C. E. Flink baled over fifty tons of prime hay last week, that being the chief crop farmed by him.

A special meeting of the local Odd Fellows Association is called for this Thursday evening at 7:30, in the I. O. O. F. hall.

Mrs. Charles Grenoble and little daughter, of Spring Mills, were guests at the P. H. Luse home, west of town, for a week or more.

Mrs. Chester A. Spyker and children, last week were taken to Marklesburg, Huntingdon county, where they will remain for a week with Mrs. Spyker's parents. During the absence of the family Mr. Spyker is batching it and that is not exactly to his liking.

Messrs. F. A. Carson Douglas Brooks and A. S. Allen attended a farm sale in the vicinity of Yarnell, on Saturday, held by Mrs. Packer. Stock sold very cheap, as did also sheep, a bunch of Merinos passing for $1.75. Mr. Carson purchased a number of young cattle, to run on his farm tenanted by Mr. Brooks.

Mrs. Lulu Hosterman and children, William and Marie, of Coburn, spent several days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Smith, in Centre Hall. Mrs. Smith is Mrs. Hosterman's mother. On their return home on Saturday, Sarah, the little daughter of Mrs. Smith, accompanied them to their home for a short visit.

Harry W. Potter and sister, Miss Mary Delinda Potter, returned on Saturday from their automobile trip to the Gettysburg battlefield and the national capital. They were very much pleased with their trip, especially that part which took them over the battlefield at Gettysburg, which Mr. Potter describes as having been a rare treat.

Miss Edith Sankey, of Middleburg, was in town last week on business pertaining to the Grange Encampment and Fair, of which association she is the secretary. She expects to spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Frank Worrell, at Gans, Oklahoma, whose husband is station agent at that place. She will return in the spring to take up her work for the fair next fall.

An unexpected good yield of wheat was received from eleven acres by George W. Sharer and Harry McClenahan, when the threshermen reported the yield 249 bushels. This field was in a horrible shape at cutting time, fully ninety per cent of the stalks having fallen over when the heads were not yet fully formed. The quality of the wheat is very fair.

Mrs. E. M. Sliiffer, of Spring Mills, who for the past year has been staying in Bellwood, is home on a visit with her daughter, Mrs. A. O. Decker, of Spring Mills, and will offer her home in Georges Valley at public sale some time in December. Mrs. Kathryn Ripka, who also is staying in Bellwood, will be home on Thanksgiving for a brief visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Confer, at Spring Mills.

A most pleasing period during the teachers' institute was a period given over to music a part of which program on Thursday afternoon was filled by Miss Nancy McWilliams, assistant cashier in the First National bank, Centre Hall. She sang two soprano solos, the titles of which were "One Fleeting Hour" and "A Mother's Croon." The accompanist was Miss Horner, of Phillipsburg, the regular institute pianist, and former instructor of Miss Williams.

W. O. Heckman, who began farming operations on the Rossman farm he purchased last spring, is making dogs one of the money crops. Last week over a hundred hogs were turned into standing corn. He expected the hogs to do the husking for him, and this is a reasonable expectation. Besides doing this work he expects the hogs to gain sufficient weight to pay him for the corn they eat and money invested without making a deduction for the husking of the corn.

The water supply at the McNitt lumber operations, at Potters Mills, has been exhausted to such an extent that the mill operators, H. E. Walker and Bros., will resort to a gasoline pump and will hereafter secure their water from Laurel Run. For some time continuous sawing was interfered with, but after the proposed pump is installed the mill will be running every day. A fine lot of lumber has already been marketed from this mill and there yet remains much to be cut.

The council, on Saturday, had a special water notice distributed, requesting that every citizen save water. The various springs are delivering a fairly good supply of water and the pump is also throwing a nice stream, the aggregate appearing to be sufficient to supply a town of this size. It is more than likely that there are numerous small leaks throughout the town along private lines and possibly larger ones along the main lines. As long as the rainfall is normal these leaks have no visible effect on the supply of water, but when a drought like is on today strikes us, every leak counts and cuts the supply for family uses just that much. It is apparent that it is to the interest of every one to conserve water, and to begin at once. Known leaks should be remedied immediately and an effort made to discover hidden leaks along both the main and private pipe lines.

Children to Donate to Hospital.

ON THE ROOF OF THE WORLD

Englishman's Description of Life in the Andes Mountains Makes Interesting Reading.

In a recent expedition to Peru Mr. Joseph Barcroft of the University of Cambridge did some exploring in the higher Andes and made some interesting discoveries, which are told in the British Medical Journal.

At 12,000 feet cows gave milk; at 13,000 feet they gave little or none. At 15,000 feet there were no cows. At 11,000 feet fleas disappeared, though lice remained so long as there were human beings.

At these heights men have lived for many generations, having become acclimatized to the rarefied air. Many of them lived in chimneyless and windowless houses; they had a purely communal system of government, and some of their customs would hardly appeal to more civilized races. When a native was very ill, for instance, the date of his funeral was fixed without reference to his convenience, and an official saw to it that he was ready to keep the appointment.

It was remarkable what loads the people were able to carry at these altitudes. A boy of about thirteen would carry from the interior of a mine a burden of forty pounds, ascending a staircase with it from a point 250 feet below, while a full-grown man would carry one hundred pounds of metal, yet the European was out of breath if he carried his coat up a slight incline.

Barytone Sings of New Grocery.

The swaying notes of a jazz tune coming from the sky in a clear barytone voice caused hundreds of shoppers at Eighth avenue and Fifty-second street to gaze upward in wonderment. On the roof of one of the five-story buildings they glimpsed a man holding a megaphone to his mouth. When he had concluded the song the man announced to the world at large the opening of a new grocery and butcher shop on the ground floor of the building on which he stood.—New York Sun.
