements, Pittsburgh public schools; Prof. Ted R. Griffith, musical director, Edinburg; Miss Marian Horton, pianist, Phillipsburg.

STONER—ILGEN.

The marriage of William Stoner, of Centre Hall, and Mrs. Emma Ilgen, of Farmers Mills, took place at the Methodist parsonage, Spring Mills, Wednesday evening of last week. Rev. C. F. Catherman being the officiating minister. On Friday the couple came to their home, the Stoner farm, at the Centre Hall railroad station, and that evening were greeted by a band of serenaders, whom the couple met pleasantly and made them happy with a handsome cash contribution.

Mr. Stoner is one of Potter township's most successful farmers. The Reporter extends its best wishes to the couple.

route and will be for the carrying of newspapers and first-class matter. The first trip will leave Tyrone at 6 a. m., returning from State College at 7:15 p. m.

The senior editor of the Reporter never busted any buttons off his shirt in behalf of women getting votes, but now since they are entitled to the ballot and eligible to office he proposes voting for Miss Zoe Meek for member of Assembly. He will vote for her not because she is a woman, but because he believes her better fitted intellectually, temperamentally and morally than her competitor. He believes she will truly represent every section of Centre county. She is a woman of wide gauge and broad vision and is worthy of the support of every Democrat and Republican regardless of their previous opinion on woman's vote question.

Potato Crop of Over 3300 Bushels.

Gregg township has a real potato grower in the person of Harry H. Decker, who lives with his parents North of Penn Hall. During the past year he was married to Miss Wolf, of Spring Mills, and this move led him to do things for himself and his handsome little bride. Last spring he leased land in various sections, secured Michigan free-of-disease seed potatoes, potato planter, modern spraying outfit, and potato raiser, investing in all about $1000, and went to work. The seed was carefully planted, thoroughly cultivated and sprayed throughout the season. The result is a crop of thirty-three hundred and sixty-six bushels. Some of the potatoes have been sold and the remainder are being stored.

The Boro Road-Makers.

The borough officials have been repairing a stretch of road leading from the foot of the hill to the borough line on the mountain. The road had been rounded up and in the center a light coat of gravel was spread and on this from two to three inches of crushed stone was hauled, and then rolled without being sprinkled with water.

Various comments have been made on this style of road repairing by various citizens and the consensus of opinion is that the results will not warrant the expense. The writer's personal opinion is also inclined that way. In time past we have had a very great deal of money, in the form of taxes squeezed from property owners, spent without adequate return. Blunders in the expenditures of taxes have very largely exceeded reasonable judgment until we are prone to conclude, that almost every move made is in the wrong direction, so the method of the present road repairing must first be proven as good before credit for it can be given.

$60 Would Have Bought Klinger Bridge

A story is being circulated, and it appears to be true, that when the little bridge above Lemont was closed to the public, Mr. Klinger, now the detour bridge keeper, telephoned the county commissioners that if they would give him sixty dollars he would give them the privilege of the public passing over his private grounds. The reply was that $60.00 was too much. The result is that Mr. Klinger has collected several thousand dollars from travelers in tolls of ten cents, which fee is small for the service rendered. But for the pig-headedness of the county commissioners, if the Reporter's informant is correct, $60.00 invested would have saved the taxpayers several thousand dollars, and the end is not yet. True it is, two detours were furnished, but both of them would be avoided by any sane man even if the Klinger bridge toll were raised over one hundred percent. This is the sort of economy practiced by county officials.

Some November morning you may see a familiar name followed by a square in which you are asked to mark an X, and that will be your time to furnish a detour.

Dr. Yearick in Government Service.

Dr. G. I. Yearick, who has been practicing his profession in Centre Hall, has accepted a government position and is about to enter upon the duties of his appointment. He has been named medical examiner in the Veterans' Hospital, Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Yearick and daughter, Mrs. P. S. Brady, and children, will locate in Johnstown, where Mr. Brady has secured a house. As soon as the house is finished, which is expected to be in about three weeks, they will move to that place. Mrs. Yearick will retain several rooms in their home at Centre Hall, and expects to divide her time between the Brady home, Johnstown, with her husband at Pittsburgh, and Centre Hall.

Store at Laurelton Burned.

The general store of Martin Emery, brother of C. F. Emery, of Centre Hall, was burned Wednesday night of last week. The loss is estimated at $6000. It is believed the dwelling house, adjoining the store, was struck by lightning. The family escaped unhurt, but nothing from the house or store was saved. When first discovered at about one o'clock the entire structure was a mass of flames.

Recital in U. Ev. Church.

A recital, consisting of piano solos, duets, trios; also vocal selections and music by the violin club, will be given in the Evangelical church, Centre Hall, Friday evening, November 16, at 7:30, by the pupils of Miss Byrd Stover. Those who attended the recital last year know what good things are in store. Everyone is invited. A silver offering will be lifted.

Sportmen are asking: "See any signs of turkey?"

REPORT OF YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONFERENCE, CENTRE HALL.

More Than One Hundred Delegates from All Parts of Centre County Registered—Banquet in the Grange Hall.

The 6th annual Conference of the Young People's Division of the Centre County Sabbath School Association met Thursday of last week in the Lutheran church. There were over one hundred delegates registered, representing the various districts of the county.

At 9 a. m. the "Start, Right" services were conducted by the State officers of the department, Rev. M. C. Drummond having charge of the devotions. Then came the period of class organization. The entire audience of young people, mostly delegates, divided themselves into groups of twelve each, led by an adult. The entire business of the class—the devotions and the lesson period—were outlined, so that delegates might take home with them the right idea of organizing classes in their respective schools. This was very helpful and encouraging, to see the forces of righteousness organizing to uphold the kingdom of God.

Week-day assignments to pupils in the classes were then outlined, thus giving the child something of a religious nature to think about during the week as well as on Sunday.

Explanation as to the organizing of a department was then presented, after which the delegates were entertained with lunch at the homes of our people. The afternoon session opened with conference business led by County President Hugh Dale, of State College. The devotions were in charge of Rev. Bingham. A model S. S. was then organized, officers pro tem elected and the regular session of a S. S. was conducted, led by Jesse T. Saron, President Boys' Conference of Centre county. This was helpful practical and worshipful. A question box period, led by Rev. E. H. Bonnell, Jr., State Y. P. Work, assisted by his associate, Miss Esther Williams, was then pursued. The afternoon services closed with an explanation of week-day activity.

At 4:05 p. m. the delegates marched down the street to the Grange picnic grounds, where the physical side of the four-fold life was enjoyed in games and plays, led by Miss Williams and Rev. Bonnell, Jr. From there a march to the dining hall where a sumptuous meal was prepared by the ladies of the U. Ev. church. The menu consisted of chicken and noodles, beans, corn, potatoes, pickles, celery, bread, butter, cake and ice cream. Prof. Saron acted as toastmaster and called upon the State and county officers and the local pastors for remarks. These were fittingly responded to. Many rousing, but clean songs and stories were enjoyed while dining at the banquet table.

Then came the march, singing "Onward, Christian Soldiers!" to the Lutheran church for the evening services. Devotions were conducted by the county president, Hugh Dale. This was followed by an excellent lecture by Dr. I. L. Foster on "The Four-fold Life" as outlined in Luke 2:52 (read it in your Bible). The good professor did not oppose good, clean, wholesome sport, but he did oppose such frivolous things as the dance and jazz.

R. A. Zenmyer, camp director, being absent, Rev. Bonnell gave the illustrated lecture on the Tri-county and State Camp Challenge. Pictures of a national camp for S. S. workers were shown. The new site chosen for our camp is Spruce Creek, not far away. Here is to be erected suitable buildings, an artificial lake, etc., to help develop the four-fold life so as to live the "Jesus way of living." When the drive opens, let every school come across with its quota and make our home camp a reality and a success. It is a grand and worthy cause.

After the usual announcements and offering Rev. Bonnell dismissed the audience in the usual manner of closing Y. P. C.'s—all joining hands around the room in a circle, singing "Blest be the Tie That Binds," and benediction.

Note: The places providing for delegates, were more numerous than the delegates, and they were divided so as to slight no one family. Hence the reason some did not get their full quota.

The president of the local committee wishes to herewith thank all the committees and the good people of the town and all the local pastors, as well as the High school principal, who helped make the conference a success.

M. C. DRUMM.

Musical Program in M. E. Church.

We have every reason to doubt every promise Republican candidates make. The Republicans, for instance, promised the boys who entered the service in the World War a bonus in 1920; did they give it? No! Why? They had no thought of giving them a bonus when the promise was made, all that was wanted was the vote of the young men who stood in the trenches. The promises being made today by Pinchot down to Swope, Scott and Beaver are no less sincere. All they want is your vote at the next election, then to hock with the promises. The remedy is to vote for McSparan, and out down the line to Snyder, Betts, Meek, who will be true to their campaign promises because they were made in sincerity.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

Saturday, 11th inst., will be Pennsylvania Day at State College.

Dr. and Mrs. J. R. G. Allison, of Millheim, were visitors in town last Friday.

Merchant C. M. Smith has leased a part of the Dr. G. I. Yearick home, formerly that of the late W. B. Mingle, and will move into it as soon as it is vacated.

Mr. Willis, of Williamsport, a national bank examiner, was in Centre Hall last Thursday and visited the First National Bank in his official capacity.

Rev. J. F. Harkins, of State College, was one of the four clerical delegates to the bi-annual convention of the Lutheran church of America, held in Buffalo, N. Y.

Farmer John Delaney, east of Centre Hall, harvested the largest apple crop in this immediate vicinity, having sold between three and four hundred bushels of hand-picked fruit.

Mrs. Alice Dyrst and son Edward, on Saturday, drove to Williamsport to visit the Mervin Kuhn family. Miss Mildred Kuhn, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kuhn, has been quite ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Miller and children Dice and Mary, of Mazonia, were guests of Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Bingham, at the Evangelical parsonage at Centre Hall. Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Bingham are sisters.

A number of Millheim and Bellefonte couples were delightfully entertained at a dance and card party at the National hotel in Millheim the other night. The guests were served to a chicken andaffle supper.

A new plate glass window was placed in the front window in the portion of the Reporter building occupied by the First National Bank. The first glass there broke from some unknown cause shortly after being placed. The window will be lettered later.

Miss Kunes, of Washington, D. C., is canvassing Centre Hall this week in the interest of Bradford & Co., the local dealers in Purina Poultry Chow, advertised this week in the Reporter. Miss Kunes is conducting some interesting demonstrations for poultry raisers. Read Bradford & Co.'s ad.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Grove and daughter Jean, of Pittsburgh, are enjoying a two weeks' vacation at the home of Mr. Grove's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Gardner Grove. The young man will spend the time hunting for small game, with particular attention to the wild turkeys. He holds a good position with the U. S. Aluminum Co.

Paul E. Coxe, of Boalsburg, a student at the Penna. State College, won the McAllister scholarship, awarded to the freshman student from Centre county who stands highest in his studies. The winners were announced last week. The honor is given each year to one freshman student from each of the five Pennsylvania counties that send the largest number of students to the college in ratio to the county's population.

Although Judge Witmer by a recent ruling declares George R. Meek and Mrs. Florence M. Dale partners in the Centre County Bank, a private banking institution now defunct, they will further contest before permitting themselves to be counted liable with other stockholders for the indebtedness of the bank. It appears Ivan Walker has been made receiver for the partnership property of the bank, and will receive all monies due the bank.

John Fiedler, of Scotland, South Dakota, arrived in Aaronsburg recently to visit his aged father, J. J. Fiedler, whose condition is causing his many friends to be alarmed. Mr. Fiedler went west 17 years ago and this is his first visit east in these years. He states that the corn crop in South Dakota is very good except in the district where the hail storm passed over, and unfortunately Mr. Fiedler lived in that storm center and his entire crop was destroyed.

Work was started on the excavation for a cellar for the first of seven cottages on the hill east of the silk mill, in Millheim, to be built by F. Q. Hartman. It is Mr. Hartman's intention to get the foundation walls built for at least two of these houses this fall and have the work of construction done during the winter so that the houses can be occupied in the spring. The underbrush on the hill on which these houses are to be built, as well as the adjacent lands, has been trimmed out and it can now be seen that very desirable homes can be built there.
