

THIS LITTLE BABY GIRL

Was Benefited by the Good Her Mother Got from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my little girl was born, and the effect it had was wonderful. This will be the first child I have nursed, as I had to bring my two boys up on the bottle. I was very nervous and worried, tired all the time, and after I read about the Vegetable Compound I tried it and I still continue its use and recommend it to my friends. You may publish these facts as a testimonial for your medicine."—Mrs. WM. KLINGE, 169 Plymouth St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many mothers are left in a weakened and run-down condition after the birth of the child, and for such mothers the care of the baby is well-nigh impossible. Not only is it hard for the mother, but the child itself will indirectly suffer. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs. It can be taken in safety by the nursing mother.

Study of Ancient Chinese Culture

Fogg Museum of Harvard Is Sending Trio of Scientists on Exploring Expedition.

Cambridge, Mass.—The Fogg Art Museum of Harvard is sending three men to China for exploration and research. The force will consist of Langdon Warner, '03, who, until recently, was director of the Pennsylvania museum; H. H. F. Jayne, '20, assistant curator of that institution, and Duncan McDougall, son of Dr. William McDougall, professor of psychology at Harvard.

The work will consist largely of a preliminary survey in central and western China and will probably last not more than eight months in the field. Mr. Warner, who is in charge of the expedition, hopes to make considerable progress in determining the kin sites of the Sung dynasty and to visit some of the rock grottoes containing Buddhist sculptures of the Fifth and Sixth centuries A. D. A comprehensive series of rubbings from inscribed and decorated stone monuments and a considerable number of photographs, which have not been hitherto obtainable, are expected to be secured for the Fogg museum. It is hoped also that two or three important examples of early architecture still existing in northern China and Manchuria, which are fast falling to ruin, will be thoroughly measured and photographed.

To Collect Photographs. As funds are not available for the purchase of original objects of art to enrich the collections at Harvard, the first year's expedition will confine its work largely to procuring photographs, rubbings, measurements and other materials for the study of early and medieval Chinese Culture. If the results of the preliminary trip warrant it, excavations will be undertaken next year, if the consent of the Chinese government is obtained.

The importance of such work is apparent, when it is realized that, although Europe and America are familiar with the contents of early Chinese tombs, for which fabulous sums are paid by collectors and museums, no tomb with its contents undisturbed has been recorded and photographed by a responsible scientist. The tall pottery urns, bronzes, and jade found disposed about the bodies of the dead have been brought overseas by thousands, but the priceless information by which they might have been exactly dated is not available. It is argued that to know the arrangement of these little processions of figures in the grave, to find what wares are associated with others, to measure these tombs and to find and copy "in situ" the tablets buried with the dead would be worth more than the actual possession of all this material. Until the Harvard party reaches

May Lift Skirts Even if Collision Results

Regardless of accidents, skirts may be lifted on a muddy street and the law will not interfere, according to Judge Fellette, of Los Angeles, Cal. This victory for beautifully-ankled womanhood was won by Helen Holt, who is said to have been "careless and negligent of public safety" when she lifted her skirts while crossing a muddy street, causing the drivers of two motor-trucks to forget where they were going and to crash into each other.

Stole 75-Cent Ride; Got Religion; Pays

Chicago.—Some years ago, John E. Marker, Cincinnati, stole a ride on a Pennsylvania train which would have cost him 75 cents had he ridden in the regular way. From his home in Cincinnati he has sent the 75 cents to the Pennsylvania company, addressing a letter to A. H. Shaw, general passenger agent.

Claims to Be Oldest Farmer in America

That is the title claimed by George Elkins of Buncombe, Indiana. He is ninety-eight years old and is still active in his farm work, doing plowing and other work around the property. He has a very good memory, being able to cite the dates, names and other data regarding the Presidents of the United States he has voted for. He claims his longevity can be credited to keeping cool and not worrying, which tends to cut down a person's years. Also, it is his contention that some of the people push themselves into an early grave by being mean and always on the lookout to even up with the next man. Mr. Elkins does not drink and has not been smoking since the age of sixty.

WOMEN IN BRITAIN ARE TURNING TO ENGINEERING

Fair Relative of Peer Runs Machinery on Coast Liner.

London.—American women who find dressmaking, office work, school teaching and similar pursuits prosaic or unsatisfying may take a leaf from the book of their English sisters, who are rapidly taking to engineering, medicine, law and similar professional occupations which heretofore have been confined to men. Many English universities and schools have thrown open their engineering courses to women on exactly the same terms as to men, and the number of applicants far exceeds the capacity of the classrooms.

The phenomenal success achieved by Miss Victoria Drummond, a young English woman, as a marine engineer, has inspired new interest in the possibilities of engineering for the educated woman.

Women's engineering societies are springing up in the larger manufacturing and industrial centers, and one of the largest employers of labor in England said recently that no capable woman need fear lack of employment in this branch when she has successfully completed her training.

Miss Drummond, who is a granddaughter of the late Lord Amherst of Hackney, is now chief engineer on a large ocean steamer, and soon will apply for a license as a sea captain. But in spite of her success, English educators do not advise women to specialize in marine engineering with its peculiarly severe demands upon the physique and general health. Rather they are urged to choose the electrical branch of the profession.

For not only does this work impose less physical strain than any other

Form of engineering, these educational authorities say, but the employers are, as a rule, far less conservative in their ideas and far more willing to give women their opportunity.

The women's engineering course includes applied mathematics, mechanics, drawing and design, magnetism and electricity, pattern-making, the working of iron and steel foundry work, electrical measurements, strength of materials and theory of structures. Upon completion of her training, the woman finds many openings in draughtsmanship, X-ray work, automobiles, patent inventions, electric power stations, and auxiliary work. Many women are today carrying on small engineering businesses in England on their own account with considerable success.

Poet Stops Sale of Letters.

Berlin.—Gerhard Hauptmann, Germany's leading poet, obtained a temporary injunction against the sale of letters written by him to Otto Brahm in 1890. Hauptmann found the letters being auctioned for their autographs by a Berlin antique dealer.

Well-Known C. & O. Brakeman Says Tanlac Entirely Ended Dyspepsia and Nervousness.

"There's hardly a station between Clifton Forge and Hinton that I haven't told somebody about Tanlac," said R. D. Hayes, 48 Ridgeway St., Clifton Forge, Va., brakeman on the C. & O. for the past seventeen years.

"For a year I suffered from indigestion and nervousness and had such awful smothering spells at night that I would have to struggle for breath. My appetite was gone, and what I did eat did me little good. Constipation and a bad taste in my mouth caused me no end of worry, and my back ached terribly. My health finally got in such a low state that I was off my job almost half the time, and when I was working I didn't feel like anything.

A Virginia Case

Mrs. J. E. Thomas, 38, 6th St., Clifton Forge, Va., says: "My back ached like the toothache and I had dizzy spells and specks came before my eyes. My kidneys didn't act as they should. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and I purchased a box. My back became strong and my kidneys acted regularly. I felt better in every way."

"So many people kept saying Tanlac made them over that I took the treatment together with the Vegetable Pills, and it has done the same for me. My troubles are completely gone now, and I feel as good as new. I'm strong for Tanlac."
