Red Smith Resented

Warbling of Byron "I wonder," mused Jimmy Caveney of Reds the other day, "how Red Smith and Umpire Byron are getting along in the Coast league. Wonder if they have made up and become friends? They sure had a rich battle on the coast a few years ago, and all because Byron persisted in singing. He called some bad strikes on Red one afternoon, and when Red turned to protest, Byron began to warble, whereupon Red crowned him.

"Next afternoon, Byron came out, advanced to the front of the grandstand, doffed his cap, and spoke to the audience.

"'Ladies and gentlemen,' said he. 'I wish to express my regret for what happened yesterday, and to give you my assurance that it will not occur

"And Red Smith, arising before the bench, explained: 'Ladies and gentlemen, if Mr. 7 Byron starts to sing any more, it's going to all happen over again. I don't like his voice."

AGE MELLOWS JOHN McGRAW OF GIANTS

Manager Now Says It's Foolish to Protest Decision of Umpire in a Game.

It is foolish to protest an umpire's judgment, writes John McGraw. Age has certainly mellowed Jawn's temper, though he will still do battle if anyone calls him "Muggsy." "Muggsy" to McGraw is like a red tablecloth to a bull. Mac has gone up the social scale since the rough old days in Baltimore, and he doesn't like to be reminded of the time when he would just as soon bite the ear off an umpire as to drink a glass of pop. But for all that McGraw is a great fellow. He can't say no to anyone in need, and he probably gives away $5,000 to $6,000 a year in small "touches" to old-time friends, brokendown sporting characters and plain bums, who take advantage of his gen-

As a baseball leader McGraw ranks with the great managers of the game. He has uncanny judgment in picking players, and though they may take three seasons to "arrive" they are usually stars when they finally reach their prime. He has infinite patience with a player he thinks will make good, and is willing to wait.

Last season, when his veteran pitchers started to crack, it was predicted that unless he went out and spent a fortune for hurlers the Glants would not figure in the pennant scrap this year. McGraw said nothing, but bided his time. Most of his time at Sarasota, Fla., this spring was spent with his young flingers.

Today the youngsters are pitching the Giants to a pennant and they are so far out in front that they can't be seen with the naked eye. Bentley, who was one of the sourest lemons of the '23 race, has come through and has justified Mac's faith in him. Virgil Barnes has also developed into a winner after a three-year trial.

"I think Barnes is ready," McGraw said at Sarasota in March, "and I intend to work him regularly this season. I have always figured that he would be a winner when properly seasoned." And McGraw had the correct hunch, for Barnes is pitching fine ball this

He had the same faith in Bentley and also figured Denny Gearln would make good. But a sore arm and an inclination to take baseball too lightly cost Gearin a chance to get into the world's series. McGraw is a strict taskmaster. He pays well, but won't stand for any foolishness, as Denny probably appreciates.

SUBSTANTIAL FOODS

A salad may be something more than a bit of green and dressing though that is often all that is required. A hearty salad is quite enough for a main dish. Chopped hard-cooked eggs, served with celery, or a little potato, green pepper or chopped cooked beets, with a good boiled dressing, Chopped cooked beets, a bit of scraped onion and a cupful or more of diced tender celery mixed with a mayonnaise which has been tinted pink, served on blanched lettuce, sprinkled with chopped or shedded almonds, makes a most satisfying salad.

Jellied Shrimp Saiad,-Cook one quart of tomatoes with one cupful of water, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, four cloves, one bay leaf, one tablespoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of mustard, and one small minced onion, fifteen minutes. Strain and pour the mixture over two tablespoonfuls of gelatin which has been softened in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water. Cool until it begins to stiffen and add one and one-half cupfuls of shrimps which have been well cleaned and cut into halves, then add one-half cupful of diced celery and one-fourth of a cupful of diced green pepper which has been parbolled and the skin removed. Pour into individual molds and chill until hardened. When ready to serve, turn out on beds of lettuce and garnish with boiled dressing or mayonnaise, as preferred.

Salmon and Pea Salad,-Take a can of salmon, removing all skin and bones, add an equal amount of cooked peas, senson well and serve with a highly seasoned boiled dressing to which a chopped sour pickle has been added. Serve on head lettuce with plenty of good dressing for a garnish.

Here is a main dish which is supposed to be entirely satisfying to any appetite: Take equal parts of chopped green peas and sweet corn pressed from the kernels, chopped raisins and dates mixed with honey and olive oil, pressed into cups to mold, Serve with a sauce prepared with sweet cream, honey, maple sirup and nut meal made from ground Brazil nuts.

Fruit and Nut Salad .- Remove ol Malaga grapes. Add an equal amount of walnut meats broken into pieces. Marinate with French dressing and ararnge in nests of lettuce. Garnish with candied cherries cut into halves.

But words are things, and a small drop of ink, falling like dew upon a thought, produces that which makes thousands, perhaps thought, produces that millions think.

Prune and Lettuce Salad .-- Soak a pound of prunes in cold water over night, after washing well; in the morning simmer until the prunes are tender, adding a little lemon juice. Stone and arrange as whole as possible on heart leaves of lettuce. Serve with a spoonful of French dressing and a spoonful of mayonnaise at the side of the salad. A bit of peanut butter or a few minced peanuts may be used for stuffing the prunes if desired, as the two flavors are especially palatable.

Apricot Honey-Crush without paring very ripe apricots, cook with just enough water to keep them from sticking, until reduced to a pulp. Rub the fruit through a fine sleve and to each pint allow three-fourths of a pound of sugar; cook the pulp five minutes, then add the sugar, which should be heated hot; cook until thick, stirring often. Pour into sterilized glasses.

Hot apple sauce with gingerbread is good with a cup of tea or cocoa.
