Do you know that more property is controlled by retail stores than any other kind of business in this country. There is more money invested in retail stores than in all the banks. Their sales exceed that of the steel industry.

More taxes are paid by retail merchants than by any other class.

More people are employed in retail stores than in any other trade. You can put the plus sign on anything you like in regard to the retail business. Therefore it pays to consider the ways and means of improving the greatest activity in Centre Hall, Spring Mills, Boalsburg today. This can be done by Being a Booster for these towns, and by buying from their merchants. They are paying the heaviest taxes and are making this part of Penns Valley the Business Center of the County.

POWER OF DOLLAR IS EASILY SHOWN

Keep One Moving and See What It Will Do for Your Community.

PAYS MULTITUDE OF DEBTS

When It Is Sent Out of Town, However, to Pay for What Can Be Bought at Home It Is Gone Forever.

(Copyright.)

It is a rather wonderful thing, when you stop to think about it what one lone dollar will do, if it is kept at work. This has been illustrated in a striking manner on several occasions by means of a very simple experiment. If you want to see just how important a role a silver dollar or a dollar bill plays in the life of a community here is the way to do it. Just attach a tag to the dollar and turn it loose, with the request that every person who receives the dollar make a note on the tag as to how he received it. The result will be an eye-opener.

Here is the way it works: Smith, the lumber dealer, who first possesses the dollar, buys some groceries from Brown and pays for them with the dollar. About that time Jones, the plumber, who had done some work for Brown, sends his collector around and Brown pays the bill with this dollar. Jones owes Green, the printer, a small advertising bill, so he sends this dollar with possibly some others, to Green to pay his bill. Green had just put the dollar in his cash drawer when in comes Black, the milkman, to whom Green owes a dollar for milk delivered at his house. Green takes the dollar out of his cash drawer and pays Black. For some time Black has owed White, the carpenter, for some work done on his dairy house, so now he takes the dollar that Green has paid him and pays up what he owes White. White still owes for some lumber that he bought from Smith, the lumber dealer, so he takes the dollar and squares up his account with Smith. Smith now has his dollar back. Brown has been able to pay his plumbing bill, Jones has squared up with the printer, and so on, all around the circle.

What Might Have Happened.

Now suppose that Smith, instead of buying his groceries from Brown, had purchased them from a mail order house in a far distant city and sent his dollar to pay for them. Brown would not have had that dollar to pay Jones, the plumber; Jones could not have paid his printing bill; the printer would have had to stand off the milk man; White, the carpenter, would not have got the money for the work he had done for the milkman and Smith would not have got the money which White owed him for lumber.

This is all so simple that it requires no student of economics or professor of mathematics to figure it out. Anyone can see that when Smith sends that dollar to Chicago or some other city where the mail order houses flourish, that dollar is gone so far as Smith and Jones and Green and the rest of the people in Smith's town are concerned. That dollar will never come back to pay any bills in Smith's town. And the thing that stands out most striking, but is most often overlooked, is that Smith, the man who first spends the dollar, is hurt just as much when he sends that dollar out of town as is the home grocer from whom he might have bought his groceries.

Now just multiply this one dollar by a hundred or a thousand or ten thousand. One dollar may not seem to make much difference in the average town, but a thousand dollars or even a hundred dollars does make a difference. Just as one dollar will pay a dozen or a hundred small bills, a hundred or a thousand dollars will pay a dozen or a hundred big bills. When Brown, the grocer man, owes a thousand dollars and can't pay it, he is headed for the bankruptcy courts. When Jones, the plumber, can't collect the money which is due him from Brown or maybe a dozen Browns, he is headed in the same direction as Brown. And so it goes all around the circle until it hits Smith or a dozen Smiths who have sent their money out of town to add to the fortunes of the mail order men.

Buyer One Who Is Hurt.

Thus, it will be seen that this buy-at-home proposition is really a selfish one with the man who buys the goods. He is not hurting the home merchant when he sends his money out of town, any more than he is hurting himself.

Every sensible man knows that his livelihood depends upon whether business in his town is good or not. If business is not good, he cannot make a good living for himself and his family, no matter how hard he may work, and business cannot be good if the business men in the town are not making money. This is a plain business proposition for every man and woman in the community. By spending their money at home they are helping the home merchant only incidentally. They are butting their own bread. When they send their money to the mail order house, they are not only hurting the home merchant incidentally but—a thing more important to them—they are likely to be taking the bread out of the mouths of their own children.

Selling of wine at $1 per quart to Freedom high school boys is charged against August Kopriwa, of Baden, near Beaver, who was held by Justice of the Peace A. Busch in the sum of $2000 bond to answer to the charges of manufacture, sale and possession of intoxicating liquor.

A mild, short winter is predicted by W. H. Laird, of Hencheytown, near Altoona, locally known as the sassafras man, who spends his time in the open winter and summer. He bases his prophecy on nature and wild life. The fur on animals is rather light this fall and the feathers on birds that spend a portion of the winter in that section are not heavy. Nuts and berries are scarce. Squirrels are not making any unusual provision for the coming winter. Preceding a long, hard winter leaves remain on the trees late in the fall. Already these trees are practically bare. Mr. Laird does not say that there will be no deep snows or cold snaps. There will be no prolonged cold weather and deep snows will not lie long on the ground.

The sudden death of Edwin Snyder, of Trefletown, near Allentown, was said to be responsible for the death less than 48 hours later, of his sister, Mrs. David Rex, during a visit to her daughter-in-law in Low Hill. Mrs. Rex, was stricken when she received the news of her brother's death.

Harry Patton, of Great Oak Farm, Mortonsville, near Coatesville, boasts of a calf born with two perfectly formed heads, two tails, seven legs and two backbones. Outside of that it is only one calf; otherwise it is almost twins. The freak has attracted large crowds from Coatesville.

Eugene Burtis, 40 years old, of Grover, Bradford county, got a hunter's license in Toward. He is believed to be the oldest active hunter in the state. When a youth he took up trapping and hunting as a means of a livelihood, and has been at it ever since.

William Seward, of Altoona, was killed, his daughter, Margaret, was injured seriously and six other persons were hurt when their automobile skidded into a ditch and overturned near Hollidaysburg.

Newspaper advertising as the best medium through which to reach the general public was recommended by speakers at the Insurance Advertising conference convention meeting in Pittsburgh. During the convention every known method of advertising was discussed.

Rev. A. L. Latham, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church in Chester, criticised heathen pageants in a sermon on "Immodesty and Immortality Always Go Together." He expressed the fear that there will be a return to the Spartan age of 3000 years ago, when maidens appeared "in the manner in which they had been born." Dr. Latham expressed a similar fear with regard to Halloween parades, which he said are becoming more distasteful each year. Present day bathing suits also come in for severe criticism, the pastor's text being "The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man; neither shall a man put on a woman's garment; for all that do so are an abomination to the Lord."

Rev. Dr. Charles B. Alsop, of Philadelphia, was elected president of the Reformed Synod at its 178th session in Bethlehem. Other officers elected were: Vice president, Rev. Allan S. Meek, of Easton; recording clerk, Rev. Wellington E. Hoover, of Sunbury, and corresponding secretary, Rev. Samuel E. Moyer, of Perkasie. The missionaries of the synod elected Rev. Elam Snyder secretary and Rev. Alexander Toth, of the theological seminary at Lancaster, presented a group of 22 young students for the Hungarian ministry.

A pet bull dog which he had just purchased and was taking home while riding an unruly young mule resulted in serious injuries to William Dunivan, a farmer of near York. Dunivan had gone to Zion's View on business. On his way home he stopped at a farm house for the dog which he placed on the mule's back. After riding a short distance the dog became restless and started to dig its claws into the animal's back. The mule threw Dunivan and the dog. The farmer was injured internally and bruised about the face, neck and arms.
