Why Farmers are Turning to

In 1922 Chevrolet jumped from seventh to second place in sales of all cars, and to first place in sales of fully equipped modern cars.

Purchases by farmers were the chief factor in this remarkable development.

Farmers want automobiles not only of low first price, but also of low later cost for operation and maintenance.

They want room, comfort, and the ability to stand up under hard conditions.

They find that Chevrolet, fully equipped as sold, is the best value per dollar in the low-priced field, and neighbors tell them it costs less per mile to operate.

BETTY JANE

By RUBY H. MARTYN

(©, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Betty straightened the dilapidated window shade and got the wild disarrangement of the hired room into some order before she sat down on the edge of the lumpy bed and began to peel the orange she had brought for Elise.
"I nearly died last night," said Elise, slowly. "Believe me, I was scared here all alone."

Betty Jane braced her stout young heart to venture upon the thin ice of personalities.

"Can't you run out to your home for a visit? I'll hold down the extra work your being away would make at the office."

"There ain't no such country place attached to me, girle. The last of my folks died when I was in high school and I parked myself independent under the bright lights."

The glaring tragedy of that dwarfed Betty Jane's personal difficulties. Because life was being difficult just now for Betty Jane. She had come up to the city joyously, bound by the promise to send the home folks a certain part of the salary which had seemed fabulous to her farm knowledge of living expenditures. It took courage to remain gingham-clad in the midst of silks and volles and linceps. She had never imagined that food could cost so much. And her tiny room was in a hive of its kind.

To the amazement of the other girls this tanned, well-covered, shy Betty Jane "took" with the office men. The girls were huffy about that and watched her with cat-like eyes while they stood aloof. It wasn't easy for Betty Jane to have them giggling about secrets she could not share, and she had never imagined that such material for tragedy as Elise unfolded lay near their pert souls. Elise needed food and sunshine and home happiness, and was without a dozen cents to purchase them. Betty Jane just couldn't imagine how dreadful the world would be without home folks.

"You're going right straight out to our farm," she told Elise. "You'll have to get well there."

Because Elise loved her own existence and knew she was likely to die without some help, she acquiesced in Betty Jane's plan. For the moment she was too terrified by the fear of death to think of Michael.

It was when one of her schoolgirl sisters wrote that Nat had taken Elise to the county fair in his new flivver that Betty Jane narrowed her eyes and paid more attention to Michael.

"Why, yes, I will let you take me to the pictures this evening, and have supper afterward," she drawled, when he asked her for the hundredth time.

Hustling home from the office, Betty Jane took a red serge dress from its closet hook. The material was of the cheapest, and she had fashioned it evenings. She had squandered a coin on gleaming beads to dangle over the front, and she did hope the gown would hold together long enough for her purpose. Anyhow, Michael would pay for a meal she had gone without to purchase it. All that week she dizzied him, and at the end of it she invited him to the home farm for over Sunday.

Michael fell headlong, and he didn't strike bottom until he got down from the noisy, late train into the chilly dusk of a country evening. A purring flivver was drawn up at the edge of the station platform, and Betty Jane pushed him into the back seat.

"I'll sit in front with Nat," she said, and the figure called Nat said he bet she would. Betty Jane knew that tone of his voice called for her hand to snuggle over his rough sleeve. And she didn't want to bother about what was going on with Michael. She had heard Elise cry out gladly when she pushed him in.

The farm house was warm and light and fragrant with broiling ham. Betty Jane's mother had a glad welcome, and her school-age sisters dished the supper, and the quiet farmer father came in to sit at the head of the table. Betty Jane was very, very happy.

"There was an awful minute when I just couldn't breathe after Mich got in where I was," whispered Elise as she helped Betty Jane with the dishes afterward. "And he says he just can't believe this is me!"

Betty Jane laughed. A clear-skinned, going-to-be-plump Elise in pink percale was hardly recognizable. Michael had had the sense to know that he had always loved her and that she would be ready now to make his home a home indeed.

"You were a darling to bring him out," flushed Elise. "I shall tell the girls how perfectly splendid you are about everything. We thought you were just stinky when you were helping your people. Betty Jane, folks love you because you are genuine clew-through."

Betty Jane shook her head over the dish water. She could hear Nat talking in the other room as she dried the warm pan. She smiled happily. When Nat was ready to buy the farm he wanted she would be waiting. He came out into the kitchen now, as Elise drifted in where Michael was.

"Say, Bets, it makes me sweat sometimes to think of the city fellows," he grinned.

"Silly!" laughed Betty Jane. "I guess I know how to handle them!"

IT RELIEVED HER CATARRH

Coughed, Sneezed, Choked and Head Clogged Up She Had Headaches and Ringing in Head.

TRIED EVERYTHING: THEN FOUND SIMPLE REMEDY

People here who have symptoms of catarrh should read the experience of this Baltimore lady who had it a long time. She says: "I suffered with catarrh and tried inhalers and everything I heard of with no results. My head was all stuffed up. Breathing was impaired. Sneezing and coughing its would attack me. My head would ring and I almost always had headaches. My complexion was spotted and broken out, so you can imagine my surprise and delight when I was cured up and restored to excellent health. How it happened was this: I read an advertisement in the Baltimore paper telling about this wonderful medicine called Hypo-Cod. I got a bottle and have taken several. Now my complexion is clear and natural. My catarrh is entirely cured. I feel fine and have been so wonderfully benefited. I gladly testify about it," declared Mrs. Belle Cannon, 36 E. Heath St., Baltimore, Md.

While Hypo-Cod has elements in it which are often prescribed for catarrh (see formula on bottle), its real work is building and strengthening the system. Soon as you get your system in good fighting trim, nature can throw off minor catarrhal and bronchial troubles easy. It is when your system is fighting condition to ward off and throw off such troubles for good. Hypo-Cod tastes nice. Costs little and is pure and wholesome. All druggists have Earle's Hypo-Cod.—Advertisement.

Slight Misunderstanding.
Before beginning her story to the children the lady announced that if there was anything they did not understand they should raise their hands. In a few minutes she came to the passage: "And every morning the price would mount his beautiful white horse and caracole along the streets."

A little hand shot up.
"Well, dear?"
"Please'm, wouldn't it have been better for the prince to have used a cart?"
"What do you mean?"
"Why, you said he used to carry coal along the streets."

Would Do Her Best.
Charles M. Schwab says that his neighbors are forever trying to sell him things. Not long ago one man tried to sell him a cow. When Mr. Schwab inquired about the breed and age of the animal he did not receive very satisfactory answers. Finally he asked, "How much milk does she give?"
"Mr. Schwab, I don't know," was the reply, "but she's a darn good-matured cow and she'll give all she can."—Boston Transcript.

First Folios Bring High Prices.
A nod from Frank Sabin, which meant a bid of $5,000, or about $26,400, secured a first folio Shakespeare at Setheby's auction rooms, London. The bidding was spirited. A big effort was made to win the first folio for the United States. A representative of a New York firm carried the bidding to $20,250 before giving way to the London experts. Then followed a duel between Mr. Quaritch and Mr. Sabin which ended in victory for the latter. The copy was from the collection of the late Richard Johnson, Manchester. Last May the famous Daniel copy of the first folio, which was in the Burdett-Coutts Library, was sold for $8,500, about $38,700, and later went to the United States—London Mail.

The Baron's Spirit.
Samuel Gompers said at Atlantic City:
"Coal is too dear. There is no doubt about it. The coal barons have no mercy on us."
"I heard the other day about an inventor who went to a coal baron and said:
"I have struck a marvelous invention, sir—an imitation coal that can be sold at half price."
"Boosh!" sneered the coal baron. "Haven't we got one already that we sell at full price?"

A few days later the average man begins to boast of the good deed he did by mistake.

A small boy's idea of playing safe is to get his mother to promise not to tell his father.

Unkind.
"Yes, I certainly had some exciting times in Mexico," said he. "Many a time I but just escaped with my life."
"How unfortunate," she replied, slightly bored.
"Yes, it was. Once I was taken for a guerrilla and was thrown into prison."
"A natural mistake," she responded.
"What kind of a guerrilla did they think you were?"

Hall's Catarrh Medicine
Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. Western Canada Farms may be profitably Rented

In Western Canada there are farms to rent, ready for occupation, complete with good buildings, necessary implements, and in some cases stocked, which may be rented with profit to the tenants.

They may be had in well-settled districts with modern rural conveniences, with schools, churches and elevators close at hand, and, in most cases, near-by railroads and good roads.

Securing lists of land to rent or for sale is a new departure of the Department of Immigration. Renting land affords an opportunity for the man desirous of learning something of a country before he decides to purchase, earning a living and making money while gaining experience at low cost. Rent now if you choose, and buy later when you are satisfied.

It is worth an investigation. Share in the laurels and the profits of a country that has been awarded many world's championships in Wheat, Oats, Barley, other grains and Live Stock. Go where you will find a comfortable home and be able to produce at the lowest minimum cost.

Never in the history of agriculture has there been a greater need to reduce the cost of production, necessitated by present decline in prices, and no better opportunity than this has ever been offered. Low priced land that will yield a fair proportion of its cost each year is the first essential to profitable agriculture. This you will find in Western Canada.

In addition to lands for rent, there are improved farms for sale in some districts, as well as unbroken prairie land, held by railway companies and large holders, that is being offered for sale at low prices and on easy terms. The opportunity to secure free Homesteads is also still open.

In all parts of Western Canada grain crops of high value are grown: Wheat producing from 20 to 40 bushels per acre, Oats giving exceptional yields, Barley productive. Grass and fodder grow in quantity and quality that have caused cattle and stock raising, dairying, etc., to have unexcelled possibilities.
