Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

RESPONSIBILITY

WITHIN the breasts of ambitious youths of both sexes there is a yearning for the day when they shall be in a position to assume responsibility, buckle on their armor and march at the head of their own regiment.

As they look out upon the vista of years confronting them, they dream of the worlds they shall conquer, and the honor which shall be theirs when their hairs have caught some of the whiteness of snow.

It is good to peep into the future and venture a guess as to what it holds for brave hearts and willing hands.

Those who do this in honor to themselves and their employers have within them the essence of which noble manhood and womanhood are made. They are not ashamed to toil and soil their hands, for they know that manual labor brings to the faithful a quality of content that cannot be attained by any other means.

So they keep pressing toward the dream-city, eager for conquest and anxious to accept responsibility.

What these ardent youths are doing now is well done. Each day there is visible improvement in their work. They cut to the mark.

It matters not that their friends are few, so long as they are true. With such friends they are comfortable and happy. Neither they nor their associates spend their evening hours in idleness.

They read and think, discuss the leading questions of the day. In this manner they broaden their minds, sharpen their vision and strengthen their powers to reason.

They dwell in contentment with the noisy world all about them, obsessed with the one idea of some day bearing

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By HELEN ROWLAND

A MAN always lets somebody else do his worrying for him—but a woman doesn't need any help.

This is an age of self-made men, machine-made laws, home-made drinks and home-made beguities.

It isn't until after the smash-up, that a man decides that it requires something besides brute force and determination to run a motorcar—or a wife.

It doesn't take so very much love to “make the world go round,” if you have plenty of money to oil the axis.

“Laisure,” to a married woman, is that sweet “pause in the day's occupation,” when nobody around the house can think up anything else for her to do.

Yes, Millicent, the difference between the way in which a man tries to “persuade” you of something before marriage, and the way in which he will try to “convince” you of something after marriage, is as great as the difference between the way he talks to a toddler-top, and the way he talks to a balky flivver.

Every man fondly hopes to find a woman who will “understand” him, and who, at the same time, knows nothing of the world and its wickedness.

A compliment from a husband would be as precious as pure radium, if he didn't always hand it to you wrapped in the cotton-batting of “good advice.”

A man's love is not dead, until he begins to think of his wife, merely as the person who disturbs his morning beauty-sleep, and his after-dinner reveries.

YELLOW STAR-GRASS

“I've come to visit you,” said a little Bee to the Yellow Star-Grass Flower. “I'm pleased to find you at home.” The Bee added, after a moment, “You're always welcome,” the Yellow Star-Grass Flower said. “Won't you have some of my refreshments?”

The little Bee smiled just a trifle. Really he had hoped very much for refreshments and he had hoped that he had not hinted too much.

“Why if you have plenty to spare,” he said, “I would be delighted to have some refreshments.”

“I have plenty,” said the Yellow Star-Grass Flower. “And I would be delighted to have you take home some to the children.”

Now that was just what the little Bee had wanted. He knew how the children would love some of this delicious pollen which the Yellow Star-Grass made so perfectly.

Truly the Yellow Star-Grass didn't have to ask anyone else how to make the best pollen!

“Well, that's too good of you,” said the Bee, hoping as he spoke that the Yellow Star-Grass Flower would not think so!

“It would be a great treat for them,” he added, thinking maybe the Yellow Star-Grass Flower might change its mind.

“Splendid,” said the Yellow Star-Grass Flower, “just help yourself. You'll find plenty, I think.”

So the little Bee helped himself and gathered plenty for the children, too. He did not think it would be polite to grab too much so as he passed the sticky pistil end of the other flowers about to open he offered them some too.

Perhaps the Yellow Star-Grass Flower had arranged it this way. Little Mr. Bee thought this was the

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little “Freezone” on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of “Freezone” for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Locating His Aches

After several trips to the dentist Eddie woke up the other morning with a well-developed toothache. He immediately took his renewed troubles to his mother.

“Mother,” he said, ruefully rubbing his face, “my tooth aches again.”

“Where is the pain now?” she asked.

“It's in the jaw nearest town,” he said.

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper

Swamp-Root a Fine Medicine

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them.

By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by parcel post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

ENOUGH

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THERE'S a fellow higher up, and a fellow lower down, Some have silver when they sup, There are others on the town, And somewhere in Between the two, Not up nor down, Are I and you.

There's a fellow who has more, There's a fellow who has less; Looking other people o'er We're just average, I guess. Not rich nor poor Is what I mean But somewhere else Just in between.

There's a fellow with the gout, There's a fellow minus shoes, When I have to move about Neither fortune I would choose. For you and I Are satisfied, Prepared to walk Or glad to ride.

There's a weary millionaire, There's a man without a cent, In between the two somewhere We are mightily content. We haven't stuff, A lot of such, Yet, thank the Lord, We have enough.

SCHOOL DAYS

Mother's Cook Book

Entire candor and honesty regarding oneself, instead of being the first, is one of the last and highest attainments of a perfectly fashioned character. But though this is true, it is also the beginning of all well-doing; without some measure of it, even though weak and unsteady, no good thing can begin.—J. C. Shaipp.

THINGS FOR THE FAMILY

Put into a punch bowl a cupful of granulated sugar and the juice of six lemons. Put in three peeled and sliced lemons and leave on ice until ready to serve. Add a dozen sprays of green mint and a quart of cracked ice. Stir well and pour into it three bottles of ginger ale. Serve at once.

Orange Cake.

Take two cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of shortening, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of milk, one-half cupful of orange juice, four cupfuls of flour, five eggs and four teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix and bake in layers and use the following for the filling:

Cook all together—one-half cupful of sugar, two-thirds cupful of water, two tablespoonfuls each of butter and corn starch, one-third of a cupful of orange juice and a teaspoonful of lemon juice. When smooth and well cooked pour over a well-beaten egg. Beat until cool.

Savory Potatoes.

Arrange eight medium-sized potatoes in a shallow baking dish, after peeling them. Add one-fourth cupful of water, six tablespoonfuls of olive oil, two onions minced, one tablespoonful of powdered sage, one teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of pepper. Bake an hour until the potatoes are brown and soft.

The Young Lady Across the Way

The young lady across the way says the man in charge of the filling station seems to be a very nice young fellow, and she feels sure every gallon of gasoline she gets when he is on duty contains the full two quarts.

World's Storehouse

Mexico is often referred to as the “storehouse of the world” because of the great fertility of its soil and its almost inexhaustible natural resources. Humboldt, the German naturalist, nearly a hundred years ago spoke of Mexico as the “treasure house of the world.” Although still undeveloped, Mexico is one of the most richly mineralized regions of the earth.
