

FARM PRODUCTS SHOW TO BE HELD AT ARMORY

New Departments Organized in Rural High Schools—Instructors Engaged.

A wonderful opportunity is being created in rural high schools this year by the local branch of the Bureau of Vocational Education, working in conjunction with the Farm Bureau office. Departments will be conducted in six high schools, which with the number of students enrolled at each, as follows: State College, 20; Millheim, 31; Centre Hall, 19; Boalsburg, 19; Hubbersburg, 17; Aaronsburg, 12.

The course in agricultural education will consist of 4 short courses of 6 weeks each in Farm Forestry, General Horticulture, Farm Management and Farm Book-keeping and Accounts. The County Supervisor has secured the services of four instructors from State College and of a member of the State Forestry department at Harrisburg to conduct the first course.

The students at each school have organized themselves into local agricultural associations and will conduct the first annual agricultural products and poultry show in the Armory at Bellefonte on December 5 and 6. At that time also, all of the Junior Farmers of the county will be tendered a banquet.

In organizing the new vocational training department in the High Schools the girls have not been forgotten this year and a department of home economics has also been organized. Miss Mary Reynolds, of the extension department of the Pennsylvania State College, has been secured to conduct special classes in sewing, home arts and cooking in five communities in Centre county. The communities are, Hubbersburg, Boalsburg, Pine Grove Mills, Spring Mills and Rebersburg, and possibly one other. Miss Reynolds will work in direct connection with the Farm Bureau office and will conduct the work in both Centre and Clearfield counties. Teaching centers for courses in home economics will be established at Pleasant Gap, Centre Hall and Millheim, and will be conducted directly from the Home Economics Department of State College. Centre county is unusually lucky within its borders as the benefits to be derived from its various extension departments are unlimited.

The Democratic candidate for congress, Edward R. Benson, of Mt. Jewett, McKean county, made a hasty trip through Penns Valley last week in company with County Chairman Gray and Wm. H. Noll, the latter the Democratic candidate for the legislature. It is physically impossible to make complete canvass in a district as large as the one Centre county is a part even if he were to give all his time from now until election day, so if you do not happen to meet Mr. Benson personally you will know the reason why. He served as a member of the state legislature and while there supported every measure that would aid in giving the farmer his rights and opposed every measure that encroached on the rights of the farmer. Members in congress have had and will continue to have great opportunities to stand for measures helpful to the farmer, and consequently farmers should support men who in the past have stood by them. Such a man is Mr. Benson. Vote for him for congress.

DEMOCRATIC TAX REDUCTIONS.

If all the voters who benefit by the tax reductions forced upon the Republican administration by the Democrats in Congress should vote the Democratic ticket it would be elected by a majority of millions.

The Mellon tax law was the work of the Republican Secretary of the Treasury; it had the active support of President Coolidge; it was a Republican party measure. But the Democrats with the aid of some Republicans who would not stand for the Mellon plan forced changes which saved millions to the recipients of small incomes, but likewise provided an equitable decrease in the taxes on large incomes.

Comparing the two measures, the Mellon plan which was defeated and the Garner-Simmons law which is now the law of the land, the first would have saved a great deal of money to the rich; the second saves money to all, especially the small income taxpayer.

Edward R. Benson, the Democratic candidate for congress, when a member of the state legislature was one of the members who stood by the late Hon. Leonard Rhoads in his effort to equalize taxation. This indicates that Mr. Benson was a true friend of the farmer while a member of the legislature and this is also a guarantee that he would support measures in congress looking toward the betterment of the farmers' condition if elected to the national house of representatives. Farmers who vote to their interest should keep his in mind.

3443 Students at State.

All previous student enrollment records at Penn State college have been broken this year. The total is 3443 resident students. This is more than 300 more than were enrolled at a corresponding time last year, and exceeds the full attendance of both semesters last year by 125.

The school of Engineering once more is the leader with a total of 1113. The school of Liberal Arts is second with 830 students, agriculture coming next with 760. About 500 of these are in four-year agricultural courses. The school of Education has 404 students, most of them preparing to become teachers.

WILLIAM H. NOLL, WHY?

(From Democratic Watchman.)

There are many reasons that we might advance in support of the candidacy of William H. Noll for the Legislature, but the terse, comprehensive answer that a Republican gave to a friend who asked him, a few days ago, why he was going to vote for Noll seems to cover the situation so perfectly that we pass it on for the consideration of the voters of Centre county.

The gentleman said: "It doesn't matter to me whether Holmes is for Pinchot, whether he is for our organization or what he is for. Bill Noll knows about Centre county, what we need and how to get it. Holmes could ever hope to know."

That expression sums up the situation as well as it could possibly be done. Mr. Noll does know Centre county. He was one of its Commissioners for eight years and in that office he proved that, though a Democrat, his eye was single to the interests of the tax payers whether his action made for party expediency or not. It is not necessary for him to seize every opportunity to proclaim from the rostrum what he will do. He needs but ask you to turn to the county statements from 1911 to 1919 to discover what he has had a great part in doing.

He will go to Harrisburg under obligation to no one but the voters of Centre county. If Governor Pinchot has any measures to introduce that will affect the people of Centre county favorably he will support them. If the Republican organization—which will oppose any program the Government introduces anything that will be of benefit to Centre county, he will support that. If the Labor party has any legislation to enact that will help the laboring man of Centre county Noll will be for it. He has labored himself and at present is a director of a corporation that employs hundreds of laboring men. If any proposals are made for more effective enforcement of the prohibitory laws now on our statute books he will support them, unless they should give to some one the right to spend the taxpayer's money to employ other officers than those who are now being paid for enforcing the laws.

Mr. Noll is against the insidious grafting of political parasites on the backs of the taxpayers. He was in the County Commissioner's office long enough to discover how easy it is to add some one to the public pay-roll and how hard it is to get rid of him. He will go to Harrisburg unpledged and uncontrolled. He won't have to teeter between what Governor Pinchot wants and Harry Baker demands as the price of being regular. All he'll have to do is sit back and watch to see where the interests of Centre county come in and vote 'Aye' for that.

Because Mr. Noll has a more intimate knowledge of what Centre county needs and because he will be FREE to vote for what we need is the answer to the question: "William H. Noll, Why?"

Ministerial Meeting at Spring Mills.

The ministerial meeting of the western half of the Lewisburg district was held in the Spring Mills Evangelical church on Tuesday and had an interesting and spiritual session. Nearly all of the ministers were present, among whom were several former pastors. The paper entitled "The Minister as a Leader in Moral Reform," by Rev. J. Good Brown, one of the former pastors, was delivered in excellent style and its preparation denoted much time and thought spent.

The Ministerium was entertained at the Evangelical parsonage with an elaborate dinner served by Mrs. Haney and assistants. The after dinner speech by Rev. W. E. Cox, of Milton, was rich in thought and was enjoyed by all.

This was the first time that Spring Mills had an opportunity to have an Evangelical ministerial body in its midst.

Confer—Zettie.

On Saturday evening at the Evangelical parsonage at Spring Mills, Wilbur E. Confer and Tenchia M. Zettie were united in marriage by Rev. E. E. Hertz, pastor of the Evangelical church.

The Premium List and Program for the Day—John A. McSparran to Be Present.

The annual Community Day as announced last week will be held on Friday, October 17th, at the Vocational School in Spring Mills.

The exhibits, excepting fruit, seem to show as great, if not greater, possibility than those of a year ago. The judging will be done in the morning by Extension representatives from the Pennsylvania State College.

The chief feature of the afternoon will be an address by John A. McSparran, Master of the State Grange. Mr. McSparran needs no introduction to this community and should, therefore, have a large audience.

There will be no cafeteria line, but a plate dinner will be served to each one at the table. The management is asking community cooperation in this connection. If you are not fortunate enough to get in for the first table, please cooperate by waiting patiently until 6:30 P. M.

Boy Scout Movement.

The initial step has been taken to reorganize the Boy Scouts in Centre Hall. Most, if not all, the boys who were connected with the scout movement under the leadership of Rev. S. A. Snyder, who by the way, was responsible for its organization here, have passed from boyhood into manhood, in years at least, and this necessitates building from the foundation. The movement locally was not supported in the manner it deserved. With the exception of a very limited few, both financial aid and moral support were withheld by our citizens. Under those conditions no organization can flourish. Conditions today are probably better in both the respects referred to.

In former years, you usually had to pay a boy so much an hour to get any service out of him. The idea that he owed something to the community rarely occurred to him.

Modern boy organizations teach the youngsters to co-operate with public efforts. By some magic power of leadership, they make them want to co-operate, and the youngsters have a good time while doing it. They like practice in carrying the responsibilities of men, and you can get a lot of service from them on that motive.

It is learned that W. O. Heckman, principal of the Centre Hall High school, is holding under advisement the matter of becoming a Scout leader, and should he decide to do so, every encouragement possible should be given him and the cause.

Church Affiliation of Students.

There are twenty-five different religious denominations represented in the student body at the Pennsylvania State College this year. The Presbyterians lead with a total of $31, according to a census taken by W. S. Hoffman, the college registrar. The Methodists are a close second with 769 students. The Lutheran faith is represented by 455 students and the Roman Catholic by 365. There are 233 of the Reformed faith; 194 Episcopal; 139 Baptist and 102 Hebrew. The Evangelists are represented by 62 students, the Friends by 43. The balance of the student body of almost 3500 men and women are associated with fifteen other religious faiths.

Chlorine Gas Kills.

Joseph Carson, aged 69 years, died of chlorine poisoning at his home near Milroy. He was at work at the intake of the Lewistown-Redsville Water company, along the State Highway in Seven Mountains, mixing hypo chloride of lime sterilize to purify the drinking water supply, when he inhaled a quantity of the chlorine gas which caused him to become prostrated near the hypo plant of the water company. He was found lying on the ground and was taken to his home which is one of the cottages as you emerge from the mountains.

The deceased is survived by four sons, Walter, Rush, Lester and William Carson, all at their parental home, and by one sister, Mrs. Emanuel Rager, Lewistown. His wife, whose maiden name was Emma Shilling, died 16 years ago.

Hallowe'en Celebration.

Plans and preparations are being made for the forthcoming Hallowe'en celebration under the auspices of the Bellefonte order B.P.O.E. The following executive was recently elected to have full control of the celebration: B. J. Becker, William H. Brown, O. A. Kline, Homer Barnes, William Shoop, John Bower, B. T. Tate, Charles Schlow, William Kelley, George H. Yarnell, G. W. Rees, Russell Smith, Harry Garbrick, and Ray C. Noll. The above named committee will elect as many sub-committees as they deem advisable. It is generally understood that the usual harvest queen will be elected.

Held for Manslaughter.

John Pinchok, of Clarence, at a hearing held before Judge Quigley, was held under bail for $1000, charged with involuntary manslaughter. The case will come up in December court. Pinchok is the young man responsible for the death of Margaret McDowell. He claims the revolver was discharged accidentally.

After hearing the evidence, Judge Quigley said the evidence was insufficient to hold Pinchok for murder, but owing to his previous record he should be held for the crime noted above. Bail was furnished.

ROCKVIEW MAY BE REDUCED IN IMPORTANCE.

Sweeping Changes in State Penal Institutions Will Be Sought When Next Session of Assembly Convenes.

Removal of the eastern penitentiary from Philadelphia to a site in the country outside the city, completion of the Rockview prison that it will accommodate at least 1,500 inmates and erection of an institution for defective delinquents are the three major propositions in the legislative program for penal reform of the department of welfare, which the 1925 general assembly will be asked to consider, Dr. Eilen Potter, secretary of welfare, has announced. Legislation providing for expansion of Laurelton State Village for Women, Fairview Hospital for the Criminal Insane and either expansion of the Industrial Home for Women, Muncy, or erection of a central reformatory for women, also is included in its program.

Dr. Potter advocated the erection of a new eastern penitentiary upon the unit plan, but only if however, "if the state commits itself to a program which will permit the establishment of three penal districts within the state." At present the state is committed to the centralized idea as provided under the original plans for the development of Rockview, she said.

For the eastern penitentiary the secretary advocated the purpose of approximately 2,000 acres of land and the erection of an institution which would house 1,500 inmates. This, she declared, would permit the prisoners to raise much of the food consumed as well as give them the opportunity to farm life. Such an institution could be erected at a cost of approximately $1,000 a bed, whereas Rockview prison is costing approximately $4,000 a bed under the original plans, she said.

"By dividing the state into three districts we would be following the plans of the country's foremost penologists," Dr. Potter said. "The eastern penitentiary would take care of prisoners from the eastern section of the state; Rockview from the central part and the western penitentiary, Pittsburgh, those from the western part of the state. This would make the administrative problems easier by having less persons to handle and at the same time give the inmates a better chance."

Erection of an institution for the defective delinquent, where they would be under continual surveillance is advocated by Dr. Potter as a means of eliminating congestion in other penal institutions and for avoiding "repeaters" in these institutions. While not insane, these prisoners form a type of feeble-minded which should be kept in permanent custody, where they could be given constant discipline, she explained. She also said such an institution would simplify administration in other institutions.

Laurelton Village which now houses 150 inmates, should be enlarged to care for at least 1,000 with a large addition to Fairview necessary, she declared. Erection of a central reformatory for women was advocated for the reason that girls and women could be accommodated in one institution, with the various classes of prisoners segregated.

Parent-Teachers Association.

Last Friday evening Mr. Heckman, our principal, called a meeting for the purpose of organizing a Parent-Teachers Association. To this were invited not only parents and teachers but also all other tax-payers of the town. The meeting was opened by two songs, which were sung by a quartette of high school girls. Immediately after the songs Mr. Heckman explained that the purpose of his association was to promote better co-operation between the parents and teachers. The following officers were elected, who also form the executive committee: President, W. O. Heckman; vice president, D. K. Keller; secretary, Chester A. Spyer; treasurer, P. H. Luse. The chairman then appointed the following committees: Constitution and by-laws: The members of the executive committee and the following persons: Mrs. H. L. Eichel, Mrs. J. F. Bingham, Mrs. P. H. Luse, Mrs. Mary E. Neff; program and entertainment: Mrs. T. L. Smith, Fred Bender, Rev. J. F. Bingham, Mrs. F. P. Geary, Miss Helen Bartholomew, Mrs. Chester A. Spyer.

The next meeting will be held on November 7th, at the High school building. A large attendance is desired.—M. M. (1924.)

Linden Hall O. K.

From the best information at hand it may be said that the railroad station at Linden Hall will retain its place on the local branch and not be closed as was ordered some time ago by the railroad officials. Frank Ishier is the agent there and this will be good news to him as well as to the people about the village.

Ned W. Keller was an arrival in the States a little over a week ago from Roumania, where he has been for the greater part of the last four years. At the present time he is with his mother at Linden Hall. Mr. Keller has experienced many things during those four years—some pleasant, many unpleasant. For a time he was a director in the Near East Relief work, and saw suffering and starvation such as is unknown in this country. Magazines by the thousands, of Armenian women and children, by the speakable Turk, he was forced to witness. Among his more pleasurable experiences was the meeting with the "finest little girl in the world," a native of Hungary, who now carries the name of Mrs. Keller. She accompanied her husband to the States, and as may be expected, finds custom of living here very strange to that to which she is accustomed. Mr. Keller is engaged in business in a city of 110,000 inhabitants, selling office supplies, such as typewriters, accounting machines, etc. He thinks opportunities for the business man to be so far superior in the European country than in the U. S. A. that he simply can't think of working out his destiny here, but will return to Roumania by an early trans-Atlantic liner. The man with comparatively few American dollars lives like a king, declares Mr. Keller. The peasant class are contented with their primitive mode of living and ask nothing save to be unmolested.

A large number of young people, mostly of school age, from Centre Hall saw that superb picture, "Abraham Lincoln," shown in Moose Temple theatre, Bellefonte.

The Brown hunting camp located in Treaster Valley, Seven Mountains, will be electrically lighted this season. The power will be furnished by an overhead water wheel installed in a creek nearby the camp.

From what can be gathered there was represented yesterday (Wednesday) before the board of pardons, in Harrisburg, two groups—representing two classes of people in Centre county—one favoring the pardoning of L. W. Jacobs, the other opposing it.

Irvin Zettie, who is engaged in doing carpenter work in Johnstown, drove to his home in Centre Hall the other Saturday, bringing with him a fellow workman, Port Wiley, also the latter's wife and two children. The party returned to Johnstown the following Monday.

A large number of people were attracted to Decker Brothers new garage, in Bellefonte, for its opening, on Saturday night. The location is one of the best in Bellefonte, and the quarters are up-to-date in every way, with large show windows for displaying the Chevrolet cars.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder Stover and three children, of Coleville; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Witmer and six children, of Buffalo Run; and Mr. and Mrs. William Bohn and two children, of Little Nittany Valley, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fletcher and seven children, of Boggs township, last week started in three cars for Lake North Florida. The men are carpenters and intend following their trade in the south where wages are high.

A very pleasant birthday surprise party was given Thursday evening of last week in honor of Mrs. Guy Springer at her home at 140 North Patterson street State College. Elegant refreshments were served the guests, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Runkle and son, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ulrich and family, of Bellefonte; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weaver and family, of Zion; Mr. and Mrs. George Houser and family, Charles Falstick, Mrs. Henegh, two sons and daughter, of State College.

The world's championship baseball series, which ended in Washington, D. C., last Friday, when the Senators defeated the New York Giants in the seventh and deciding game of the series, were full of the most tense moments from start to finish of every game. However, while the fans in the bleachers at Washington and New York City were well nigh heart-stricken, we up here in the mountains 200 miles away, at the very same moment felt the strain equally as great, for, sitting in front of the radio at the W. W. Kerlin home, every detail of the plays came to the ears of the radio audience as clearly as if heard spoken on the baseball field. One had only to visualize the ball park and the players; the announcer's good report of the plays and the mad cries of the bleachers gave one all the thrill he desired.
