

REBERSBURG.

John Spangler is sporting a brand new sedan.

Rebersburg will have another garage in the near future, so says gossip.

Stanley Ziegler has opened a shoe repairing shop at his residence in Rebersburg.

James Danler, whose health has been bad or several months is not improving.

Fred Resides, a fur dealer of State College, was a caller at the J. D. Houser home one day last week.

Clarence Sheesley and wife, of Mirflinburg, visited over Sunday at the Lee Weber home.

Rumor has it that several fertile farm situated at the east end of this valley will be without tenants and will therefore remain unfilled.

George Corman quite recently bought the building lot and garage known as the Fred Bender garage, and will use the building to store lumber, etc.

Last Friday evening while Rev. Daubenspeck was delivering an interesting sermon in the Lutheran church here the electric lights suddenly ceased to give light and the room was thrown in darkness. The sexton at once procured kerosene lamps and the services continued.

Several petitions were circulated through this part of Brush valley to procure the names of those in favor of condemning the two turnpikes, one leading through part of this valley to Millheim, and the other from Millheim to Coburn, our nearest railroad station. So far as we learn the citizens of this township are unanimously in favor of putting away with these toll roads.

Clement Gramley, who was appointed temporary postmaster here last April, owing to the vacancy made by the death of S. W. Miller, was on last Friday appointed postmaster. Mr. Gramley during his temporary appointment made a very efficient official and we feel quite confident that with the assistance of his clerk, C. H. Small, the patrons will be served with promptness.

THE RAMBLING REPORTER.

Sleds are out of style this year.

This reminds us that styles change very suddenly, and some one said that January and February are planning a conspiracy. Get the drift? Better arm yourself with a scoop shovel.

A certain young man from Bellefonte says: "A rather neat way to prevent falling in love is to fall in the lake."

The second of the buildings to be erected by the Building Campaign Fund is rapidly taking a recognizable form and is looming up as a fit companion for the already occupied Watts Hall. The building is to be finished in June.

Burrell N. Riker, a Penn State student, will be sent to the Gregg Township Vocational School to work off his required credits for practice teaching. Mr. Riker will graduate at the close of the present college semester. The "Rambling Reporter" wishes him a successful career.

The Nittany basketball team decisively defeated the Carnegie Tech five Saturday night in a 52-32 score. This is the third victory this season for the State Quintet. The State yearlings defeated the Bucknell tossers in a preliminary game before the same audience. Gettysburg is State's next opponent.

A rather unique idea for obtaining attendance in the Young Men's Lutheran Sunday-school class of Georges Valley is to charge 25 cents for each unexcused absence. Realizing that an increased attendance would mean a more interesting discussion of the lesson, the boys adopted this plan. Mr. Nester Heckman is the teacher of this class now and he held this position since the organization of the class.

SPRING MILLS

Mrs. Mallory, of Rebersburg, spent a few days at the T. M. Gramley home.

George Gentzell and wife were to Shamokin last week to attend a funeral.

Eugene Allison, of Renovo, was a visitor at the Harry Allison home over Sunday.

The township auditors, William Rishel, Clair Ohl and Clarence Musser, finished auditing the township accounts on Monday.

George Weaver is very ill at this writing.

Walter Wolfe was to York to visit his sisters quite recently.

Properties are changing owners pretty rapidly. Ralph Shook purchased the Daniel Ripkay home; John Graden the Mrs. Agnes Osman home; Mrs. A. N. Finkle, Russell Condo and Dean Braucht each purchased one from C. P. Long; Benjamin Gentzell purchased the planing mill property from Joseph Confer and will build a home there; Harry Allison will build a house between the bank and the post office.

The union meetings held in the various churches were well attended and some excellent sermons were delivered.

The Vocational School basketball team was to Lock Haven on Friday night to play the Normal School team. Vocational won the game.
