Want "Souvenirs" Returned.

The French government is making an appeal to American soldiers who extended their activities as souvenir hunters by taking fragments from the historic Rheims cathedral, to send these mementos back to Rheims. Thousands of members of the A. E. F. visited the cathedral and many carried away statuary and other elements of fabric from the structure. Some of these were priceless to the French. The reconstruction efforts aim to replace all portions that can be recovered.

The easiest way to be reconciled to age is to observe a few young simpletons trying to act smart.

They that know no evil will suspect none.

Work Without Proper Aim.

I respect the man who knows distinctly what he wishes. The greater part of all the mischief in the world arises from the fact that men do not sufficiently understand their own aims. They have undertaken to build a tower, and spend no more labor on the foundation than would be necessary to build a hut.—Goethe.

Natural Indignation.

Crabshaw—So there's no truth in the report that you've been dodging your income tax?

Newrich—It's an infamous libel. I've tried to do it every possible way, but have never succeeded.—New York Sun.

As a rule, a man's insignificance is in exact proportion to the importance of his telephone voice.

ACCOMMODATED

"Mr. Grabcohn," said the brisk young man, "I am a college graduate."
"Glad to hear it," replied that self-made millionaire, somewhat grimly.
"I came in to give you the refusal of my services in some executive capacity."
"Much obliged. Good-morning."
"Eh, sir?"
"I am merely accepting your kind offer. Again, good-morning."

FRANK

"You're sure you've no objection to marrying a traveling man?"
"On the contrary, I wouldn't marry a man who'd be home too much of the time."

Variable.

The gent who shed a humid tear At ninety in the shade Now strains an ear that he might hear The steampipe serenade.

Farm.

"An abandoned farm."
"How foolish to abandon it."
"Oh, I dunno. I settled on one once and I thought the man who abandoned it was pretty smart."

A Pleasure and a Profit.
Markwich—Does your sister like reading?

Jones—Yes; she considers reading a pleasure, but it usually takes her longer than anybody else to read a book, because she always forgets where she stopped reading the last time and has to start at the beginning again to be on the safe side.—London Answers.

Histrionic Sacrilege.

"The play's the 'bing!" exclaimed Hamlet.

"Yes," protested the manager of the company, "but it's too bad this little drama of yours had to be a tragedy. If you could cut out the killing this story of yours might make a first-rate bedroom farce."

Knew More of Art Than Uncle.

Old Lady—Don't think me rude, dear, but is this meant for a man or a woman?

Art Student—I'm so glad you ask that, auntie.

Old Lady—Why, dear?
Art Student—Uncle George couldn't tell whether it was supposed to be human.—London Punch.

Descriptive Music.

"What's the name of that piece you were playing?"

"Bungalow Blues."

"And what was the prolonged, melancholy strain you repeated at frequent intervals?"

"That represents the installments."

Ample Cause for Divorce.

"My husband is a deceitful wretch."

"What makes you think that?"

"Last night he pretended to believe me when he knew I was lying to him."

Love All Gone Then.

Mrs. Pennywise—Too bad your fiancé has no money. But I suppose it'll be a case of love in a cottage.

Miss Goldilox—No, I think not. You see, we're going to board at first and we won't move into our cottage until after the honeymoon.

Only One She'll Ever Have.

Mr. Huggins—Miss Prymme refused to go out in my car last evening, out of consideration for her good name.

Miss Dill—She's so careful of her good name because she never expects to have another.

A "Call."

"What have you got?" asked the minister of the chauffeur who rang his doorbell.

"One pair," replied the chauffeur, beckoning the eloping couple to come forward.

Cavalend Gallantry.

He—In no case would I ever lift my hand against a woman.

She—You're wise, old son. She'd probably construe it as a proposal and sue you for breach of promise.

Out.

"He borrowed a quarter from me, but I wish it had been ten dollars."

"Why?"

"He'd remember borrowing ten dollars, but he'll forget all about the quarter."

A Flapper's Pa.

"I hope you'll encourage me in the pursuit of your daughter's hand."

"My boy, don't ask me for encouragement. The field is open to all comers, and I don't even know half the entries."

DYED HER DRAPERIES, SKIRT AND A SWEATER WITH "DIAMOND DYES"

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any woman can dye or tint faded, shabby skirts, dresses, waists, coats, sweaters, stockings, hangings, draperies, everything like new. Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect home dyeing is guaranteed, even if you have never dyed before. Tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods. Diamond Dyes never streak, spot, fade, or run. So easy to use.—Advertisement.

Woman's Organization Growing.
The Auxiliary of the American Legion, said to be the fastest growing woman's organization in America, has a membership of 140,000 in the 48 states, Alaska, Hawaii, the Canal zone, Cuba and Mexico. These women are divided into 5,989 posts.

A Lady of Distinction
Is recognized by the delicate fascinating influence of the perfume she uses. A bath with Cuticura Soap and hot water to thoroughly cleanse the pores followed by a dusting with Cuticura Talcum powder usually means a clear, sweet, healthy skin.—Advertisement.

Monkey Reasons.

It used to be thought that beasts and birds were guided in their action entirely by instinct, reason playing no part whatever in their daily lives. But now naturalists are not so sure. To learn to use a lever as a mechanical instrument implies, one would think, a certain amount of reasoning power. Yet a monkey kept in captivity employed a stick to pry up the lid of a chest which was otherwise too heavy for the animal to raise.

A Return Desired.

"How was the political speaking last night, squire?" asked old Riley Rezzidew of Petunla. "My rheumatiz was hectoring me so that I didn't feel like attending."

"The Hon. Thomas Rott pleaded with the voters for a return to the principles of the Glorious Old Party, and—"

"He did, hey? That reminds me: if he is in town yet I am going around and plead with him for the return of them ten dollars he borrowed from me six years ago, when he started for the convention."—Kansas City Star.

Radio Equipment of Airplane.

There has been installed on one of the huge Goliath biplanes engaged in the Paris-London aerial service a combined radio telephone and telegraph equipment of 35 watts antenna output, with a sending range of about 180 miles at 900 meters wave length. The complete radio equipment, according to Radioelectricity, weighs only 125 pounds. An air-propeller-driven generator for six volts and 700 volts and a six-volt storage battery supply the necessary current. A three-bulb amplifier is used for receiving on all wave lengths between 300 meters and 1,000 meters.—Scientific American.

Fate Takes a Hand.

Life has many embarrassing moments, but this was truly a dreadful one. I was a senior in a large university, and had had a romance with a prominent classmate. After our engagement was broken we were not on speaking terms, and this was generally known.

One evening I had been studying at a table in the library reading room when the lights went out. I stood up and collided with some one. I instinctively threw out my arms, and he did likewise.

Of course, the lights went on suddenly, and I found myself embraced and embracing my ex-fiance. Every one saw us, and we made quite a scene trying to get out.—Chicago Tribune.

COAL OF VEGETABLE ORIGIN

Abundant Proof That Huge Forests, in Former Epochs of the Earth, Became Petrified.

Although in most instances there are comparatively few traces of its vegetable origin left, coal owes its existence to the vast masses of vegetable matter deposited through the luxuriant growth of plants in former epochs of the earth's history, and since slowly converted into a petrified state.

Coal fields today present abundant indications of the existence of huge ancient forests, usually in the form of coal formed from the roots of trees. Several such forests have been discovered, one of which in Nova Scotia is a good example. Remains of trees have been found there, six to eight feet in height and four feet in diameter. In a colliery in England, in a space of about one-quarter of an acre, there have been found the fossilized stumps of 73 trees, with roots attached, and broken-off trunks lying about, one of them 30 feet long, and all of them turned into coal.

"Land of El Dorado."

The word is Spanish and means "the gilded one," because the early explorers thought there was an Indian chief somewhere in South America who used to cover himself all over with gold dust at a religious festival once a year. Now the name is applied to any country where there is supposed to be an abundance of valuable natural products.

The Observant Newsdealer.
Of course the Woman knows her newsdealer well. He is very friendly. The other day she stopped in for some additional magazines and papers to take with her for a day's outing she was to have. She thought she was looking quite well—that is, she fancied she had managed to make herself look smart without putting on her best clothes.

The newsdealer seemed quite delighted to think she was going to have a day in which to rest and idle.
"It's fine," he said. "And you can have a real good time with your old clothes and all."

Impressive Income.
"Dubwalle was always hard up when he was making $2,000 a year. Now he's making $20,000 a year and he's still hard up."
"But he has one advantage."
"Well?"
"Bill collectors will stand for a great deal more back talk from a $20,000-a-year man than from a $2,000-a-year man."—Birmingham Age-Herald.
