

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Squire Cyrus Brungart was excused from jury service at May sessions of court this week.

Ambassador Cyrus E. Woods has forwarded his resignation. He will sail from Japan, June 5th.

Five miles of Macadam road are to be built between McVeytown and Mt. Union by the State highway department.

The Walter L. Main show and the Niagara Falls excursion trains passed over the Lewistown branch Sunday night.

The Centre County Christian Endeavor convention will meet in Philipsburg, Tuesday, June 3rd—three sessions.

Charles F. Shook, of Spring Mills, was a caller at the Reporter office on Tuesday. Like all farmers, he is looking forward to nice weather.

Rev. D. R. Keener and D. K. Keller are attending the sessions of Reformed Classis, at Selingsgrove, this week.

C. P. Ramer, the local Maxwell dealer, on Saturday delivered a Maxwell Club sedan to David G. Fortney, at Tusseyville, that is creating considerable favorable comment.

What a relief it was on Monday to coax the children coax mamma to coax papa to take them to the show. Of course, pa just couldn't refuse the pleadings of the dear little ones.

Mrs. Frank Herman and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Howard Herman, of Altoona, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Colyer, Tuesday and Wednesday.

John Reareck is now on his way west with a view of finding a place striking his taste in which to engage in business. Mrs. Reareck will remain in the east until her husband finds a suitable location.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wind and granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and a young lady, whose name we did not learn, were an auto party from Lewistown who visited the A. P. Krape home in Centre Hall on Sunday.

Former County Treasurer George G. Fink headed an automobile party passing through Centre Hall on the way over Seven Mountains and home via Huntingdon. Mr. Fink is looking fine and thinks he is just as good as that.

Marie Rhoads, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rhoads, of Coleville, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Rudy, near Centre Hall, the little girl's mother being a niece of Mrs. Rudy.

Miss Catharine Rubie, R. N., Mr. and Mrs. McMaster and sons, Bernard and Gerald, and Mrs. Brandt, all of Altoona, and Miss Gertrude Rubie, were guests at the home of the Misses Rubie's mother, Mrs. Sallie Rubie, in Centre Hall on Sunday.

A movement is on in Lock Haven to establish a discount bank in that city. One of an investigating committee appointed to visit similar institutions in other cities is L. G. Reareck, the furniture dealer. The bank is being boosted by the business men's association.

John H. Keller, Jr., of China Grove, N. C., son of Rev. and Mrs. John H. Keller, accompanied his father to Sunbury and on Friday came on to Centre Hall, where he is being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Keller, and other relatives.

Misses Beatrice Kramer and Emma Ingram, both graduate nurses from the Bellefonte hospital, came to Centre Hall on Tuesday for a few days' rest. The former will complete her training beginning of June and the latter the middle of August.

Farmers were unusually busy the latter part of last week, during which time much oats and barley were sown—on many farms the first sowing done this spring. Sunday afternoon a brisk rain came, but Monday the sun was bright and the air moved briskly which soon put the soil in workable condition.

George W. Tressler came back from the Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, on Friday afternoon. He had been in the hospital seven or eight weeks during which time he underwent two or more operations. He was in very good spirits on reaching here and is hopeful of continuing to improve.

Work on the dwelling house being erected for J. Elmer Royer, in Centre Hall, is progressing fine. The structure is now under roof, the material in the roof being asbestos shingles laid French lap style. Wet weather interfered much in the structural work but when the workmen under F. V. O. Housman are at it they make it count.

A slight fire occurred at Pleasant Gap, Saturday evening, about five o'clock, at which time one of the White Rock properties occupied by Mrs. Samsel, located along the State highway, took fire from a spark from the flue. A bucket brigade, in which F. M. Fisher, of Centre Hall, was an important unit, was quickly formed and the fire on the roof extinguished. The property was insured in the Farmers Mutual company of which Mr. Fisher is the secretary.

Rev. and Mrs. F. M. Moody, of Dillsburg, will join a party who will attend the World's Sunday-school convention in Glasgow, Scotland. They will leave early in June. Before returning home Mr. and Mrs. Moody will go to Ireland, where the former has several brothers whom he has not seen since leaving the Island for the States. Rev. Moody is pastor of a Presbyterian church in Dillsburg. Mrs. Moody will be recalled as Miss Savilla Reareck, formerly of this place.

The condition of Mrs. Margaret Thomas, who is in the Bellefonte hospital as the result of injuries sustained in falling from a step-ladder two weeks ago, is somewhat improved.

When the cows are turned on pasture this month, continue to give them a small amount of grain. If you have good cows, they will pay for this feed later in the season by a larger milk flow when the pastures get short and dry.

NO GREEN PAPER ENVELOPES

Ban Placed on Them by Official of the Post Office Department is to Stand.

American business men frequently run up against some federal regulation or other which temporarily vexes them because they feel that it is a governmental infringement upon their way of doing business, even though the matter is generally trivial. They do not realize that oftentimes this regulation is for their own advantage or in the interest of human welfare.

A good illustration of this has just been found by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce and the Post Office department, and the explanation has caused the business concerns interested to agree most heartily that the federal regulation should stand.

This illustration was with regard to the use of green paper in "window envelopes," which are now extensively utilized by American business houses.

A circular, issued last January by the office of the third assistant postmaster general, says that "the stationery used in window envelopes, or at least that portion upon which the address appears, must be white or, if colored, of a very light tint or shade. The use of dark-colored stationery is not permissible."

The rules and regulations division of the Post Office department states that "green is probably the most difficult color for the mail distributors to handle under the trying conditions under which they have to work."

HADN'T CAUGHT THE MEANING

Headline Writer Might Have Done Better to Have Glanced Over That Fish Story.

Edwin E. Stosson, director of Science service, Washington, tells this story in the New York Herald:

"Those who read anything more of the newspapers than the large type at the top of the columns will have observed that copy readers do not always take the trouble to read the articles to which they provide headlines. Just so artists do not read the stories which they illustrate and publishers do not read their books before writing the blurb for the slip cover. All the headline inventor seems to care about is getting the proper number of words in the line without regard to what the letters mean."

"A few years ago it was discovered that ponds and streams could be kept free from wigglers by breeding minnows in them, and that this was a good way to prevent the growth of the anopheles mosquitoes which carry the malarial fever microbe. The information was given out to the press by the United States Fish commission in an article headed, 'Fish Prevent Malaria.'"

"But one editor, finding that this was too short for his line and feeling the need of adding a practical touch, filled out the head so as to read 'Fish Prevent Malaria: Eat More Fish.'"

Architects and the Pipe.

Do all architects smoke pipes? That was the question that struck outsiders at the fifty-sixth annual convention of the American Institute of Architects held at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, Washington, recently.

Nearly every other architect had a big pipe clinched between his teeth. Cigars were in the minority, and cigarettes nowhere.

Just why this was no architect present could explain, unless it was as one of them said, "Oh, I guess we just like a pipe best."

Maybe architects smoke pipes because there is less likelihood that fire will fall onto the drawing board. Or do successful architects draw any more?

WHEN SALADS WERE 'GREENS'

Also Recalling the Days When All Vegetables Were Boiled Before They Were Served.

Salad is a peculiar thing. It is only about twenty years old in the corners of America. It is an imported product. The generation just before ours called the same thing "greens." Also they cooked the greens before they put them on the table.

It's a new idea that raw green vegetables provide a certain amount of mineral salts, vitamins and other necessities to health. The balanced diet is something that mother did not know anything about when she cooked for the chicken pie social in the church basement. The only salad known in those days was chicken salad and the only recognized "greens" in this was celery. If some advanced cook put in a little lettuce and an elder of the church happened to get it in his helping there would be a two-hour prayer on the next Wednesday night.

In the old days all salads were cooked. There was no such thing as hearts of lettuce. In the spring we had boiled cabbage or what has recently been called "liberty cabbage."

On "Main Street" salad is still considered a foreign dish—something that the "French do," something that is served only when the preacher comes or when one wants to make a special splurge.

Tubular Springs.

It was Ernoul, the French engineer, who invented a spring formed of a coiled-steel tube, in which, it is claimed, are found certain advantages over springs made of solid metal. It is well known that a tube is much stronger and more rigid than a bar of the same material of equal weight, from which it might be assumed that a tube would not form a flexible spring. But Ernoul has, it appears, proved that a tube is more flexible than a bar of the same exterior dimensions. It will be observed that the two principles are not in conflict. Owing to its smaller mass and consequently it responds more quickly, and should, for that reason, be specially useful for many purposes, particularly in aviation.—Exchange.
