Mrs. H. W. Frantz and daughter, of Earlstown, were pleasant callers at the Reporter office on Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Archie Moyer, on Tuesday morning, went to the Gelsinger hospital, Danville, with the view of having a goiter removed.

Edward Gleixner, who has been working in the Northumberland car shops for several years, is in enforced idleness on account of an injury to one of his fingers which interferes with the proper use of tools. The hurt is improving and he soon expects to go to work.

Al Gingery, of Boalsburg, the moving spirit of the Wieland Brothers and Co., carriage manufacturers, was in town on business on Saturday. The firm continues to be listed as carriage manufacturers, yet its main business is building bodies for automobiles and trimming autos.

Messrs. Joseph Knappenberger, Joseph Steel, John Brown, Joseph Pollin, John Kepple, and Jud Meckling, all of Greensburg, and H. E. Montgomery, of the Department of Forestry, Harrisburg, were entertained at the J. W. Slack home, at Potters Mills, during the first week of the deer hunting season.

H. C. Rothrock, of Port Matilda, assistant superintendent of schools in Centre county, made his first visit to the local schools since assuming the duties of his office. Prof. Rothrock, something like twenty-five years ago, for several terms was principal of the local borough high school, and also held similar positions at both Millheim and Boalsburg before taking up the same work at Port Matilda. He is kindly remembered by many in Penna. Valley who will wish him abundant success in his present field of work.

Warren Curtis, of Dayton, Ohio, associate editor of the Reliable Poultry Journal, called on the Kesslers at the Grand View Poultry Farm, as did also E. G. Hickman, of Seaford, Delaware. The latter came here to inspect poultry and before leaving gave an order for five hundred pullets, which have already been shipped to him. Mr. Hickman supplies select trade along the seashore with white eggs and receives fancy prices. Although a Democrat, he has been appointed postmaster in his home town, which village is overwhelmingly Democratic in politics.

The blizzard raging in the northwest and northeast, during the beginning of the week, came along in the form of a strong wind Tuesday afternoon and during that night much force was added. No snow.

Mrs. Dayton Lansberry and little daughter, last week, came to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith, for a brief visit. Mr. Lansberry was also expected here the beginning of this week.

Miss Alice Decker, who keeps house for her father, John D. Decker, in the Seven Mountains, has been a sufferer from an infected hand, which originally was but a light sore. Dr. H. H. Longwell is treating her.

An ordinance has been passed by the Williamsport city council providing for taking into the city territory lying in Loyalsock township, lying north and east of the city. There are anti-annexationists and these will now have their inning.

Rev. Theodore F. Herman, D. D., of Lancaster, who holds a chair in the theological seminary connected with Franklin and Marshall College, filled the pulpits in the Reformed churches in Centre Hall and Spring Mills. He came here on a double mission, the most important probably being to look over the local Reformed field with a view of finding a pastor for it. If present plans carry out an available minister will be sent into the charge to fill the appointments on the third and fourth Sundays in January.

Mrs. J. W. Bradford went to the Gelsinger hospital, at Danville, for treatment, on Wednesday morning.

John Slack, who holds a position in the Williamsport offices of the Pennsy., is now located at Sunbury to help out on the rush of business there.

Miss Ida Long, of Spring Mills, will make her home during this winter with Mr. and Mrs. John A. Slack, in Centre Hall. On Tuesday she went to Spring Mills, her home, to prepare it for vacancy until spring.

DEATH RECORD

Harry Johnston Killed.

Harry Johnston, of Bellefonte, was almost instantly killed Tuesday morning, at a grade crossing, at Milesburg, by being struck by an engine on the Pennsy tracks. He was hauling coal in an auto truck. His age is about 45 years. A wife and thirteen children survive. The unfortunate man was a brother of Milton Johnston, the marble dealer, by whom he was employed.

HOY.—Mrs. Swengle Hoy died at her home at Howard as the result of complications following an operation she underwent several months ago. She was sixty-three years old and is survived by her husband, who is also critically ill as the result of a stroke of paralysis, and the following children: Mrs. Roy Garbrick, of Centre Hall; Mrs. J. J. Vonada and John, of Howard, and Harry, on the homestead farm. She also leaves two brothers, John Ziegler, of Howard, and Frank, of Renovo. Burial was made at Howard on Saturday.

John Wanamaker Dead.

John Wanamaker, the merchant prince, died at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning at his Philadelphia home, No. 2023 Walnut street. The immediate cause of death was a sudden attack of heart failure, superinduced by a severe coughing spell, which, in turn, was the result of an attack of pneumonia that he had been battling for several weeks. Mr. Wanamaker was past 84 years of age, but despite his years he put up a fight against the encroachments of disease that was a marvel to his physicians.

Just before adjourning the United States Senate confirmed something like 1700 appointments to federal office. That ought to help reduce the hungry hord of office seekers.
