

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WORK

Gained Strength, Weight and Now Doing Own Work, by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Marion, Ind.—"I was all run-down, nervous and bent over. I could hardly drag around, let alone do my work. I read some letters in the papers telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and I thought I would try it. Then a man told my husband about his wife and what good it had done her and wanted him to have me try it. I took one bottle and could see what it did for me in a week's time, and when I had taken three bottles I had gained both in strength and weight and was doing my own work. I took it before my last baby was born and it helped me so much. I sure am glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who suffers from female ailments, for I know by experience what it can do. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, also the Liver Pills, too, and think them fine."—Mrs. Wm. Eldridge, 620 E. Grant Street, Marion, Indiana.

A record of nearly fifty years service should convince you of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

DAIRY PROBLEMS ON RENTED FARM

Government Bulletin Takes Up Details Entered Into by Owners and Tenants.

MANY IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

Much Depends Upon Interest Landlord Takes in Development of Herd and Disposal That is Made of Various Products.

[Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.] Renters and landlords in localities where the dairy business is now coming into prominence, as well as many of those in the older dairy regions, will find many useful suggestions in a new Farmers' Bulletin, No. 1272, Renting Dairy Farms, by Howard A. Turner, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. It takes up in detail the arrangements that are commonly entered into by dairy farm owners and tenants in some of the older dairy sections of New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin.

Since the contract is a simple one when the farm is rented for cash, this method requires little attention, and most of the discussion is given over to the renting of dairy farms on which the landlord gets a half share of the receipts. Most farms of this class are rented on some sort of share basis, but there is a great deal of variation, depending upon the financial situation of the renter, the condition of the land, the interest the landlord takes in the development of the herd, the disposal that is made of the milk and other dairy products.

Many Problems Brought Out. The renting of farms on which dairying is an important enterprise, says the author, brings out problems that are hardly known where only such crops as corn, tobacco, cotton, and small grains are grown. Buildings and fences become important considerations, and also the division of land between pasture and feed crops. Questions arise concerning the size, quality and ownership of the herd. The very nature of the business makes it necessary that the landlord take an interest in live stock and the crops and conditions necessary to make it profitable. The practices in the old dairy districts that have been developed after years of trial should be of assistance not only to men newly become landlords and tenants in these districts, but to those engaged in the same business in other districts. vexing problems may be cleared up by consulting this boiled-down experience, which includes such things as the ownership of the cattle, the furnishing of man labor, supervision and assistance by the landlord, machinery and tools, work animals, the division of receipts from swine and poultry, the rental of pasture, and the keeping of accounts.

Another interesting feature of the bulletin is the part dealing with the practices that have been worked out to satisfactorily handle the situation when the tenant leaves the farm—the division of jointly owned live stock, payment for feed left on the farm, and for winter grain, fall plowing, manure hauling, and improvements made by tenants. There are also discussions of the length of notice given of intention to terminate the lease, the length of the lease period, and the arrangements that have been found workable when farms are rented on crop shares to tenants having a few cows and getting all of the income from them.

Renting for Cash. It was found that most good dairy farms are rented on some sort of share basis and that it is usually the smaller and poorer farms that are rented for cash, but there are some owners, often those living at a distance from their land or those knowing little about farming, who find the cash arrangement the best, even though the farms may be good enough to attract the best tenants. However, the condition of the buildings and fences on many cash-rented farms and the difficulty of arranging for betterments handicap the dairyman on such places. Some land owners who rent for cash encourage better tenants and better farming by leasing a herd of cows with the land, but there are very few who follow this practice. A copy of the bulletin may be had by writing the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

BUTTER INSPECTION SERVICE

Department of Agriculture Will Make Examination of Product at Several Stations.

The United States Department of Agriculture maintains a butter-inspection service on the Boston, Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, and San Francisco markets, and at the request of shippers or other financially interested parties makes official inspection of butter offered for interstate shipment or received at important central markets designated by the secretary of agriculture.

Keep Ducks' Feet Warm. It is important that laying ducks be where they can keep their feet warm in winter and early spring. A glass window or a covering of canvas can be made to admit light to the winter quarters.

PROFITABLE PORKERS NEVER STOP GROWING

Essential Points for Growing Pigs Economically.

One Thing Often Neglected is Necessity of Keeping Young Animals Thriving From the Moment of Birth to Maturity.

[Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.]

In an exhibit entitled "Pork Production," shown by the United States Department of Agriculture at the International Live Stock exposition, Chicago, the department gave the essential points for raising swine economically.

Good breeding stock, proper mating, and careful feeding of the brood sows are all important, but a point in hog raising that should receive more attention, because it is often neglected, is the necessity of keeping the young pigs growing continuously from the moment of birth to maturity.

Even before the pigs are weaned they should have access to corn in self-feeders as a supplement to the sow's milk. As soon as they are weaned the pigs should be kept on full feed, either by self-feeder or by hand. Proper feeds and exercise furnished to vigorous pigs of proper type result in hogs of market weight at about eight months of age.

"The profitable pig is the one that never stops growing from farrowing to market" is a good slogan for every hog raiser.

ICE SUPPLY BIG NECESSITY

Especially Important on Farms Where Dairy Products Are Handled—Cost Is Not Great.

Ice is not a luxury on the farm, but a necessity. This at least is true on all farms where dairy products are handled and provisions should be made for housing a sufficient supply for use during the hot months of summer.

mer. On many farms ice can be secured from rivers, lakes and ponds for the cost of harvesting. If it does not have to be hauled for a long distance, the cost of putting it up is not large.

GOOD EARLY GRAZING CROPS

Rye, Barley, Wheat, Oats and Emmet Are Suitable—Succession Will Save Expense.

Early spring pasture crops for hogs and cattle and work stock will be very serviceable on many farms. The feed supply usually is greatly diminished when winter is over. Many farmers find that the small amount of cash on hand at that time must be used to provide food when it is needed for the family. But with early grazing crops the food crops will sometimes hold out till other crops are ready to use.

Rye, barley, wheat, oats, emmet are suitable for very early planting. Some farmers plant soon after the first of the year. Rape for hogs is a most excellent crop. Later peas, soybeans and other crops may be planted. A succession of grazing crops will save much expense in feeding.

Fields may be arranged so that when one is grazed out animals may be turned onto another field and the land planted to another crop, to be grazed later. In this way the land devoted to pasture may be kept producing and the animals may have grazing when they need it.

Select Eggs for Shipping.

Eggs selected for shipment should be clean, true to color and evenly graded as to size. Most of the markets now prefer a white egg ranging from 24 to 26 ounces per dozen and 28 to 30 ounces per dozen in size.

Cost of Feeding Hens.

Cost of feeding a hen, per month has been placed at 15 cents, for an average, according to investigations made by the West Virginia Agricultural college.

IN THE NEGLIGEES

Dainty Garments Necessary to Complete Wardrobe.

Silver Lace, Fur and Chiffon Are Among the Favorite Materials for Indoor Wear.

When it comes to intimate wear, things for the boudoir, breakfast coats and the like, the negligee of pink satin crepe with fillet lace, mouflon fur trimmed, is charming, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times.

Some of the sweetest of the little, short jackets for bedroom wear are made of soft, pale-tinted satins and are lined with chiffons in the same light tones. Around wide and flowing edges there runs a puffy band of marabou, adding softness.

Some of the longer house gowns are evolved from the boudoir things, and are so beautiful in design that they charm the eye of every one. Women nowadays are demanding interesting house clothes. They can maintain untold dignity while on parade and out of doors, but when they are holding forth within the confines of their own houses they express their personalities by way of their gown. There are many splendid looking things in the way of batiks. They are dyed in the loveliest of shades and printed in the most interesting of patterns.

Artists, indeed, are making a specialty of designing gowns for the house to suit particular personalities. They will take any handsome piece of fabric and from that simple foundation create a thing of chiffon lines and soft folds that has all the character of a robe for a princess.

Boudoir slippers are another touch to the ways of lingerie which women cannot pass by without due attention. The brocade and the satin mules that are now to be seen are of the loveliest varieties and are guaranteed to make any foot look a lovely thing. They are trimmed with edgings of marabou, with pompons of feathers or rosettes of ribbon. They are supplied sometimes with lacy edgings and trimmings, much in the manner of the underthings themselves, and they are bound to fit the purpose of bedroom wear along with the daintiest and sweetest of lingerie.

As for the lacy caps that are meant to be worn along with boudoir things, they are as charming as anything in the category of intimate things to wear. Sometimes they are made of straight strips of real lace that tie about the head, leaving streamers of

MAKING A SMART TRIMMING

Wide Tucks Found on Nearly Every Smart Garment; Arranged With Perfect Evenness.

Tucks have always been popular as a trimming, but their sphere of usefulness has never been so wide as now, when they are found on nearly every smart garment—suits, coats and day toilettes of every description.

In making a border of tucks it is essential that they be arranged with perfect evenness; haphazard creasing of lines and rough measurements cannot be relied upon even by the most expert needlewoman. For the assistance of the amateur a few hints on making tucks are given here:

First make a guide for the work. Take a piece of thin card and on it mark (a) the required width of the tuck; (b) twice the width of the tuck; (c) the width of the space to be left between each tuck (this is generally as wide as one width of the tuck). The card may be notched, or it may be wide enough to permit the ruling of lines. Hold the card over the material and mark off by pins the position which the tucks are to take.

All tucks should be tacked before they are sewn; it is impossible to obtain the best work without this essential, though no doubt tedious, precaution.

When tucks are made along "the straight" of material it is generally possible, without spoiling the fabric, to draw out a thread and so provide a guide for putting in the stitches.

Very neat stitches, equal in length, must be used. Hand stitching should be done on the underside of the tuck; slender ribbons hanging down behind. Then again they are most elaborate affairs of lace and net ribbon all sewed together to make a bewitching frame for the face. At the last minute, too, ribbon flower buds are added, tucked away over the ears or wound in a wreath all the way around the head. They certainly serve to make any head of hair look the more beautiful for their existence, for they are not only exquisite creations in themselves, but they are becoming to the feminine face under almost any conditions.

GOOD IDEA FOR SPRING WEAR

A practical street dress for spring wear is this navy canton crepe laid in box plaits from neck to hem and girdled by a bright colored belt of metal and fiber. A ribbon adds a smart touch to the creation.

LATE FASHION NOTES

Rosettes of ermine, caracul and moleskin appear as decoration on several hats of smart and becoming lines.

Sapphire blue, green of an intense and brilliant shade, and deep rose are colors much in evidence in every display of velvet evening gowns.

Fur turbans are now being very smartly draped with lace veils that are apt to go to any length. Some are fastened on the side with a lace cascade and others hang loose and full, sometimes almost to the waistline.

Evening gowns were the first to show the new dignity which now pervades all our fashions. They began being stately and gorgeous more than a year ago. A gown of ruby velvet illustrates a very tightly swathed underdress, reveals all the lines of the body, and has a Greek drapery, one-sided and placed over this foundation. The colored evening gowns far outnumber the black, but, in many houses, one finds black models brightened with silver, gold, steel embroideries, or touches of bright color. A well-known designer has a series of somber-tone evening gowns, dead leaf brown or grays, which give a new note in a world used to black, white, or vivid color at night.

CHEAP FURS NOT GOOD GUESS

Low-Priced Peltry Seldom Found Reasonable in the End—Skunk Will Give Good Service.

It is a well-known fact, asserts a fashion writer, that cheap furs are not always the most reasonable in the end. On the other hand the soft, lovely furs like lynx and fox and chinchilla and kolinsky, do not wear well, either. The one fur which seems to justify something of an outlay, if one must be satisfied to banish the idea of much change, is skunk. It is always in style, from the widest widths to the very narrowest of little lines. It is neither black nor brown. It looks well with black or any color, and it is practically impossible to wear it out. When short pelts are the vogue it holds its own, and when long-haired furs are the style, there is nothing prettier nor more becoming.
