

TAXPAYERS OF COUNTY TO FACE HIGHER MILLAGE

A Reconstruction Program and Debts Force New Rate—6 Mills Too Low to Operate, Propose to Wipe Out $53,000 Debt and Build Bridges.

(Centre Democrat, Nov. 27.)
Because the Centre County Commissioners face an expenditure which may exceed $75,000 in the reconstruction of county bridges in 1925 and in addition will attempt to wipe out during the remainder of their administration $53,000 in notes left them by the former Republican board, tax payers of the county may experience an increase in at least one and possibly two mills on their taxes.

That an assessment of six mills, which is possibly the lowest in any county in central Pennsylvania, does not produce sufficient funds to operate the county machinery, is a well known fact. When the present board of commissioners became responsible last January, they started their administration against overwhelming odds in the character of $53,000 in notes, accrued in the four years prior by the Republican Board. That board started with a clean slate and attempted to operate on a six mill basis, but failed.

Of course, the present board could do likewise and save the tax payer for four more years by maintaining the present millage, but they do not care to do business that way and now that a demand has been made upon them to build at least four new bridges in upper Bald Eagle Valley together with assuming the responsibility of the old turnpikes in Brush Valley, they can see no other way than to increase the millage on the first Monday of January.

How long this additional burden to the taxpayers exist cannot be determined. It is hoped that within two years the necessary funds needed for the forced reconstruction program and payment of the notes in question may be realized and the present tax rate returned.

The present assessed valuation of Centre county real estate, etc., is $16,818,035. It has been shown that six mills is not sufficient with which to operate the county. Two mill increase would mean approximately $37,000 more working capital annually. In two years this would aggregate $74,000, which might be considered enough for the necessary bridge construction, purchase of roads, etc.

Now there still faces the deficit of $53,000 to be met and swept away. As stated before, the original deficit was $53,000. Within the past year the commissioners have succeeded in cancelling one note of $500. If a two mill increase is fixed the bridge program only can be taken care of in the first two years. So, the commissioners hope to wipe out the indebtedness during their fourth year by conservative business methods. It is wholly possible, however, that the extra tax rate may continue throughout the present administration in order that a clean slate may be presented to the succeeding board.

Centre county tax payers would eventually be forced to meet a higher or tax rate to put the county on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, therefore this movement will be undertaken now. We are not condemning the former Republican board for the debt left to their successors. We are simply attempting to show to the tax payers of the county that it is folly to operate with a tax mill rate a county of this size which is only exceeded in area by one other—Lycoming—which has a 9 1/2 mill rate. We do not know, either, how much the tax rate will be increased, as competent heads are figuring expenses, etc., down to the fraction in the next budget, but we are presenting these facts to the tax payers so they may know what to expect and understand why.

Hunters to be Taken to Church in Busses.

Pastors of the Lutheran and Presbyterian churches at Millroy have solved the problem of getting their members out to the Sunday services. The Lutheran edifice is under repairs and that congregation is worshiping with the Presbyterians. In order that the old time exercises, "bad weather," "too far to walk," etc., may not prevent members from being present, the pastors have decided to install busses for transporting members to the services. These busses will traverse the streets of the town, collect the passengers for Sunday school and church and take them to the church. They will also visit the big game country during the hunting season in order that members who are in hunting camps may also attend church services. One of the ministers will accompany the bus on every trip.

Cards of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Crust take this method of thanking all who so kindly assisted them during their recent bereavement, due to the death of Mrs. Crust, mother of the former.

Mrs. John W. Mowery takes this method of thanking all who so kindly assisted her during her recent bereavement. In the death of her infant son; also for flowers, comforting letters, etc.

Christmas Bazaar.

The ladies of the Sewing Circle of the Sprucetown M. E. church will hold a bazaar and food sale on the afternoon and evening of December 13th, in the school house at Potters Mills. Aprons, bonnets, caps and fancy articles, also cakes, pies, candies and pop corn.

The public is cordially invited.

JUDGE QUIGLEY DIES SUDDENLY SATURDAY MORNING.

Passes Away Within 15 Minutes After Heart Attack—Had Occupied the Bench Nine Years and Was Known Throughout State.

Henry C. Quigley, judge of the courts of Centre county and one of the most promising jurists in the state, died suddenly at his home in Bellefonte, Saturday morning.

Judge Quigley, who had apparently been in the best of health, had been at Philadelphia for the greater part of the month conducting court. He came home Friday evening, intending to preside at a special session of court Saturday morning, at which a number of cases involving violation of the prohibition law were to be heard.

About 8:30 o'clock Judge Quigley awoke and complained of a pain in his stomach. His wife went to the home of a neighbor to borrow a hot water bottle and when she returned with it found her husband dead. Death had occurred within fifteen minutes after he was taken ill.

A physician pronounced death due to a sudden attack of aggrina pectoris. It had not been known that Judge Quigley was liable to suffer any such attack.

Judge Quigley was fifty-six years of age. He was born at Blanchard, Centre county, and had been a resident of the county all his life.

He was a son of Capt. James A. Quigley, long prominent in Centre county affairs, who died three years ago. He attended Bellefonte Academy had a year at Penn State and was for a time at the United States Military Academy, at New York. He then returned to Bellefonte and studied law in the office of Hastings and Reeder, being admitted to the bar in 1889.

For many years he was active in county politics, served for some time as county chairman of the Republican party and was at one time a candidate for congress but was not successful.

He achieved prominence as a member of the bar and in 1915 was elected to the bench, having been nominated on the Republican ticket, and assumed the office in 1916. His term would have expired next year. When elected he was one of the youngest judges in the state. He had planned to seek re-election next fall.

He was called upon to preside over the courts of many other counties, and was much in demand to substitute in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia courts, especially in the latter place. Several years ago, in the midst of a "crime wave" in Philadelphia, Judge Quigley occupied the bench and tried a number of criminals. His trial methods and the strong sentences which he resorted to as a remedy for the epidemic of lawlessness, caused underworld characters to confer upon him the title of "Treat-Em-Rough" Quigley.

In the Centre county court Judge Quigley was called upon to sentence a number of prisoners who at various times escaped from the state penitentiary at Rockview, and were captured. Judge Quigley is survived by his wife, two daughters, Henrietta, at home, and Mrs. W. Fred Reynolds, of Bellefonte; a son, Hugh Quigley, of Bellefonte, and a brother, State Senator Richard S. Quigley, of Lock Haven. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, the B. P. O. Elks, Bellefonte Kiwanis club, Country Club and the Union League at Philadelphia. He was a member of the Episcopal church in which he served as a lay official.

Tuesday forenoon the Barr Association held a meeting in the court house where addresses were made by the various attorneys, and on the afternoon of that day the jurist's body was laid to rest.

STATE PEN IMPROVEMENT.

Much Progress Made at Rockview This Year, Says Dr. Ellen Potter.

The construction program at the Rockview penitentiary carried on this year according to Dr. Ellen C. Potter, secretary of welfare, is the greatest in the history of the institution. During the present season the large cell block building has been half finished for use, the bakery rebuilt, a cannery constructed, and numerous other improvements made on the grounds. "I feel grateful at the way work has progressed at Rockview this year," Dr. Potter said. We had to choose sometimes as between two important items to push and select the one which in our judgment was of major importance to concentrate on. "Rockview has been in the making for many years and construction has been slow. It has been necessary to have 600 men on the ground all summer, many housed in tents, and to the department the most important piece of work was the completion of one-half of the big cell block which stood uncompleted as a monument to bad planning and we have rushed it to the limit and expect to occupy that portion of it which is now under roof by the first of the new year.

"We have had to put in pipe line, erect a cannery, reconstruct the bakery, start a forestry nursery, build a concrete building block plant as well as carry on the farm work. "Our farming was handicapped as was the work of every other agriculturist by the late spring and a shortage of labor but considering these and the great construction demands the results have been satisfactory. Under the skilled direction of a State college trained men for farm and garden work the penitentiary farm in the future, we hope, will be second to none in the State."

An Old-Fashioned Pounding.

Seldom do we hear of pastors receiving such treatment at their reception to their new fields of labor, as was witnessed last Wednesday evening, when 160 members of the Penna Valley Lutheran Church gathered in the church at Centre Hall to welcome their pastor and wife. The program consisted of special music by the young people of the church, solos, vocal and violin, piano trio. All of these numbers were enjoyed by all present.

The congregation was then called in to the Sunday school of the church, where the ladies of the congregation served a most elaborate course of refreshment—sandwiches, cakes, coffee and ice cream.

This was not enough. The pastor and wife were called into the study of the church where a complete pounding was witnessed, consisting of all kinds of groceries, potatoes, apples, meat, sausage, and chicken. Glad to say, however, that the pastor and wife felt no bad effects of the pounding, but outlived the shock with most delightful results.

Thus, a most delightful evening was spent by all present. Truly, the people of the Penna Valley Lutheran Church have shown their ability in giving their pastor and wife a warm and hearty welcome into their midst. We take this opportunity of thanking one and all personally for their liberal contributions which made this reception such a glorious and delightful occasion.—Pastor.

Not a Good Sport.

In Decker Valley, in the Seven Mountains, Charles B. Neff owns the John Zettle tract of timber land. The place at one time was the home of Mr. Zettle, the house and stable, although much dilapidated, is still standing. On one of his infrequent visits to the place, Mr. Neff found some one had been there apparently much more frequently than he, and the purpose plainly indicated the intruder was to illegally kill deer. The old house was built of logs, and at various places the juggling between the logs had been removed sufficiently to cover the surroundings in all directions with a rifle-port holes, you know. For safety, a trap door was cut through the floor, so that if any one unexpectedly came upon him he could drop through it and escape from the lower floor.

Holes were also cut through the old stable, presumably for the same purpose. Of course, no one knows who it was that took advantage of this concealment to get venison the season round, but he was no good sport.

Meyer Farm Sold.

The Meyer farm, near Centre Hall, was sold by the heirs of Mrs. Verna Musser, of Millburg, through former sheriff A. B. Lee of Spring Mills, to Mr. Shirk, of near Reedsville, for $16,000. The farm is one known many years ago as the Barney Wagner place and contains 280 acres. It was first purchased from the Warner heirs by Ross & Meyer, who lumbered off a part of it, and then it was bought by Edward and William Meyer, the latter taking it over later. At the death of Mr. Meyer, his wife, Mrs. Hulda Meyer, became the owner, and she decided it to her daughter, and upon the latter's death recently it became the property of her two sons.

The farm is an ideal one for stock raising, having on it a large meadow and other pasture land through which Sinking creek winds its way.

Ritter Property Sold.

The Howard Ritter property on the outskirts of the borough, was sold on Saturday at public sale to C. D. Bartholomew and will be occupied by Earl Lutz. The price paid was $710. The house was built many years ago by Adam Nearhood, who lived in it until his death. The household effects of Mr. Ritter were also sold at the same time. The sale was largely attended, the furniture, etc., bringing good prices.

Millburg Defeated.

Centre Hall and Millburg stand tie in soccer games. On a return game played here on Wednesday afternoon of last week, the score at the close stood 1 to 0, the score having been made by the local High school team. A week previous in a game at Millburg, the score was 2 to 1 in favor of Millburg.

At the close of the game played at Millburg, a "conversation" was had with the referee, who was also principal of the Millburg schools, in which his attention was called to the fact that it had been announced the game should be quiet, but instead his boys had engaged in rough stuff. The referee thought it was only an aggressive form of playing his boys had engaged in, and that players should be aggressive in games as well as in other lines of work.

The return game was arranged for and was to be played on the "aggressive" scale. And so it was done, the first quarter. But here another conversation was had, during which the home team was asked by the Millburg aggregation to play with less pep. And this was done.

Let it be said here that these "conversations" were not loud-mouthed jangling, but simply reviewing with more or less earnestness the situation.

Special Meeting of P. O. S. of A.

A special meeting of Washington Camp No. 889, P. O. S. of A., Centre Hall, will be held on Thursday evening instead of Friday evening. The purpose of this meeting is the nomination of officers.

'SQUIRE YERKES GETS SIX MONTHS JAIL, $500 FINE

Millbourne's 'Fining Magistrate' Also Removed from Office by Judge Barnett—New Trial Refused.

D. Martin Yerkes, "fining squire" of Millbourne, Delaware county, was sentenced on Saturday to six months in the county jail, was removed from office as a justice of the peace, and was ordered to pay a fine of $500 and costs of prosecution, by Judge James Barnett, of Perry county, sitting at Media. The Court denied Yerkes's motion for a new trial.

The sentence was preceded by a bitter reprimand by Judge Barnett, who presided last October when Yerkes was convicted of misdemeanor, misfeasance in office and extortion.

"You have been found guilty, Squire Yerkes, on four counts," said the judge, "the worst of which was your refusal to permit a defendant before you to waive a hearing. Your refusal to accord a right clearly defined and given a defendant in the Act of Assembly, although you had been manumitted by a Delaware County judge, certainly put your case in a bad position before the jury. The jury believed that you had full knowledge of the law and that you were guilty of a willful, malicious act.

"Your motion for a new trial is refused and I am about to pass sentence upon you. There have been a great many squires in Pennsylvania and Delaware county who have been making a public nuisance of themselves, and their acts have been abominable. In that line of conduct you have been one of the worst offenders."

$305,000,000 for Roads.

Total expenditures of $305,000,000 for highway purposes will be under the supervision of the State Department of Highways during the period 1923-1927. William H. Connell, department engineering executive, declared in an article on "The Highway Business" in the November annuals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. Of this amount, he said, $220,000,000 to be expended on State and county roads would be directly under the jurisdiction of the department, while estimated expenditures of $85,000,000 on township roads, would be supervised by the department.

Letter from Florida.

2406 1st Ave. North, St. Petersburg, Florida. November 24, 1924.

Dear Editor: Enclosed find check for $150, for which please send me the Reporter to the above address. I can't get along without the paper from the "Old Home Town."

We are both well and enjoying the delightful climate, beautiful flowers and tropical scenery. This certainly is the ideal winter climate.

Yours respectfully, C. N. KRYDER.

PROMINENT PERSONS ASSIST IN SEAL SALE.

Houtz—Martz.

A beautiful wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Martz, near Linden Hall, Wednesday evening of last week, when their daughter, Pearl, became the bride of Edward R. Houtz, of Lemont. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Houser as best man and matron of honor. Miss Beatrice Shuey played the wedding march. The ring ceremony was performed promptly at six o'clock by their pastor, Rev. J. F. Bingman, under a large, white bell which formed a part of the decorations.

About twenty guests were present, who were served with a bountiful dinner following the ceremony.

The bride has been the community Red Cross nurse with headquarters at State College for over a year, and has many warm friends. The groom is a worthy young man and is well and favorably known.

Spring Mills Lyceum Course.

The next number of the Spring Mills lyceum course will be given Saturday evening of this week at 8:15 o'clock by Deitrich and Company. The entertainment will be magic, comedy and music, and will undoubtedly be one of the best. The patronage of the public will be highly appreciated by those in charge.

PINE GROVE MILLS.

J. D. Neddigh loaded a car with $152 wheat last week for the eastern market.

J. R. Smith, of near town, was discharged from the Centre county hospital last week and is convalescing nicely at his home.

Elmer Barr was taken to the Centre County hospital last week and had his left leg amputated. Late reports say he is getting along nicely.

Postmaster David Barr has been confined to bed suffering from indigestion. During his illness his sister Sallie is in charge of Uncle Sam's mail matter.

David Shiget is planning to quit the farm next spring and move to State College for a well-earned rest.

Claude G. Atkins, treasurer of the State College Times, reports the arrival at his home last Wednesday of a sweet little girl, named Mary Ann.

Dr. Stork made his third visit to the G. C. Corb home last Monday, leaving a dear little daughter.

Nathan Dale, of Butler county, is spending his vacation of two weeks among Centre county relatives and friends. It is his first visit since he left here four years ago.

The turkey crop was a light one and prices high, so that few of the popular birds graced the festive board Thanksgiving day.

Charles Graham, tenant farmer on the J. W. Miller farm, has quit for the winter months will take charge of Dr. Anderson's stock, west of town. Emory Johnson quit and moved to Niles, Ohio, December 1st. A delightful farewell party was tendered the Johnson family Friday evening when a large crowd of neighbors and friends stormed the castle. Refreshments, fun and plenty, were served and all stayed until a late hour, departing with all good wishes for the Johnson family and safe arrival at their new home in the Buckeye State.

Robert Reed and mother attended the Mrs. Wm. Crust funeral at Centre Hall Saturday afternoon, burial at the Myers cemetery.

The woods are swarming with hunters. Most of the clubs went to camp Friday and Saturday. The Pine Grove Mills Gun Club to their camp in Penna. Furnace Gap; the Rossman Sunday party to their camp in Sholl Gap; the Baileyville Tigers in camp at the Wells Henry Springs; the Altoona and Bellwood party at the Kellar camp, Erie Gap; the Clearfield party quartered in the Billy Jacobs home; the Wilson club in their cozy quarters on Laurel Run; the Johnston party at Old Monroe; the Cor-Ho-man club east of Pine Grove Gap; the Fleetwood club in Shingletown Gap; the Modocs at their old quarters at the Ross place; the Cottontails at Camp Lee; the State College Rod and Gun club at Huber springs; the Riley crowd at their old stand in Bear Meadows; the Raymond party in the Kettle near the Meadows; the Fisher crowd at mouth of Bear Meadows; Rollin Young, gang and Fulton party at head of Meadows, and a party from Danville at the Beal camp at Sand Spring; together with an army of stump hunters; the Drebbins-Lutz club are quartered at the old Miller place in the Barrens.

HARPER—Raiph, oldest son of Gordon and Catharine Bowersox Harper, passed away at their home near Baileyville after a few days illness of stomach trouble. He was an attendant at the Sunday school convention at Bellefonte last Saturday and attended the Ladies Aid supper in the Lutheran church that evening, apparently in his usual health. Soon after his arrival at home that night he took ill, and later in the night he submitted to a surgical operation for appendicitis and made good recovery so that he was able to assist on the farm and was in best of spirits. Besides his parents, one brother, Earl and one sister, Ada, together with a large number of other relatives are laid at the loss of the model young man who had legions of friends. He was born March 14, 1911, at Pine Grove Mills and was a member of the M. E. church and a regular attendant at Sunday school. Funeral services were held Monday morning, burial in the new cemetery at Pine Grove Mills.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

Two hogs killed by M. H. Smith, Millheim, dressed 498 and 512 pounds, respectively.

George Harpster recently moved from Bellefonte to Mill Hall, where he is now employed in the paper mill.

A 225-pound bear was killed in the east end of Nittany Valley by Polar Moorehead Calvin Nesterode, of Castanea.

Miss Catharine Spangler, sister of the late Rev. A. H. Spangler, of Yeagertown, died a few days ago, at the age of eighty years.

Miss Anna Portney, the latter part of last week, went to Juniata where for a short time she was a guest of Mrs. Edward Wolf, a niece.

Miss Miriam Huyett, after spending several weeks with her sister, Mrs. W. A. Magee, at Wenonah, New Jersey, returned to her home last week.

Scarlet fever claimed its fourth victim in the epidemic at Tyrone, where upward of fifty cases have been reported within the last four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bayletts, of Milton, were guests for a few days at the home of Mrs. Bayletts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert I. Smith, in Centre Hall.

A. B. Meyer, of Coburn, is a patient in the Geisinger hospital, Danville. He was employed by the Millheim Banking Company but was obliged to discontinue his work there on account of poor health.

Charles A. Miller, farmer in the Colyer district, had the misfortune to fall while working about his farm and badly injuring his hand by striking against some object in an effort to shield himself from a greater injury.

Complaints are made that stones used to "scorch" vehicles on grades are not removed from the road and become a menace to auto drivers. The "scorching" is usually done by slow driven vehicle drivers who formerly depended on the "breaker" as a resting place.

Miss Vienna Zettle, a student in a Williamsport business college, was at her home here on Thanksgiving. The head of the family, E. E. Zettle, who is employed in the Johnstown district, and his son, Reuben Zettle, and wife also surrounded the family board on the Thanksgiving day.

A box class under the auspices of the Junior class of the Gregg township vocational school, will be held in the vocational school building at Spring Mills on Friday evening, December 19. There will be basketball games, boys and girls, G. T. V. S. vs. Alumni. Everybody is invited. There will be good music.

Prof. L. O. Packer, connected with the Pittsburgh public schools, was at his home in Centre Hall over the Thanksgiving period. A brother, Jas. I. Packer, with his wife and children, Roy, Bernadine and James, of Altoona, were guests at the Packer home on Thanksgiving. The latter Mr. Packer is a foreman in the railroad shops in Altoona.

Mrs. S. M. Goodhart, of Johnstown, was in Centre Hall for two weeks, during which time she presided over the home of her sister, Mrs. W. F. Keller, during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Keller. Alfred Durst, her father, was the only one of the family Mrs. Goodhart needed to care for and this gave her time again to associate with many of her close friends herabouts.

A box factory in Griffin, Georgia, was recently purchased by Robert Musser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Musser, of near Bellefonte. The junior Mr. Musser was formerly employed by the Bell Telephone company and while in their service frequently came to Centre Hall. Prior to leaving the company's services, Mr. Musser was located in Harrisburg. Mr. and Mrs. Musser left for their new southern home a short time ago.

Mrs. Ard, wife of Rev. Wilson P. Ard, of Bellefonte, is contemplating spending two months of this winter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bullock, and family, in California, going there as the guest of her mother, Mrs. Ard, who will be accompanied by her little son, and Miss Neese, a graduate nurse of the Centre County Hospital, and recently night supervisor of nurses at the institution, is planning to make the trip shortly after the holidays.

I. A. Sweetwood, who last spring moved his family from Centre Hall to Glenside, close to Philadelphia, made his first visit back home last week, and is now enjoying a sport vacation in the Seven Mountains, hunting deer with the Sweetwood party. Mr. Sweetwood is a foreman on State road construction in the environs of Philadelphia, and states that he and his family like their new home. He was accompanied here by Ed. Weiser, who is spending some time at his former home at Coburn.

Rev. J. M. Reareck and daughter, Miss Alice, of Millintown, stopped in Centre Hall on Friday morning long enough to have minor repairs made to the car they were driving. They took Luther Reareck, a son of the minister, to Penn State where he is a Freshman. Rev. Reareck is much pleased with his new pastorate. His daughter, Susann, now the wife of Rev. James Shannon, is located at Jennerstown, about twenty miles south of Johnstown, where her husband has a very desirable pastorate in a Lutheran field.
