Fifty Years Ago.

In 1874 Ferdinand W. Snyder was legally declared unable to care for his property, then worth $500,000. An accounting in a New York court shows that the estate now is worth over a million.

Time works wonders for the pocket-book. If you had banked $500,000 at compound interest in 1874 it would have grown to four million dollars by now. The same magic holds good for shorter times and smaller amounts.

A great many of us have fifty years ahead of us yet—Why not start now!

We pay 3 per cent. compound interest on Savings Accounts.
