Miss Nancy McWilliams, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, returned from her vacation and is again at her post. Miss McWilliams spent the time in Johnstown with her brothers, W. H. and J. H. McWilliams, painters and decorators.

We used to look at the heavy frost and then at a good and hot stove. Now we turn from the frost-bedecked nature to a cold stove and empty coal bin. But with all that we're glad not to have been born in Japan or even received a Firpo knock through the ropes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Sidney Royer, and son, John Royer, of York, were guests at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Royer, at 114 Frazier street, State College. Other guests entertained recently from York were Mr. and Mrs. Mae and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gasey, daughter and son; also, Mrs. Lester Goss, daughter Miriam and son Roy, of Milroy.

Howard Ritter made a "miscellaneous" or something happened his steering apparatus Tuesday morning in rounding the corner at the Lutheran church. The result was his Ford hit a large tree and pretty badly wrecked the car. Mr. Ritter had an eye knocked out, but this was enabled up quickly from among the pieces of the shattered windshield and replaced, as is often done by him. Otherwise there was no hurt to him or Newton Crawford, who was also in the car.

After a visit to her brother, J. C. Vonada, near Potters Mills, Mrs. Maggie Shutt, of Wellington, Ohio, returned to her home beginning of the week. During her stay here Mr. and Mrs. Vonada, Mrs. Shutt and Mrs. Emma Shutt, the latter of Aaronsburg, drove to Williamsport where they visited John Shreffler and sister, Catherine, now Mrs. Percy Rhoads, and families.

A policeman in uniform watched the population of Centre Hall peacefully go to and from religious services, what a useless expenditure of money!
On Saturday William F. Keller drove to Johnstown, taking with him Alfred Durst, Mrs. Alice Durst, and Miss Bernice Wagner. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Goodhart and on their return on Monday brought home with them Mrs. W. F. Keller who had gone to the home of her sister a short time previous.

W. D. Bartsch and family moved from Centre Hall to State College, on Tuesday, into a home at 806 East Beaver Avenue, which was purchased from Frank Keller. It is the educational advantages offered at Penn State that induced Mr. Bartsch to locate in the college town.

Way off from Bisbee, Arizona, came J. W. Eitlinger, to Centre county to visit old friends in Centre county and especially in Penns Valley, of which he is a native. While in this section he is a guest of T. B. Motz, of Millheim, who is a good host and is providing that the ten days are not being spent without getting over the county. The stop at this office was made on a trip to State College. Mr. Eitlinger is employed by the Phelps-Dodge corporation in the mining department in the copper Queen mines, and looks every bit a happy, prosperous man. The Dodge is Cleveland Dodge, the New York man of affairs, financial and political.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

New Orphans' Home Dormitory.

For some time Allegheny synod of the Lutheran church has been raising funds to build and equip a dormitory at the Loysville Orphans' Home. The new structure, dedicated a few days ago, is a beautiful two-story building, which will be the home of a large number of girls and will materially add to the capacity of the home. It will relieve the overcrowded condition and enable the home to reach many more children than before.

DEATHS.

BECHTOL—Mrs. Elizabeth Bechtol, wife of Peter Bechtol, died at her home above Colyer, Tuesday afternoon, from a lung affection. Interment will be made in Zion Hill cemetery, near Colyer, Friday afternoon. Her husband and a son at State College, survive. Before marriage Mrs. Bechtol was Miss Elizabeth Lingle.

BOYER—Mrs. Alice Boyer, wife of Samuel Boyer, died at her home at Aaronsburg, after a prolonged illness, aged 73 years, 11 months and 13 days. She was married twice, the first time to William Acker, who died a number of years ago at Aaronsburg. Some years after the death of Mr. Acker, she married Samuel A. Boyer, who survives. Two sons, W. H. Condo, of Elwhod, Ill., and Harry E. Acker, of Aaronsburg, also survive.

Interment was made in the Lutheran cemetery at Aaronsburg.

Joseph Rubie Safe in Japan.
Definite information has been received that Joseph Rubie, well known in Centre Hall, where he was partially reared, a son of Mrs. L. W. Rubie, of Cleveland, Ohio, was only slightly injured during the earthquake in Japan. His companion and Penn State classmate, Donald D. Herr, of Millburg, was killed outright.

When the quake came the two men were in a curio shop along the mountain at Miyanoshibe. The entire mountain road slid into a deep gorge, carrying the curio shop with it. Mr. Herr was killed immediately. Mr. Rubie was pinned to the ground by a broken telephone pole. Upon being released it was found that he had suffered only slight injuries.

That Petition for Connellman.
The explanations for the substitution of the name of G. E. Grove for H. E. Grove, on a petition for councilman in Centre Hall, are nothing short of a series of misrepresentation of facts. Even the person who acknowledged having made the error at the "request," "authority" or "advice" of another—whichever way it was put—does not have a full knowledge of what was done, according to statements attributed to him. It appears that the act was so lightly regarded by them that it failed to impress. Take a look at your own work, gentlemen, as it appears on the records in the court house and refresh your minds.
