

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

A hog butchered by Merchant C. F. Emery a few days ago, dressed 490 lbs.

The concert rendered by the Philippine quartet, Tuesday evening, was altogether acceptable.

Treasurer Orphans' Home, at Loyalsville, bequeathed $1500 in the will of Susanna Streep, of Barren Hill, near Norrisstown.

Miss Besse Coldron, head operator in the local Bell telephone exchange, attended a meeting of Bell operators at Altoona beginning of the week.

Mrs. Roger T. Bayard, of Tyrone, has been in a Philadelphia hospital during the past ten days or more and some time last week underwent an operation. Her condition was reported here to friends as favorable.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wieland, of Linden Hall, were in town Monday night. Mrs. Wieland spent the evening with Mrs. F. V. Goodhart while Mr. Wieland was looking after his own up town.

Miss Edith Cowher of Sandy Ridge, is the third stenographer at the Kerlin Grand View Poultry Farm. She is a graduate of the Williamsport Commercial College. She came here from Jersey Shore where she had been with a sister for some time.

Mrs. C. K. Stahl, of Philadelphia, a few days ago, underwent an operation in the Jefferson hospital, Philadelphia, for the removal of a tumor. Mr. and Mrs. James S. Stahl were notified of the operation with the statement that she was getting along very well.

While shooting mark at the Boal camp in the mountains back of Linden Hall, a young man from Gallitzin had a peculiar and rather serious accident. It appears the bullet fired hit a rock, rebounded and struck the young man's hand, almost completely severing three fingers and also badly lacerated the palm of the hand.

Samuel Horner, tenant on the Reiber farm near Colyer, on coming to Centre Hall Tuesday afternoon saw seven doe deer scampering around in a corn stubble field, and later they came quite near to him so that he could see them wink and blink. Mr. Horner will move onto the Spangler farm, at Tussey Sink when it is vacated by William S. Martz next spring.

J. H. DeWiler was a caller at the Reporter office, on Saturday, and was in very fit condition. He stated he was glad to be back again among his old friends. Mr. DeWiler was heartily greeted wherever he went about town. For the present he is staying at the home of a sister in Aaronsburg, but, of course, is about the Detwiler farm and Centre Hall a portion of the time.

Rev. H. C. Thompson, superintendent of the Johnstown district of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League will speak in the Lutheran church, Millheim, Wednesday, December 12, 7 P. M. In the Reformed church, Aaronsburg, on Thursday, Dec. 13, at 7. Do not fail to hear him. All Christian American citizens of the community should attend.

Frank McFarlane, of near Boalsburg, returned from the Presbyterian hospital, Philadelphia, after a stay there of eight weeks. Dr. Radcliffe, chief operating surgeon of the Wills Eye and Ear hospital, operated on the eyes of Mr. McFarlane. Previous to this some badly infected teeth had been removed. Mr. McFarlane thinks he is somewhat better since reaching home, but it will require time to obtain the full results of the operations and treatment.

The First National Bank of Montgomery announces the opening of its new building on Saturday. The bank was organized some twenty years ago and has enjoyed an unusually profitable business since then. The new building is a perfect delight in architecture and has in it every facility needed in a modern institution of this kind. The first president was Hervey Smith, now deceased. William Decker following him in that capacity. William A. Smith, a son of the former president, is a vice president.

"Meeting the Nation's Need" is the title of a lecture to be given in Grange Acadia, Thursday evening, 20th inst., by Rev. G. A. Williams, A. M., of Tyrone. Rev. Williams, who is a brother of Rev. Elmer Williams, also known as the fighting parson of Chicago, is pastor of the Columbia Avenue Methodist Church, Tyrone, and Grand Vice Chief of the Knights of the Golden Eagles of Pennsylvania. The lecture is free, except that an offering will be taken. The lecture is under the auspices of the local Knights of the Golden Eagles.

Mrs. J. G. King, of Centre Hall, was asked when in Pittsburgh recently by the president of the prison board of our Rockview penitentiary, to solicit and have donated the games of dominoes and checkerboards, second hand or new, to be given to the prisoners of Rockview, to interest and amuse them on rainy days and weather too bad for outdoor work. Any amusing games are wanted, but no cards. Such contributions can be sent to, or handed to, Mrs. J. G. King, at her home in Centre Hall and will be forwarded by her to Rockview Penitentiary.

COURT BRIEFS.

The December session of court opened Monday morning. The attendance was unusually large, due to a considerable extent that ladies are interesting themselves in court happenings now whereas heretofore women shunned the court room unless obliged to go there.

Among the first cases to be heard was the Emerick-Braucht-Zettie dispute, which resulted in a verdict favorable to George H. Emerick. William Musser was brought before court and pleaded guilty to one of the charges preferred against him by the commonwealth. He was sentenced to from one to two years in jail and a fine of $500.00.

Monday and Tuesday was devoted to the trial by jury of civil cases. The grand jury had not completed its work on Wednesday morning.

Bucks Elude Hunters.

One of two things is happening in the deer hunting fields of Centre county—either the bucks, after the first three days of the hunting season have been able to successfully elude the hunters or else the horned game has been reduced to the point of near extinction. It is the general opinion of hunters who returned from the camps that buck deer have not been nearly as plentiful this season as last, and that if the hunters keep on increasing in numbers or even return in like numbers during the coming few years, buck deer with a rack will be a curiosity.

During the first period of the present season the heretofore prolific deer fields were so thoroughly combed by the hunters that it was almost impossible for a buck to escape being killed. In some sections "drives" of a mile in length were covered at the same time by three sets of hunters, each having enough men to completely rake up every deer in it. Such raking and combing cannot go on indefinitely without depleting game to a point near extinction. While deprecating these conditions, no one seems to be able to suggest an adequate remedy except to make the legal buck one with a rack of some determined character that will give him a legal lease of life of at least three or four years.

The practice of pot-hunting from trees is being very severely condemned by many real sports. When one considers how little attention is paid to the well known rules of real sportsmanship in the hunting fields, it must be acknowledged that among those who camp in the mountains annually at this season there are many capable of committing every known violation of the law. As long as their fellow companions fail to punish these violators, no change may be looked for. The instant the leaders in camps proclaim hunters must come in clean every night, true sportsmanship will prevail. Such action has been too long deferred.

A white buck deer circled in Penns Valley Wednesday forenoon of last week, coming across from Tussey Mountain to the Neff district above Old Fort. He was raced about in the valley but the last heard of him he was yet an ailing, with as good as new movement.

A five point buck was killed on Sand Mountain by A. C. Young, of Frankford, a Philadelphia suburb. He is a P. R. R. clerk and while in Potter county hunting bear ran across H. E. Shreckengast, of near Centre Hall, and accompanied him to his home and then began hunting in the Seven Mountains. There were seven men in the crew, but one deer was all that was captured.

Fred Nevil, of Milton, during the past week was deer hunting over the grounds he tramped since a boy. He was unable to get a buck, but came in one day with a fine large five male raccoon which he took with him to Milton. Mr. Nevil has been employed with the Penn Light and Power Company for several years.

A buck with a fine rack was killed by L. Calvin Runkle, of Shamokin, who hunted with the Bradford party in the Seven Mountains.

MELLON FILCHES GOOD STUFF FROM THE DEMOCRATS.

He Now Finds Practical What He and His Colleagues Declared Unworkable When Presented by a Democrat.

While Republican leaders are fighting over Secretary Mellon's proposal for tax revision, attention is called to the fact that whenever a Republican spokesman of importance proposes something with meritorious features, the proposal is found upon examination to have been adopted or stolen from Democrats.

With special reference to Secretary Mellon's recent letter to the House Ways and Means Committee, urging that a 25 per cent reduction be made on earned incomes the Democratic National Committee reminds the public that an amendment for this same purpose was proposed in the Senate by Senator Harris of Georgia when the Revenue Bill was under consideration. The amendment came up for discussion on October 24, 1921; was debated most of the day and defeated by a nay vote of 21 to 26. Only one Democratic vote was cast against it.

Senator Harris' amendment provided a rate of 2 per cent on the first $4,000 earned by labor or personal service, and 4 per cent on incomes over $4000. Senator Penrose, then Chairman of the Finance committee, the boss of the Senate and of the Republican party, said this of Senator Harris' amendment:

"The question of earned and unearned incomes was most exhaustively considered by the committee, by the Senate and by the Treasury Department and the opinion was nearly unanimous that any such provision is impossible of administration."
Mr. Mellon was secretary of the Treasury then as he is now and it seems that he now finds the Democratic amendment practicable.
