

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Cut price sale of hats and trimmings at the hat shop of Mrs. Lucy Henney, Centre Hall.

Fresh fish and oysters at the old stand, the latter part of this week.—Wilbur Bland, Centre Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Dahiel Callahan extend thanks to neighbors for their kind help through their recent bereavement.

Joseph M. Carson, of Potters Mills, called on the Reporter Tuesday and reported John Armstrong not improving, although some days his condition is much better than on others.

Miss Helen Treester, of Linden Hall, a student in the State College High School, was a guest at the George Seanson home in Centre Hall the beginning of this week.

Mrs. H. G. Strohmeler and Mrs. R. D. Foreman, of Centre Hall, on Tuesday returned from Cleveland, Ohio, where they visited Mrs. Strohmeler's daughter, Mrs. Clayton Homan.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Knarr, of Centre Hall, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kuhn, of Boalsburg, attended the funeral of Mitchell Stover in Altoona. His death notice appears elsewhere in this issue.

A car load of Missouri mules will be offered at private sale or exchange, in Millheim, by George W. Wolfe, on Saturday, 19th inst. The mules run in age from 2 to 6 years. See advertisement in this issue.

The icy condition of Nittany Mountain deters many from driving to either Bellefonte or Lewistown, unless on urgent business. The Woodward Narrows are also a "sheet of ice" as declared by those who drove between Millheim and here the beginning of the week.

Mrs. W. Frank Bradford, one day last week, went on a week's trip through Ohio, the principal stopping places on her tour to be Cleveland and Worcester. At the former place she will spend a bit of time with Mrs. Aikens, formerly of Bellefonte, and at the latter place she has a number of relatives living on her father's side of the house—Odenkirk by name.

William S. Martz, of near Tusseyville, announces sale of his farm stock and implements on March 15. He and Mrs. Martz had at one time contemplated locating in the Lewistown district, but their present plans are to move into the Messinger property, near Tusseyville, owned by M. F. Rossman. They may, however, after living there a while, decide on going elsewhere.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. M. C. Drumm and little daughter spent a few days the past week at her former home near Sunbury.

Mrs. Hulda Meyer and daughter, Mrs. Verma Musser, of Millheim, were among friends in Centre Hall for a few days this week.

Mrs. W. A. Magee and little son, Forest, of Wenonah, New Jersey, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Magee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Huyett, in Centre Hall, having come there about ten days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew F. Rote, of Spring Mills, drove to Centre Hall on Tuesday in their car. The couple are having retired in a comfortable home since leaving the farm some years ago and are enjoying life.

One more man was laid off from the force of the local railroad trackmen, the latter part of last week. It struck Robert I. Smith, but the next day he got word he could be used at Coburn with the trackmen there. He is now making daily trips to that place.

Roy M. Garbrick, of near Centre Hall, was one of the Reporter's former patrons to call here on Monday. Mr. Garbrick is engaged in diversified farming, and gives considerable attention to cows, and like all, or at least most farmers who give milk cows proper care, is not so much concerned about low price of grain.

It is now Sheriff Edward R. Taylor. He took charge of the sheriff's office on Monday at noon. John Dunlap, as was previously announced, has been named deputy sheriff. Business with a sheriff is usually of an unpleasant character, whether an offender, prosecutor, or other legal business. It is never a joy-time. As far as is possible under the law, Sheriff Taylor will minimize these unpleasantnesses.

Mrs. T. M. Gramley, of Spring Mills, is at a sanitarium in Delaware, Ohio, and recently underwent a serious operation which included the removal of a tumor from the liver and the removal of the appendix. Her condition today is said to be reasonably favorable. Mrs. Gramley has been a sufferer for a number of years from various causes and has heretofore spent much time in hospital. The relief given has never been more than temporary, but her family and friends are anticipating more permanent results from the treatment she is now receiving. Miss Orpha Gramley, a daughter, is also, at the Delaware institution aiding in the care of her mother and at the same time is receiving treatment.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. John Bubb, of near Colyer, who had been rather seriously ill, has very much improved.

Mrs. Lizzie Dunkle, of Punxsutawney, returned to her home in that city Tuesday morning after a visit to her brothers and sister, near Tusseyville.

Charles A. Miller, one of the Potter township auditors, was a business caller at this office Tuesday. He reported everything along in the usual channels in his locality.

The business in the Bartholomew building formerly conducted by C. D. Bartholomew is now in the hands of C. Nevin Hookman, who purchased the entire plant.

L. L. Houltz, of State College, a green house foreman, was in Centre Hall on Tuesday in search of a car to suit his taste and also to attend to a bit of banking business.

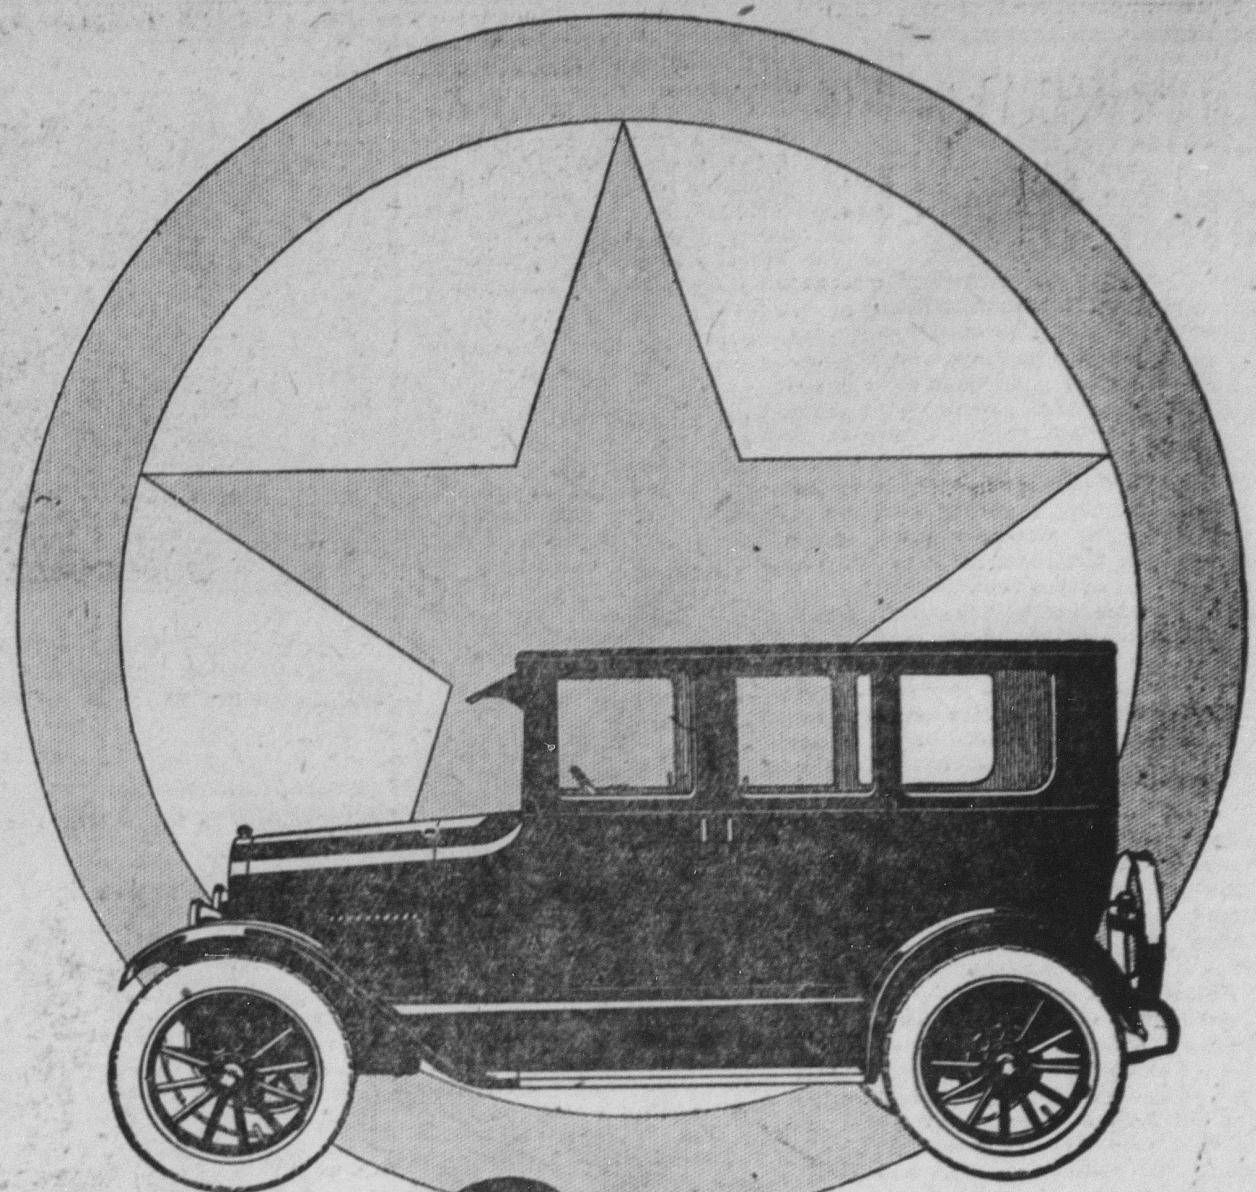

Mrs. Frank D. Lee, who suffered a paralytic stroke at her home in Centre Hall two weeks ago, continues to show signs of improvement, which is gratifying to her many friends.

The Salt Lake Telegram, Sunday edition, published at Salt Lake City, Utah, reached the Reporter's desk on Tuesday morning. It was forwarded from the address of T. Milton Osman. The paper indicates Salt Lake City to be booming, which it evidently is.

James Parks, a notorious character about Bellefonte, who has before the court on a number of offenses, among them being entering a bungalow near Bellefonte and carrying away property, was sentenced on Saturday by Judge Quigley to five years in the Western penitentiary.

The following is reprinted from the Williamsport Sun and refers to a citizen well known to many of the Reporter readers: William P. Kuhn, buyer of wash goods for the Bush and Bull Co., has returned from New York city markets, after having spent several days buying new fabrics for early spring selling.

The services in the various churches throughout the first period of the Week of Prayer have been fairly well attended. Some of the discourses have been of a highly elevating character; they were gospel messages devoid of all else. While ministers whose stock in trade is sensationalism, regardless of its character, appear at times to be able to draw large audiences, the test lies in being able to give to the audience, large or small, the thing we ought to go to church for: to hear the gospel preached.
