Improving Top of "Old Nittany."

The top of Nittany Mountain above Centre Hall will be materially improved by John H. Detwiler, who recently broke ground on the east side of the top for a one-story bungalow, 15x30 ft. The structure will have a cellar and will be put up in a substantial manner of either concrete blocks or brick. Mr. Detwiler expects to have the house ready for occupancy by next spring when he will move into it and give his personal attention and effort to further improve the site in various ways. Next summer he is planning to erect several bungalows of less substantial character and invite tenants.

It is with a view of finally improving the mountain top on a large scale that Mr. Detwiler purchased about seventy acres of land, lying east of the tract he now owns, from S. W. Smith. This gives him control of all the mountain territory lying north of the pike from the base of the mountain to the top and extending a considerable distance west of the top.

A Correction.

In last week's issue of this paper a telegram forwarded by Ellisha K. Kane, candidate for congress, was so badly distorted in its transmission that it in scarcely any way represented the sender's intent. The telegram as Mr. Kane would have had it appear is as follows: "North Jewett, Pa., Oct. 31, 1922. "Editorial about me in the Bradford Star-Record this p. m. is untrue in practically every particular. My letter was mailed to 45,000 voters without knowing their party. Except $100 from David McCalmont none but my wife contributes one cent to my campaign. My influence has secured Prohibition endorsement and thus elected. My Republicans as often as dry Democrats. Include this in my paid advertisement if unwilling to publish it otherwise."

Recital in U. Ev. Church.

A recital, consisting of piano solos, duets, trios; also vocal selections and music by the violin club, will be given in the Evangelical church, Centre Hall, Friday evening, November 10, at 7:30, by the pupils of Miss Byrd Stover. Those who attended the recital last year know what good things are in store. Everyone is invited. A silver offering will be lifted.

Charles G. Hassinger sold his home, just south of the silk mill, in Millheim, to P. Q. Hartman. The price has not been divulged. Mr. Hassinger will build a new home in Millheim, but just where he has not fully decided.

Why Not Investigate!

It is generally believed that the fire in the Odd Fellows' building, which greatly damaged the structure and partially burned the stock of goods in the C. M. Smith store, on which alone $15,000 insurance was paid, was of incendiary origin. This belief is shared in by the merchant who had the loss, and by Mr. Shelton, through whom the insurance on the merchandise was obtained. It is contended, however, by some that the building was fired from the outside, while the great majority of persons believe it was fired on the inside and that it was fired at two or more places. The preponderance of evidence is that the fire was of interior origin. The warehouse annex, in which the fire appeared first, was carefully examined by various persons and it was found that there were no evidences great or small that the fire had ever been on the outside. These examinations were made when the outer framework of the annex was still standing.

The insurance adjustment on the building owned by the Odd Fellows has not been made, but it is contended on all sides that they will lose heavily. It is also a fact that much property adjoining the burning building was in great danger of being destroyed, and it is only because of the calm night and the speedy action of the Bellefonte fire company that a great conflagration was averted.

This is the first fire in Centre Hall in a period of more than forty years, with perhaps one exception, that appeared suspicious. May we not then ask—may we not insist—that an investigation be made. Fires of deeper mystery have been solved. The writer is aware that various persons whose properties were in imminent danger of being destroyed are vitally interested in having characters capable of planning and executing such dastardly deeds put into safe keeping. The writer is one of these, and will pay to any person or persons one hundred dollars who will furnish evidence leading to an indictment by a grand jury of any one connected in any way with the firing of this building.

LEGAL AND PERSONAL.

If it didn't go your way, was there any part of the program you might have performed neglected?

Armistice Day, on the 11th, and Thanksgiving Day, on the 30th, are two holidays for November.

Coburn is anxiously awaiting the time when it will have the use of electricity for lighting and power. Poles are now being erected in the village.

"Tink" and "Punky," the two bear cubs that have been a campus attraction at Penn State College, have been shipped to the zoological garden at Scranton.

Announcement of the birth of a 9-pound son—Thomas Bruce Musser—born to Mr. and Mrs. Randall Musser, at South Brownsville, was received by Millheim friends.

Paul L. Stover, a son of Squire and Mrs. A. S. Stover, of Aaronsburg, who for several years was employed in the P. R. R. station at Duncannon, has succeeded G. M. Kinter as agent at Dauphin.

If present plans go through, H. L. Ehrig in a month will be able to occupy the home he purchased from P. K. Carter. Mrs. John Ruble and children will follow Mr. Ehrig, and Mr. and Mrs. John D. Moore will move into their home when vacated by Mrs. Ruble.

Lee Markle, tenant on the Speicher farm above Earlstown, next spring will move to the Colyer farm, east of Old Fort, and will farm it on the ordinary tenant share basis. Mr. Markle is accustomed to handling a large acreage and is well fitted to take charge of this particular farm.

Messrs. George and Clyde Condo, of the Pittsburgh district, were in Centre Hall a few days, having come here on account of the public sale of the personal effects of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Condo, held on Saturday. The elder Condos will make his home in the future with their children.

William F. McKinney, the state forester in the Seven Mountains, was among the Reporter's callers on Saturday, and stated that considerable small game had been killed in his region. Birds—pheasants and turkeys—appeared scarce. A Philadelphia party, quartering at Walter Garry's, appears to have had unusual good luck in bagging game.

Rev. Ledy A. Yearick, of Export, Westmoreland county, held services in the Reformed churches at Centre Hall and Tusseyville, on Sunday. The minister is a half brother of Rev. Z. A. Yearick, formerly at Aaronsburg. While on the field, Rev. and Mrs. Yearick were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Spayd, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Delanty. Before returning home he spent a bit of time hunting grey squirrels in the Delaney-Alexander woods, which woods are well stocked with that kind of game.

Last week announcements were sent through the mail stating that an optical and photographic shop had been opened by Messrs. Mullen and Wolf, in the Commercial Trust building, Broad Street Station bridge, Philadelphia. The partners being Charles Henry Mullen and William McCoy Wolf, the latter a son of J. Witmer Wolf, of Ardmore, at which suburban point the junior Mr. Wolf also lives, having erected a home there since his marriage several years ago. Mr. Wolf started out in life with Joseph C. Ferguson, Jr. located near where the new firm is doing business, and was also engaged in similar business. The new firm has the Reporter's best wishes for success.

THE TRI-COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOL CAMP.

Site Selected in Huntingdon County Between Franklinville and Huntingdon Furnace.

For six years, the State Sunday School Association has been casting around for a camp site, suitably situated for seclusion and convenient to good roads and railway facilities, for the development of a Training Camp for young people in Sunday School methods and work. A number of sites have been inspected—over the state and the one which meets the need has been selected in Huntingdon county, between Franklinville and Huntingdon Furnace.

The tract of land comprises two farms and a wood lot, in all about three hundred and fifteen acres. The camp is surrounded with woods and a good stream of water flows through it. Two springs are on the property, assuring a plentiful supply of pure water for drinking. There is virgin timber on the site and the tall stately pines tower high above the other trees, measuring eight feet in circumference.

A dam will be built in a ravine through which the stream flows, damming back the water to cover sixteen acres of level land, making a good sized lake for boating and swimming. The dam will be twelve feet high and will give plenty of depth to the water for high diving. The lake will be bordered with fine woods one-half the shore line. The road coming by the way of Huntingdon Furnace will border the lake on the unwedded section and afford a pleasing attraction to the campers.

The site selected for the tents and assembly and dining quarters will be on a wooded knoll, of several acres, rising to a height of about one hundred feet above the springs and athletic field. There is an open space on the top and a road will be built around this on either side of which the tents will be erected. A large mess hall will be built on the side of the slope overlooking the athletic field or the lake. This will be sufficiently large for the accommodation of two hundred guests. A store house and kitchen will be built semi-detached to this.

An assembly hall will be built on the top of the knoll and will be constructed so as to add to it as need requires. R. A. Zentmyer, of Tyrone, has been interested in the surveying and laying out of the property and from his vast experience in laying out army camps and necessary equipment, the very best is assured in this line.

The dates set for the Sunday School Training Camps are as follows:

Girls—July 23—August 5.
Adult leaders—August 17-19.
Boys—August 21-27.

The camp will be conducted for the periods before and after the State Camp and the Camp Committee will have the assigning of these dates.

Such a camp as this in the community is going to prove a great stimulus and inspiration in the Sunday School work of the county. The young people are highly favored to have such an opportunity in their midst. When they are called upon to solicit for its support, both financially and in representation, they are sure to respond nobly.

Two Hunting Accidents.

On the first day of the hunting season two accidents were reported having occurred on the south side of Potters township.

While hunting pheasants, W. S. Poorman of Palmyra shot into a clump of bushes on the Venrick farm. Some of the fine shot entered the face and body of his wife who was standing on the opposite side in a road or lane. Mrs. Poorman was rushed to the hospital for treatment. It is said the wounds were not serious.

Mr. Poorman is one of a regular hunting party from Palmyra who yearly camp on the Venrick farm, above Colyer. He and Mrs. Poorman came to the camp in advance to enjoy a season of bird hunting before the opening of the deer season.

The victim of the second accident was Edward Bush, the lumberman, a well known resident of the Colyer district. He in company with three of his sons and a son-in-law, Rush Dippery, altogether a company of ten, went to the Sprucewood district, near Potters Mills, on a rabbit hunt. The hunters are making a chase and it appears Mr. Bush got a bit in advance of the column, and when a charge was sent after a rabbit by Mr. Dippery, some of the fine shot struck him on the hand and body. The wounds were not serious.

Lutherans for Religion in Music.

The convention of the United Lutheran Church in session recently in Buffalo, N. Y., stood firmly by the report of Rev. Dr. J. F. Ohi, of Philadelphia, chairman of the church music committee, which has eliminated from the church hymnal all music which, in the language of Dr. Ohi, was "nothing but sentimental doggerel and much of it reminiscent of the movie and street." The total benevolence of the church is now $5,000,000 a year, with grand total of expenditures for all purposes of $17,000,000, about $25 per capita a year. The baptized membership of the United Lutheran Church is 1,500,000.

Relief for 8000 Armenian Girls.
President Harding has been asked to "let down the bars" so that immigration officials will permit the landing in this country of 8000 Armenian children—mostly girls—made orphans by the Turks during recent massacres of Christians. If the plan works out it is proposed to ship the children to Philadelphia and from there distribute them to homes throughout Pennsylvania, because Pennsylvania was able recently to send the first relief ship to the Near East.

"One" of the.

In speaking of the several dwelling houses recently erected in Millheim, one cannot safely say the prettiest, one must say "one" of the prettiest, and so it is in referring to the new dwelling house being erected by C. H. Breen, the auto garage man. The home is located in what is known as Gramley's addition, lying to east of Millheim proper, along the state road. It is a high prominence affording a view for miles east and west. The house, well it is 30x30 feet in size, with elaborate arched porches, presenting a distinct appearance. The outer finish is chocolate brown stucco. One of the attractive outside features is a massive chimney built of brown stone laid in red mortar, the workmanship of which is attracting much attention. The interior will be finished in oak and chestnut. The arrangement of the interior is very convenient, entrance being to a reception hall with wide open stairway leading to a hall on the second floor from which hall entrance to bath and all sleeping rooms may be had.

A real fire-place is one of the delightful spots in a spacious living room. It is built of white granite stone, laid in red mortar and is very pretty.

The woodwork of the structure was built under the supervision of F. V. O. Houseman, of Millheim, and the stucco work by M. E. Shannon, of Milton, representing the Moore Building Supply Co., of that city. The mason work, including the fire-place, was constructed by William Garis and Byron Garis, Centre Hall.

Hunting Notes.

Roy Schaeffer, of Old Fort, shot a large grey fox one day last week in the Colyer woods.

Gervin Schaeffer and George Goodhart, youthful hunters of 'teen age, had good success hunting together on the first day of the season, when they bagged ten rabbits and eight grey squirrels.

Charles Foust, of Potters Mills, shot a wild turkey last Friday while hunting in the vicinity of Blue Hill, Brush Valley.

Ray Mark killed six grey squirrels, two pheasants and two rabbits the first day.

J. L. Tressler, of Centre Hall, bagged five large grey squirrels in the Old Fort woods the first day.

Paul Lingie, a young hunter of near Tusseyville, shot a nice wild turkey on Tussey Mountain last Wednesday.

Deer Provokes State Nurseryman.

Deer in the Seven Mountains are greatly provoking William F. McKinney, state forester and nurseryman, by nipping off the tops of Japanese white cedar trees carefully planted and cared for by him. There are more than ten thousand of these little trees that are being habitually topped by the deer, most of which damage is being done during the night time. It is only since the frost has browned the leaves of the trees in the great forest that the deer have been harboring among the cedars.

Two Town Properties Sold.

Frederick K. Carter and John M. Luse sold their homes, one day last week, the former selling to H. Leigh Ehrig, cashier of the First National bank, and the latter to John P. Rishel, farmer of near Tusseyville. Both parties expect to occupy the places themselves.

Both these homes were built between 1904 and 1906, the respective owners prior to this sale having erected them.

Poultry Meetings Next Week.

During the week of November 13th, the Centre County Farm Bureau with the assistance of H. D. Monroe, Poultry Extension Specialist, will hold a series of poultry meetings in different sections of the county.

Winter feeding and poultry houses will be discussed at the meetings; also any other poultry management questions which may come up at this time.

The schedule of meetings follows:

Monday, November 13th, at 2 P. M., at O. P. Smith's, near Fiedler.

Tuesday, November 14th, at 10 A. M., at George Portney's, near Boalsburg.

Wednesday, November 14th, at 2 P. M., at C. T. Musser's, near Unionville.

Wednesday, November 15th, at 10 A. M., at J. O. Peters', near Stormstown.

Wednesday, November 15th, at 2 P. M., at A. F. Shover's, near Unionville.

Thursday, November 16th, at 10 A. M., at P. H. Luse's, near Centre Hall.

Thursday, November 16th, at 2 P. M., at L. G. Peters' near Meek's Church.

Liquor-Selling Hotel Legal Nuisance.

United States Judge Joseph L. Bodine, in an opinion rendered at Trenton, N. J., holds that a liquor-selling hotel is a public nuisance. In the case in which Charles and Marie Reinking, owners of the Grand Hotel at Hoboken, are defendants, Judge Bodine upholds the nuisance and abatement sections of the National Prohibition Act. He says that Courts of Equity are justified in restraining public nuisances. U. S. Attorney Harlan Besson, of New Jersey, prepared the action asking for the enforcement of this feature of the Volstead Act. Judge Bodine says the procedure followed by Attorney Besson has already been upheld by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Food Sale.

The Ladies' Bible Class of the Reformed Sunday School will hold a food sale at the home of Mrs. F. M. Fisher, Saturday, November 18th.

LETTERS FROM SUBSCRIBERS.

Oakland, California, Oct. 23, 1922.

Dear Editor:

Enclosed find order for which please change date on "Reporter" label.

After living here for two years I boost with the rest of Californians. I am not a good booster one is not considered a good Californian; yet the State is advertised to the very limit. I have seen a huge portion of the State since I have been here. Last summer I spent two months in the Yosemite National Park and that is California's great wonder land. There isn't a wonder in the froaks of nature in the entire Yosemite Valley to equal the little Benn's Valley Cave. God gave California the sun; man has done the rest. I am enjoying the advantages of a large city. San Francisco just across the bay makes it doubly convenient.

Both blossom and fruit harvest are indeed wonderful here.

I am very much attached to my work. I am one of twenty secretaries in the Young Woman's Christian Association in Oakland. I have sixty-six business girls in my department, ages ranging from 18 to 25 years. I am sending a booklet to you that will give you some idea of the "Y" work in Oakland.

The Reporter reaches me Monday morning and I am always glad to see it.

KATE HARPSTER MOORE.

Stuart-Kidder.

Miss Mary L. Kidder became the bride of Howard L. Stuart, 21, at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Kidder, State College, on Thursday morning of last week at 10 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert C. Peters and immediately following a delightful wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart left for Washington and the Navy game. Those present at the happy occasion were, the father and mother of the bride, Dr. and Mrs. Kidder, the mother of the groom, Mrs. Lydia J. Stuart, Miss Evelyn Aushup, Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Peters, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Sullivan.

The attendants of the bride and groom were Miss Katherine Arthur of Pittsburgh and Karl C. Newman.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart will be at home after November 15th at 112 W. Fairmount Avenue, State College.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Potatoes are being hauled in trucks in large quantities from Penns Valley to the Lewisstown district.

The local banks will be closed Saturday—Armistice Day—and will open in the evening from 7 to 9.

Mrs. Mary Shoop, of Tyrone, was the first person to pay her Red Cross membership fee to the Centre Hall Auxiliary for the 1922-1923 period.

John M. Luse, who carries the mail from the local post office to the railroad station, has resigned, owing to the fact that he will remove from Centre Hall. He will locate in Williamsport.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fisher and sons Charles and Frank, of Ormsburg, also Mrs. E. Roy Corman, of Cressona, spent a few days at the Frank Fisher home. The former Mr. Fisher is a son of the late Gen. B. Frank Fisher.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Stewart and son Clement, and the latter's friend, John Alter, all of New Bloomfield, arrived in Centre Hall on Friday and returned home Sunday. The trip was made in a car. The junior Stewart is a Ford auto salesman and as such has been quite successful.

The closing of banks on Saturday afternoon and opening in the evening from 7 to 9 during July, August, September and October, was very much appreciated by the people, and in order to give the people of Penns Valley the best possible service the local banks have decided to continue this arrangement during the month of November.

Messrs. H. E. Baldwin, of Collegeville; William Risdon, William Risdon, Jr., and George Groff, of Norristown, composed a hunting party who spent a week hunting on Nittany mountain. Their success was meagre, being six rabbits, four pheasants and nine squirrels. The gentlemen had been on the ground in previous years when they were more successful. They made their headquarters at the hotel.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

Sunday, 12th, is Red Cross Sunday.

George O. Benner recently paid a visit to his daughter in Boston, Mass.

One red and two grey foxes were recently captured alive by Clayton Vondra, at Woodward. He now has them quartered in a pen.

Pennsylvania Day will be observed at Penn State College on Saturday. The student cadet regiment of 1899 will be seen in review.

Stover Snook, of Philadelphia, who is connected with one of the city's leading banks, in company with his fiancée has been visiting among friends in Millheim.

A. G. Morris, one of Bellefonte's leading business men, celebrated his eighty-eighth birthday on Sunday. A dinner was served to his children and a few guests.

Some youngster with a vein of real humor placed a "detour" sign on the cemetery gate at the Georges Valley church as his contribution to the sport on night of Halloween.

Rev. B. R. M. Shesder, who some years ago served the Aaronsburg Lutheran pastorate, recently resigned as pastor of the Lutheran church at Portage, and is now living retired at Altoona.

A young buck was caught in a wire fence recently in the vicinity of Coburn and had its leg hurt which rendered it almost helpless. Harry Winger, the game warden, took it in charge and is caring for it.

T. L. Smith, the timer, will move into the house now occupied by Mrs. Eliza Alexander. The latter and her son, W. A. Alexander, of Earlstown, will occupy the double house Mrs. Bell Whitman and Mr. Smith will vacate.

Keep in mind the clean-up sale to be held by W. F. Colyer on his farm a short distance east of Old Fort. Mr. Colyer has some fine stock for sale, as well as farming implements, etc., all in first-class condition. See complete list elsewhere in this issue; also posters.

The Rev. Fred R. Greeninger, pastor of the Lutheran church of the Redeemer, Williamsport, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Temple Lutheran Church at Altoona. His present congregation is taking measures to have him reconsider his resignation.

Ray Sharer, who has been living on the Edward Durst farm, at Earlstown since last spring, will become tenant on the Keller farm east of town when it is vacated by George W. Sharer, who will occupy the Conley farm purchased by him from Clayton Musser.

The first of a series of meetings of the Centre Hall Literary society was held Friday night, in Grange hall. There was singing, the school paper, a playlet entitled, "A Case of Suspicion," rendered. The various features of the evening were very well executed. A small admission was charged.

If you must walk on the public highway or street, keep to the left side. By so doing automobiles approaching you from the rear will go on to the opposite side of the road or street and can pass you safely. Autos approaching on the left side of the highway or street will do so to the front of you and these can easily be avoided.

A few nights ago W. W. Kerlin heard a noise at the kitchen door and thinking it was the family cat making an effort to attract attention and thus gain entrance, he opened the door and found a large skunk blinking because of the light striking its eyes. The door was quickly closed. The skunk continued its journey without leaving its "card."

The Scenic is an ideal place to spend an hour before or after you attend to the little business affairs that take you to Bellefonte. "When you're ready to go home, you'll find me at the Scenic," is a common expression when automobile parties disperse. And then the Scenic pictures are always fit to be seen by both grandpa and the tot at his hand.

Rev. Harry N. Walker, who has been pastor of the First Lutheran church at Millroy since his graduation at the Gettysburg Theological seminary four years ago, has been extended a call by the congregation of the Grace Lutheran church at Bellwood. Rev. Walker is a native of Ferguson township, Centre county, being a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stine Walker.

H. C. Strickler, of Aaronsburg, who is employed in the shops at Burnham, had a miraculous escape from death. One of his fingers was caught in a pulley of a block and tackle on a locomotive crane and he was hoisted about twenty-five feet from the floor before the crane could be stopped. Mr. Strickler, who is a heavy man, was hanging by his pinched finger for several minutes before he could be lowered and released.

A fine program will be rendered on the annual community day exercises at Aaronsburg, which will be held on Friday. All the schools of Haines township will help to make the day a success. Prizes will be awarded for the best exhibits of farm products. A speaker from State College will accompany Prof. Payne, who is the instructor in agriculture. The exercises will begin promptly at 1 o'clock and continue until 4 o'clock. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.
