LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Prof. L. O. Packer was home from Pittsburgh over Saturday and Sunday.
Bettie Ebright spent the week-end at Rhoneywood with Florence Brooks, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cloyd Brooks.
There is little, if any, change for the better in the physical condition of James W. Runkle at the Centre Hall hotel.
Newton Ebright, of Millintown, a younger brother of H. Leigh Ebright, is being entertained in Centre Hall by Mr. and Mrs. Ebright.
The Garman opera house, has again been leased by Clayton Brown, who has long conducted the Scenic Theatre lease with the Moose order and covers a period of three years.
The house to be vacated by I. A. Sweetwood will be occupied by F. K. Carter, of Williamsport, who purchased it, and H. E. Shreckengast, who now lives on the Harper farm east of town.
After treatment in the Geisinger hospital, Danville, for several weeks, Mrs. A. Kessler, of Millheim, returned to her home. Her condition is such as to give encouragement to her family and friends.
Dr. Byron King, the eminent orator from Pittsburgh, spoke to a large audience in Grange hall on Tuesday evening, on the subject, "What Fools These Mortals Be." Dr. King blended the ridiculous with the sublime in a manner as only a master mind can. It was the best thing heard in Centre Hall since the days of Dr. Gray, Dr. Chase, and Governor Glenn, of the early lyceum course days.
I. A. Sweetwood, who has been a state road man for a number of years, is preparing to move to Glenside, Montgomery county, and expects to ship his goods about the 20th of this month. He will continue road building under state supervision, the road from the Philadelphia city limits through Glenside to be the first to be built by him. Messrs. James and William, sons of Mr. Sweetwood, expect to remain in the Bellefonte office of the State Highway department.
Samuel C. Watts, who died as he got into a dentist's chair in Curwensville, was a brother of Dean R. L. Watts, of Penn State. He was known to a number of people about Centre Hall, having come to visit the C. D. Bartholomew family with Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Kittleberger, also of Curwensville. Mr. Watts was a farmer by occupation. He had been in poor health and his physician prescribed that he have his teeth removed. He collapsed almost immediately on taking his seat on the dentist's chair.
Where "Missing Girls" Go To.
More than 5,000 persons, mostly women, disappear through the mysterious gateway of missing persons in Los Angeles, California, every year. From every part of the United States and on almost every incoming train they arrive. Where most of them go nobody ever knows but many of them, discouraged, broken hearted and ruined sink forever in the sea of oblivion. A few chastened and repentant, rise out of their misfortune or degradation and return to the land of their friends and families to take up life anew. Still others who have thus returned to respectability, fall again and are then lost forever among the denizens of the Underworld. Mrs. Nellie Schriener, who for fifteen years has been a police-woman in Los Angeles, tells of some of the cases that came under her observation in next Sunday's New York Sunday American. You may have the Great Sunday American mailed to your address to reach you on Saturday mornings, ten weeks for $1. Pin a dollar bill to this notice and send it with your name and address to Circulation Department, New York American, 238 William Street, New York City.

DEATHS.

MUSSER—William S. Musser, station agent at Middletown on the Pennsylvania system, died Sunday at his home, and from what can be gathered his death was sudden. So far as is known here he was laid to rest in Middletown on Tuesday, where he had been located since about 1915.
The deceased was a son of Michael M. and Catherine (Pfeiser) Musser, and was born and reared at Aaronburg, where his father was postmaster and a prominent citizen. He began his career as a railroad man about 1884, at which time he entered the railroad office at Coburn, under Agent Kreamer, taking up telegraphy and the general work of the office. From there he went to Spring Mills working under Agent Soers; then he was transferred to Lykens, Northumberland, Columbia and then to Middletown, his services always being most efficient.
While at Spring Mills he married Miss Clara Hettinger, who with one daughter, Marion, wife of Raymond J. Boyles, at Columbia, are the survivors of the family. A sister, Mrs. Mary Edwards, of State College, is the only one of the brothers and sisters of the deceased now living.
Mr. Musser is well known to many of the Reporter readers in Penna. Valley, where he was held in the highest esteem. He was a member of the Lutheran church and prominent in Masonic circles.
The Middletown Daily Journal in giving an account of Mr. Musser's death among other things said:
William S. Musser died very suddenly at his home on Pine Street, about 10 o'clock Saturday night, from a heart attack. Mr. Musser had complained of not feeling well for the past few days, but his condition was not considered serious.
He was a member of the B. P. O. E. of Columbia; Enclid Lodge, F. and A. M., Harrisburg; Harrisburg Consistory, Zeno Temple Mystic Shrine and a Knight Templar.
The services and interment were private. The body was viewed from 12 until 1 o'clock Tuesday. The Blue Lodge of Masons, of which he was a charter member, had charge of the funeral.
HESS—George D. Hess, one of Clearfield county's oldest, best known and most highly esteemed citizens, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Blanche Williams in Kyertown, aged 99 years, 2 months and 24 days.
The deceased was born at Aaronburg on November 24, 1823, being the son of Benjamin and Mary Hess, honored pioneer residents of that section. He went to Clearfield county when a boy. He learned the carpenter trade and followed that vocation for many years. On Dec. 30, 1858, he married Miss C. Amanda Daugherty, who died some years ago.
Mr. Hess is survived by one son and four daughters, viz: Albert E. Hess, of Winburne; Mrs. J. W. Moore, of San Diego, Cal.; Mrs. T. A. Leonard, Pullman, Wash.; Mrs. Lisle Hoover, Altoona, and Mrs. Blanche Williams, of Kyertown.
BAUMGARDNER—Mrs. Hannah Jane Frazier Baumgardner, wife of Collins C. Baumgardner, died at her home at Pleasant Gap Thursday morning of last week as the result of a stroke of paralysis.
She was a daughter of Isaac and Barbara Reish and was born in Union county on July 19th, 1823, hence was in her sixty-first year. She married Mr. Baumgardner on August 17th, 1850, and practically all their married life has been spent near Pleasant Gap. A member of the Reformed church all her life she was a woman of sterling worth and splendid christian character.
In addition to her husband she is survived by the following children: Mrs. Oscar Struble, of State College; Mrs. Harry Brown, of Tyrone; I. R. Baumgardner, of Bellefonte; Claude A. of Pleasant Gap, and Charles Lester, of Tyrone. Funeral services were held at her late home at ten o'clock Saturday morning. Rev. Dr. Schmidt and Rev. Kepler officiated and burial was made in the Pleasant Gap cemetery.
MUSSINA—W. B. Mussina, of Milton, died at the Williamsport hospital following an operation. He was aged 82 years and was born at Aaronburg. He was engaged in the general merchandise business at Mt. Carmel and Cowan for sixty years. He was the senior member of Mussina Heiser and Co., from 1873 to 1921, the firm being located at Cowan, Union county.
Mr. Mussina was preceded in death by his wife, who passed away on October 31, 1923, at the age of 73 years. Surviving him are three children: C. C. Mussina, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. O. C. Gornier, of Harrisburg; M. S. Mussina, of Milton, and one brother, Henry B. Mussina, of Williamsport.
Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the home of his son at Milton.

ULRICH—At his home in Millheim, George Ulrich passed away rather unexpectedly, although he had been ill for some time. Interment was made in Fairview cemetery, at Millheim. Mr. Ulrich was aged 85 years, 1 month and 29 days. He was mustered into service in Bellefonte, in Company B, 10th Regiment in 1861, having lived in Clearfield at this time. He had been long a resident of Millheim, where he conducted a saddler shop.
On June 7, 1866, he married Mary Jane Raudabush. To this union four children of whom died in infancy, were born. On May 30, 1876, some time after the death of his first wife, he married Miss Amelia Stover, who bore him five children, one of these

A Creditable Entertainment.
The Millheim high school did itself much credit through its orchestra which gave an entertainment in Grange Arcadia on Saturday evening. There was not a number on the program that was not entitled to the hearty applause it got from the audience, which, by the way, was small, but the weather conditions were such that a further explanation is unnecessary. The orchestra, Director R. A. Miller stated, was composed of seventeen pieces; sickness however, on this occasion reduced the performers to fourteen. The solos, duets and quartettes were delightfully rendered. The organization should continue to receive the hearty support of Millheim people, and it no doubt will.
