Bank Officials Satisfied Initials There Are Reasonable Method of Identification.

"Cash a check for $200?" The paying teller gulped and then asked, "Have you an identification?" The man outside the wire window opened his wallet and produced his automobile owner's license.

"I'm sorry," declared the teller, "but that won't do."

The man with the check produced legal documents, letters and other papers which happened to be in his brief case.

"Sorry again," came from behind the window, "but none of these will do. Let's see your hat."

The customer handed over his weather-worn straw for examination. After a glance in the leather band the clerk methodically counted out the money.

"That's the surest identification," conceded the teller, "for although impostors might have all kinds of fake documents to prove who they are, they are not likely to think of having letters in their hats to correspond with those under which they seek to get money. Of course, the 'J. J.' may stand for Joseph Johnson, but the chances are in favor of John Jones. The hat beats all legal documents for telling the truth."

OLD ENGLISH HEDGES GOING

Landscape Beauties Being Sacrificed to Demands for Increased Production From Land.

One of England's greatest beauties, the hedgerow of hawthorn, or "May," is rapidly disappearing. Driven out by the tractor, either in the west of England, noted for its double hedgerows, sometimes with narrow paths between, or the Eastlands, with hedges and dikes alternating to the marshes, some landmark of this kind has disappeared.

In Hertfordshire and Sussex this same thing is happening and the old sturdy roots are being dug up and burned, and replaced by miles upon miles of wire fences, to keep the sheep within bounds. Young college-bred farmers, filled with enthusiasm, facts and labor-saving ideas, have it all worked out, and much of the beauty of rural England with it. Cut all the hedges out of four fields of 10 acres, and you have one field of 40 acres; one man and one tractor can plow it in 10 days; where with hedges it took a horse plow 40 days to accomplish the same result.

Origin of the Word "Cop."

The word "cop" originated in London, being derived from the three initials of "constable of police." This interesting bit of information comes from Police Commissioner Enright of New York City.

Chief Enright's theory of how the word "cop" came into being has experience, precedent and probability to back it. It has experience, because Commissioner Enright is conversant with police affairs. It has precedent, because when the words of a phrase happen to have initials which, taken together, can be pronounced in one syllable, there is a tendency to lump them in one, and so form a new word. It has probability because the etymology suggested is simple and natural. "Cop" is an abbreviation which any English-speaking public would like to make of "constable of police."

Nobody knows all about a word until he has looked up its origin. To do that is one of the best of helps toward fixing the meaning of words much longer and far less familiar than "cop" lastingly in the mind.—Buffalo Times.

Known to Each Other.

I find it most difficult to remember names, and, this failing, often gets me into trouble. At a dance one evening I was introduced to a charming girl, who was standing by the door of the ballroom waiting for her partner. We stood talking for a few moments, when an acquaintance came up to talk to me, and I, starting out glibly to introduce the two, realized I had completely forgotten the girl's name.

"I beg your pardon, I would like to present Mr. Wilson, and I am afraid I have forgotten your name," I remarked, apologetically.

"That's perfectly all right," she answered. "He's my husband."—Exchange.

Highly Recommended.

The Woman chanced into a movie house the other day in the middle of the feature picture. So at the end of the film she had to sit through the announcements for the next week. The picture for the following week happened to be an adaptation of a popular and very sensational novel, and as its title was flashed upon the screen the lady next to the woman grasped her arm in sudden excitement.

"Oh!" she gasped, "they've made a picture of it. Oh! it's dreadful! It's terrible! Have you read the book? You must see it!"—Chicago Journal.

Modern English.

A lady who is so fond of her home that she stays therein the year round was assailed by a conventional friend in conventional language.

"I knew that you usually wintered here," she said, "but was astonished to hear that you had summered here."

"I have not only wintered here and summered here," replied the unfashionable one, "but I will astonish you still further when I tell you that I always fall here and have sometimes sprung here."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

ARE YOU BUYING LIGHT

-OR-

SIMPLY USING LAMPS?

Many people, in the past, have felt that the lighting question was solely a matter of good lamps. But the fact is that in addition to good lamps there must also be the scientific use of lighting devices; for proper lighting practice will get better efficiency from the current used, display goods to better advantage, increase the output of industrial plants, reduce accidents, and actually make better lighting pay for itself.

Poor lighting is much more expensive than good lighting. Good lighting means not only savings, but it also means more earnings, because it produces measurable increases in production and sales.

A wealth of facts and figures will be available for anyone who will ask for them at the being held at the ARMORY, BELLEFONTE, NOVEMBER 22nd, 23rd and 24th. Not only will this information be gladly supplied, but a survey to determine the exact saving possible in your plant will be undertaken, without obligation to you, if you wish.

This show will be given each afternoon and evening of the dates mentioned and is in charge of experts from the National Electric Light Association. You are invited to attend.
