FARM PRODUCTS AND POULTRY SHOW.

In Armory, Bellefonte, Friday and Saturday, December 5 and 6.—Exhibits, Poultry, Corn, Oats, Wheat, Potatoes, Apples and Eggs.

The date for the Farm Products and Poultry Show to be held in the Armory at Bellefonte as announced by R. C. Blaney, County Agent, has been set for December 5 and 6. Plans are under way for the biggest show ever held of this kind in Centre county.

The committee decided to include a poultry department this year. This will be a utility show which will give every poultry man in Centre county a chance to compete. The entries will include old and young hens of all breeds and single cockerels of all breeds. A pen will be made up of four females and a male. Under the direction of John B. Payne, Vocational Supervisor, sixty boys who have poultry projects over the county will exhibit there for this final round-up. In addition to the boys' exhibits plans are being made to take care of at least sixty pens and as many single entries in the general competition.

Due to the fact that the premium money is limited it was thought best to limit the farm crops to corn, oats, wheat, potatoes and apples, and eggs. By doing this it will be possible to make more prizes in each class and make them larger.

Exhibits will be in place by Friday noon and the judging will be done in the afternoon. Judges will be requested to give their reasons for placing and answer any questions you may have.

The show will be open all day Saturday and your exhibits can be taken home that evening.

Every big business must advertise its products and the farmer must fall in line. This is a good way to show the consuming public what you are producing. The best exhibits from the exhibitors will be sent to Harrisburg to the State Show, so start now and make this show a real success.

Halloween Party.

A Halloween party with many novel features was given by Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Keener, to the junior choir of the Reformed church. Owing to the other gatherings on Friday evening the affair was held Saturday night. On arriving at the parsonage, single or in pairs the young people saw a placard indicating that the only entrance was by the way of the cellar. From the cellar to the attic, where the evening was spent, the way was either wholly dark or dimly lighted, and "spook" guides led by sound or command to the next entrance, finally reaching the attic where their fortunes were being brewed by the witch characterized by Mrs. William Booser. There in the dimly lighted room was told a weird story of the slaying of a Captain Smith on the very spot where the guests stood, and to prove it gruesome objects representing the brain, hand, eyes and other portions of the murdered captain's body, preserved for just this purpose, were passed among the young people. Later various seasonal games were played, and refreshments served.

The parsonage was prettily decorated from cellar to attic and the whole program was carried out to the delight of the young people. The guests all wore costumes suited to the occasion, many representing particular characters.

The guests and those who aided in making the affair a success are appended:

Bruce Knarr, Paul Martz, James Lutz, Harold Goodford, Charlotte Keller, Maude Reese, Helen Neff, Mary Weber, Mary Reiber, Olive Gleckner, Alma Lutz, Dorothy Odenkirk, Helen Odenkirk, Margaret Luse, Elizabeth Bradford, Margaret Delaney, Esther Martz, Lenore Foust, Mildred Bitts, Helen Packer, Vivian Packer, Dorothy Packer, Lois Packer, Ruth Smith, Mrs. William Booser, Mrs. William Odenkirk, Mrs. Delas Keener, Rev. Deas Keener.

The cross-word puzzle epidemic, which has attacked the whole country within the last few weeks, is the work of a former Clearfield resident, F. Gregory Hartswick, New York reporter. Mr. Hartswick is a Yale graduate and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hartswick, of Clearfield. He originated the puzzle as an amusement for kids, but grown-ups have taken it so seriously that he is unable to turn out his product fast enough to satisfy the publishers.

Butchers from Montour county and adjoining sections have been coming up to Penns Valley in quest of hogs for immediate slaughtering. More than a hundred fat hogs are said to have been purchased and taken out of the valley in a week. The price paid is twelve cents per pound, but this farmers say is not enough on the basis of dollar corn.

October goes down in history as one of the driest months ever experienced in this section. The rainfall has been next to nothing, about one-fourth of an inch, and fell on two occasions, the major portion having fallen on Halloween night. There were twenty-one clear days, three cloudy, seven partly cloudy, and two rainy days.

Election day in Centre Hall was about the quietest day in the year.

DEATHS.

GOODHART.—After an illness extending over a period of ten weeks from renal debility, which rendered her completely helpless, Mrs. Mary Jane Goodhart died at the home of her son, Frank V. Goodhart, in Centre Hall, Friday morning. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, at the home, and interment made at Spring Mills, the body having been laid by the side of her husband, William Goodhart, who died twenty-one years ago. Services were conducted by Rev. J. M. Kirkpatrick, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was long a member.

Mrs. Goodhart was a daughter of William and Rosanna McKinney and was born May 23, 1842, now within the limits of Tyrone. Later the family moved to Mifflin county where the deceased grew to womanhood. After her marriage Mr. and Mrs. Goodhart engaged in farming, and upon the death of the husband Mrs. Goodhart located in Centre Hall where she has since lived. She was a woman of retiring disposition, but always willing to lend a hand. Her age was 82 years, 5 months, 6 days.

There survive the deceased a sister, Mrs. Hannah Meyer, Sunbury, and the following children: William Goodhart, Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. W. R. Winegardner, Milroy; Mrs. Edward Foreman, Canfield, Ohio; Mrs. Edward Glenn, State College; Mrs. John Reardon, Centre Hall; Mrs. James J. Glenn, Carlisle; Robert H. Goodhart, Altoona; Frank V. Goodhart, Centre Hall; Samuel Goodhart, Johnstown; John H. Goodhart, deceased.

POLSGROVE. Mrs. Amelia Polsgrove, widow of the Rev. J. B. Polsgrove, for fifty years a preacher in the Central Pennsylvania Methodist conference, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. Lynn Harris, in Lock Haven. She was eighty-five years old. Mrs. Polsgrove was the daughter of the late William Devling, of Mill Hill, and was a great-granddaughter of Col. Moses Williamson. Funeral services were held at the home Friday afternoon, with the Rev. E. H. Yocum, of Woolrich, in charge, assisted by the Rev. J. H. Williams, of Lock Haven.

COLE.—Miss Mary Emma Cole, of Boalsburg, died at the Centre County Hospital from tubercular peritonitis. Deceased was a daughter of William and Sarah Kern Cole and was employed as a stenographer at the Pennsylvania State College. She was aged 27 years, 5 months, 23 days. Surviving her are her parents and these brothers and sisters: John, a theological student at Selinsgrove; Rufus, of State College, and Charles, Lenore and Edna at home. Funeral services were held from the late home, interment in the Pine Hill cemetery.

STOVER.—Mrs. Eliza Stover, widow of John Stover, died at her home at Laurelton, Union county, of diseases incident to her advanced years, aged eighty years. Her husband, who was a brother of the late Mrs. George Ulrich, of Millheim, preceded her to the grave thirteen years ago, and with the exception of a few years at Paintsville, she had since resided at Laurelton. Funeral services were held at Laurelton, conducted by the Methodist minister there and interment was made in the Laurelton cemetery.

MOWERY.—Samuel Mowery died at his home near Rebersburg of a complication of diseases, aged 64 years, 5 months and 12 days. He survived by his widow, two daughters—Mrs. Fred Diehl, of Mifflinburg, and Mrs. W. J. Miller, of Sunbury; four sons—Fisher Mowery, of Mifflinburg; and Carl, Arthur and Kenneth, at home; three brothers—Ross Mowery, of Loganton; Henry, of Aaronsburg; and Jared, of Youngstown, O.; and two sisters—Mrs. Sarah Leitell, of Aaronsburg, and Mrs. Susan Treaster, of Ealton, Potter county. Funeral services were held from the home, conducted by Rev. W. H. Warburton, and interment was made at Woodward.

SCHREFFLER.—Sarah Schreffler, a former resident of Aaronsburg, Millheim and Centre Hall, died in the "Home for the Aged" at Erie, of diseases incident to her advanced age. Deceased was a daughter of David and Rachael Kremer and was born at Aaronsburg, December 2, 1836, making her age at time of death 87 years, 10 months and 23 days. She was married to Jeremiah Schreffler, her husband having died at Centre Hall about twenty-eight years ago. Deceased for the past several years lived with her daughter, Mrs. Andrew Immet, near Erie, until the latter's death several months ago, when she was taken to the home for the aged. Surviving her are two daughters—Mrs. W. C. Wyle and Mrs. Jennie Springer, both of Akron, O., nine grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren.

The remains were shipped to Millheim, arriving there Monday last week. Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. C. B. Snyder, and interment was made in the Fairview cemetery, at that place.

Nursing Report
Total of 1434 visits made in the year. Of these 185 were to schools, and 897 actual nursing care. In school children were weighed and measured, health talks were given and attention paid to contagious and infectious conditions among the children.

Public eating places in State College were inspected periodically in accordance with Board of Health provisions. Several patients were accompanied to hospitals in Bellefonte, Altoona and Philadelphia.

Anti-grippa treatments were given by physicians at clinics organized by nurse to hundreds of children in the county.

Dental clinics were held under nurse's direction. First Aid tent provided at Grange on Nittany Mountain, on Saturday, Encampment at which treatment was given to 68 persons, and 14 babies cared for while mothers were free.

Monument for Buck Taylor.
At Valley Forge, near Philadelphia, on a plot owned by him, since taken over by the Valley Forge National Park Commission, a monument has been erected over the grave of William L. Taylor, known throughout Centre county as "Buck" Taylor, king of the cowboys.

The huge marker weighs four tons. In the center of the die is a three-quarters size plaque, on which is a sand blasted head and shoulders, wearing his broad-brimmed sombrero of the distinguished scout.

The cowboy and scout, who in his younger days spent much time with "Buffalo Bill," was born in 1857. He died at his home near Downingtown this year. To him it was a great pleasure to recite instances of his life as a cowboy, roaming the plains. Buck Taylor, several years ago, made Centre Hall a frequent stopping place and at one time thought seriously of locating here permanently.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Read Keener's new ad in this issue. A Packard 8-cylinder sedan is being driven by the Kerlins. The purchase was made through a Williamsport agency. It is a decidedly handsome car.

A second one hundred and twenty thousand Smith incubator has been installed in the Kerlin poultry plant and is ready for the spring trade. This increases the hatching capacity of the plant by about one-third.

The Reporter on Tuesday was favored by a call from J. B. Park, superintendent of agriculture in the Gregg Township Vocational School. He is a new man in that institution, but is unquestionably qualified for the place.

It was because "James" was unacquainted with the roads on the south side of the valley that the W. C. T. U. speaker failed to reach Tusseyville on Saturday evening before the audience disbanded. Had it bet a wet speaker who was being piloted we would have looked on the hip for the reason.

The following is reprinted from the Bellwood Bulletin: Visitors at the J. E. Kustaborder home on Sunday were Elmer Ripka, wife and son Jonas, Harry Snavey, wife and son Walter, John Bitner and wife, all of Spring Mills; Harry Stephens, wife, son and daughter, Harry and Grace, of Holidayburg.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Whiteman and the latter's mother, Mrs. Belle Whiteman, motored to Berwick, on Sunday, where Mrs. Whiteman will remain for several weeks with her sister, Mrs. W. M. Groves. From there she expects to go to Newport to remain indefinitely with her daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Geary.

HOME ECONOMICS WORKER.

Miss Reynolds Assigned to Work in Centre, Clearfield and Clinton Counties With Women and Girls' Clubs.

Miss Mary Reynolds, Home Economics Extension Specialist of the Pennsylvania State College, was recently assigned to work entirely in Centre, Clearfield and Clinton counties. R. C. Blaney, County Agent of Centre county, announces. Since graduating from the Home Economics course of the Michigan Agricultural College in 1923, Miss Reynolds has been doing special clothing work in the state. In her new position, however, she will do general Home Economics Extension work, for which she has excellent training. Her work will not only be with the women of the counties, but also with the girls' clubs. With the former, lectures, demonstrations and discussions will be given on nutrition and health problems, clothing and household management plans. Hot school lunch project is also one of the phases of the women's work.

In her work with the girls Miss Reynolds will lay special emphasis on canning clubs, bread clubs, food values, principles of cookery and meal planning and preparation. The girls will be given demonstrations and practical experience in the principles of making and repairing clothing and discussions of clothing from various standpoints.

Miss Reynolds can be reached through the Main Home Economics Extension office at the Penna. State College, or through the Farm Bureau office at Bellefonte, by any women's organizations or local group that may desire her services. The work will be conducted similar to the County Agent's plan and personal visits made where her services are requested.

Accepted Pastorate.

Rev. S. F. Greenhoe, of Orrstown, Franklin county, has officially accepted the pastorate of the Penna. Valley Lutheran Charge and will be on the field to hold services on Sunday, 15th inst., as mapped out on the regular schedule.

The minister plans to move here during the week prior to the date given above, so that when he fills his first appointments on the charge he and Mrs. Greenhoe will be occupying the parsonage.

Five "Turks" Of Nittany.

Three wild turkeys were killed in the vicinity of the Lonsberger farm on Nittany Mountain, on Saturday, by Messrs. Miles Bilger, George Hile and Boyd Spicher, all of Pleasant Gap.

Guy R. Brooks, who lives on the Brooks farm, west of Centre Hall, and his father, William S. Brooks, of Centre Hall, on Monday each bagged a wild turkey from off Nittany Mountain. A pheasant was also a part of the result of a few hours' hunt.

Potatoes Yield Well.

Farmers in this section who are making potatoes a money crop are about through harvesting them. The weather conditions all through last month were unusually favorable to this kind of work and this considerably hastened the raising and lessened the expense. The potato crop is not only big in yield, but the quality is first-class.

Below are given the yields produced by a few farmers in this vicinity: Colyer and Decker, on the Colyer farm, east of Old Fort, 4,960 bushels. M. A. Burkholder, on the Spayd farm, west of Old Fort, 1,600 bushels. Thomas F. Delaney, on the Old Fort farm, 1,250 bushels.

John Stoner, on the Kline farm, near Colyer, between 1,200 and 1,300 bushels.

William Stoner, on the David Stoner farm, above Tusseyville, 750 bushels.

John Delaney, east of Centre Hall, on Brush valley road, 545 bushels.

There are a number of other farmers in Potter township whose yields sum up to several hundred bushels.

Parent-Teachers' Association Meeting.

A meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association will be held in the High school building in Centre Hall, Friday evening, November 7, at 7:30 o'clock. The president of the board of education will speak from the viewpoint of a school official. The constitutional committee will report. There will be music and other items of interest. Every citizen is invited and urged to be present.

Birthday Party.

Thursday night of last week, Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Spyker gave a birthday party for their eldest daughter, Myla C., at which a number of her companions were handsomely entertained. Myla, who just attained her eighteenth year, is an 8th grade pupil and makes going to school a business. The names of those at the gathering follow:

Elizabeth Gross, Miriam Gross, Margaret Bradford, Helen Odenkirk, Sarah Odenkirk, Olive Gleckner, Margaret Luse, Betty Ebricht, Elizabeth Bradford, Isabel Bradford, Katharine Goodhart, Marjan Meyer, Helen Meyer, Emeline Brungart, Thelma Brungart, Beulah Binman, Maude Reese, Sarah Smith, Algie Emery, Bertha Sharer, Sarah Runkle.

This is after the election. You know now how good a guess you made on the election.

178th SYNOD SESSION.

Dr. Alsop elected Head of Reformed Synod at Bethlehem—Opposes War.

Rev. Dr. Charles B. Alsop, of Mt. Vernon Reformed church, Philadelphia was elected president of the Reformed Synod in its 178th session held in Bethlehem. Other officers elected were—Vice president, Rev. A. S. Meek, of St. Mark's, Easton; recording clerk, Rev. Wellington E. Hoover, of Sunbury, and corresponding secretary, Rev. Samuel E. Moyer, of Perkasie.

The missionaries of the synod elected Rev. Elain Snyder secretary and Rev. Alexander Toth, of the theological seminary at Lancaster, presented a group of twenty-two young students for the Hungarian ministry.

Rev. Roy J. Guild, field secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, pleaded for co-operation in the budget system and paid very high tribute to the fine service rendered to the church by the press. The treasurer of the synod, E. J. Titlow, of Reading, presented the report of the board of trustees showing that almost $22,000 had passed through the treasury for synodical purposes. The synod unanimously adopted the report of the permanent committee on temperance, and Rev. J. F. B. Griesener, of Selinsgrove, and Rev. Homer S. May, of Wilkes-Barre, reported on the Ursinus memorial tablet erected at Neustadt, Switzerland.

Rev. George W. Spotts of Telford, presented a report on the Anti-Saloon league of Pennsylvania, and Rev. J. Mitchell Bennetts, of Philadelphia, district superintendent of the league, addressed the synod and predicted that the next congress will be drier than the present.

The synod became involved in a lively discussion on the report on social service. One part of the report was a report of a special committee on the church's attitude toward war. This was a strong pronouncement against war for any purpose and it was opposed by several speakers as too sweeping. In the end the report was adopted in its entirety, but not until after there had been some outspoken remarks against pacifism and expressions that war for national defense might at times be necessary.

Dr. A. M. Schmidt of Bellefonte, was one of the several ministers who had spent a portion of last year in Europe who declared that there was danger in too ready adoption of anti-war resolutions and claimed that much sentiment for peace has its source in European propaganda.

The synod advocated that Armistice day be a day for mobilization for justice and peace and appropriate sermons be preached in churches on the previous Sunday and recommend a permanent Council of international justice. The synodical old folks' home project was unanimously approved.

Churches Should Advertise.

Churches should avail themselves of the opportunity to reach the public through newspaper advertising, in the opinion of the committee on publicity of the Lutheran Church in America. The view is expressed in the committee's report to the biennial convention of that church in recent session. The committee says:

"The churches have found publicity and advertising proper aids in prosecuting their work nationally and locally and the public press has come to attach a growing value to church activities as news for their readers. The paid advertisement has become invaluable to a considerable number of local churches."

"Pennsylvania Day" at State College.

Students at the Pennsylvania State College are preparing to entertain upwards of two thousand guests over the coming week-end at the annual observance of Pennsylvania Day at the institution. It is a student social holiday and hundreds of mothers and best girls will enjoy the big program of activities arranged for the occasion. There will be many fraternity house parties and dances. Several athletic contests will feature the program, notably the football game between Penn State and Carnegie Tech on Saturday afternoon. Excellent highways now lead from all parts of the state to the college in Centre county and additional thousands are expected to motor there for the game.

Kryder—Foreman.

C. Nevin Kryder, of Williamsport, and Mrs. Savilla B. Foreman, of Centre Hall, were married in the Presbyterian manse, Bellefonte, by Rev. W. C. Thompson, on Wednesday of last week. They anticipate spending the winter in Florida and when they return north next spring will occupy the bride's home in Centre Hall. Mr. Kryder during the last year has been a State highway foreman in Lycoming county, and something like twenty-five years ago lived in Centre Hall, at which time he was a member of the lumber firm of Orwig and Kryder.

Before leaving for the south, the couple gave an informal reception at their home in Centre Hall. While most of those invited were not informed of the nature of the affair, many suspected that they probably would meet a bride and groom. On reaching the place a decorated auto parked there convinced them of their belief.

County Grange Meeting.

A regular quarterly meeting of the Centre County Pomona Grange will be held at Unionville on Saturday. Forenoon and afternoon sessions will be held. We expect a good attendance as it is very important for you to be present. Come and bring lunch with you.—J. Gross Shook, Secretary.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

In plain words, we are asked to "walk the chalk line" for safety.

Be careful with fire while in the woods, whether you are hunting or recreating.

The month just closed was the grandest ever as to weather. Let us hope that we may yet have many beautiful fall days before real winter weather sets in.

Miss Dorothy Odenkirk, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Odenkirk, was a patient recently in the Bellefonte hospital where she had her tonsils removed.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Ralston and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brooks, of near Centre Hall, recently drove to Mifflinburg where they visited Mr. Ralston's son, Hugh Ralston, and family.

Mrs. Adam Finkle and Mrs. Royer, of Spring Mills, were in Centre Hall on Thursday of last week, the former visiting friends among whom was Mrs. J. L. Trester, and the latter selling ladies' hose.

William A. Magee and brother, Royd Magee, the former of Wenonah, New Jersey, and the latter of Philadelphia, attended the funeral of Geo. H. Emerick, a cousin, in Centre Hall, Wednesday morning of last week.

A male bear weighing one hundred twenty-five pounds and a bob cat measuring forty-two inches from tip to tip, were killed by a train in the Lewistown narrows. It is thought by some that the animals were contending for supremacy when struck by a train.

Harry Snavey, son of John Snavey, of near Penna. Cave station, will begin farming next spring and will move onto the farm of Mrs. Sadie Cori, west of Centre Hall. John Rudy, who lived on that place for the past five years, has leased the Kennedy farm, a half-mile farther west.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crawford, of Centre Hall, in company with a party from State College, Thursday night of last week, attended a birthday party given to Edward Bierly and a twin sister, Miss Sarah Bierly, near Rebersburg. Miss Bierly, who lives in Williamsport was unable to attend the gathering as was planned.

The Seerson threshers are near the end of a busy season. Before the close of last week these threshers had already cleaned up the work at forty-five barns, besides doing some work for several other parties about Centre Hall in the fields. They had yet almost twenty barns to "thresh out" when this report was made.

A daughter was recently, born to Mr. and Mrs. George I. Barnes, at Webb City, Missouri, where the father is connected with the Atlas Powder Company. The little girl had a little brother to greet her. The mother will be better recalled by many of the readers of this paper as Miss Besse Breon, who grew to womanhood in Centre Hall.

The Rebersburg schools opened six weeks later than the schedule time owing to the establishing of a high school, which necessitated not only the remodeling of the two-story brick building but also the building of a one-room house for one of the lower grades. The schools are now in operation, and this puts Miles township in the township public school class.

Michigan farmers are having experiences much like those in this section according to a report made by A. R. Alexander, formerly of Millheim, but now living in Charlotte, Michigan. He states that the corn crop will be but one-half the normal, grass, wheat and oats were good. The first killing frost came on the 20th of October, and the previous weather during that month was warm and dry.

Locally the Governor's proclamation did not delay the hunting season, for at night fall on the last day of October rain fell in such an amount that the fields, woods and mountains could be entered upon by hunters with reasonable safety on the first day of the month, the opening day for killing small game. There was more or less complaint of the Governor's action, but he was right in his effort to protect the forests against loss by fire.

The middle of last week the carcass of a deer was sent to the Bellefonte hospital by G. W. Cooney, a local warden. It appears Mr. Cooney heard several shots near his place in the Colyer district and at once started on an investigation, although it was night. Going in the direction he heard the shots, a flash light was turned on him, causing him to back up against a tree and this gave the offenders an opportunity to escape. The dead deer, a doe, was found and disposed of as noted above.

For the safety of all, white lines have been drawn to define street crossings. If both children and grown-ups will go to the trouble to cross the streets at the marked zones, danger from automobile traffic will be greatly lessened. One of the ways to induce children to use these zones is by instruction from the parents to do so, and to get the best results from children, parents and others of mature age should so "walk" that their example will lead toward safety. We have never yet had a serious auto mishap on the streets and we may not have if we all urge that the side walks and the white-lined crossings are the proper places for pedestrians, and at the same time cross the street with great caution.
