DEATH OF CAPT. G. M. BOAL

Prominent Citizen and Civil War Veteran Answers Last Summons.

"He is best liked where best known."

That is the closing sentence of a brief biographical sketch of Capt. George M. Boal in the "Commemorative Biographical Record of Central Pennsylvania" of 1898. And that is a most true expression.

Capt. George M. Boal passed quietly out of this life Monday morning at 5:30 o'clock, surrounded by the members of his family. Death occurred at the home of his eldest daughter, Mrs. D. A. Booger, where he made his home for most of the time during the latter years. For more than a year it was noticeable that the physical body was weakening, although the mental powers remained strong and unimpaired. It was only a few months ago that the spirit began to sink. The physical body proved the weakest. Day by day strength waned until a peaceful end came.

Interment was made in the cemetery at Centre Hall yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon, Rev. J. M. Kirkpatrick, pastor of the Presbyterian church officiating, assisted by Rev. D. R. Keener, of the Reformed church.

Capt. Boal traces his ancestry back to James Boal, his grandfather, born in Ireland 1764. His grandmother was Elizabeth Welch, also born in Ireland. The second child to this union was George Welch Boal, born in County Londonderry, February, 1790. In that year the elder Boal came to America, bringing his wife and two children with him, locating in Eastern Pennsylvania, and during the latter part of the eighteenth century established a home in Penns Valley. Upon the marriage of George Welch Boal, father of the subject of this sketch, to Miss Sarah Cummins Shannon, he located in Georges Valley. In 1835 he located in Harris township, on one of the farms now owned by William Brooks, and it is here where Captain Boal was born, March 17, 1839.

It was August 16, 1862, at the age of twenty-three years, that he enlisted as a private in Company D, 148th Infantry, and his first active service was at Chancellorsville. After that battle he served on detached duty as clerk at the headquarters of the First Division, Second Army Corps, under General Hancock. Later he was in the general recruiting office at Harrisburg. On March 19, 1865, he was commissioned first lieutenant and quartermaster of the 53rd P. V. I., joined that command at City Point, and was with the regiment in the field until the close of the war, when, in June, 1865, he was honorably discharged.

While home on a furlough, February, 1863, he married Miss Ellen Love, who died almost fifteen years ago. On returning from the war he began civil life anew on the homestead farm with his brother, J. Shannon Boal. Several years later, he sold his interest in the homestead to his brother, and purchased one of the Durst farms west of Old Fort, where he reared his family. Here he lived until appointed postmaster by President McKinley, when the family moved to Centre Hall. He served as postmaster most efficiently until the Wilson administration.

Mr. Boal was a man of kindly disposition and very much attached to his family. He was a good conversationalist, and saw and commented on the amusing side of questions and incidents. The proverbial Irish wit never failed him. In business he was methodical and of good judgment. His books of record present a fine appearance and indicate deliberate action. He has always been termed a successful farmer and later attained success in business, and above all he got the real pleasure out of life, and made his happy disposition of service.

There survive the deceased all of his children, namely: Martha J., wife of D. A. Booger, Centre Hall; Mary A., wife of Charles H. Meyer, Reedsburg; Margaret L., wife of Charles W. Shack, Centre Hall; Blanche, wife of Dr. W. E. Park, Baltimore, N. C.; Mabel, wife of W. Gross Mingle, Philadelphia.

DEATHS.

McFARLANE.—After an illness extending over a considerable period of time, Frank McFarlane passed away at his home near Boalsburg, on Saturday evening, from paralysis. During the latter part of his life he required much care and attention, due to his infirmities of blindness and inability to walk. Every care and attention was given him by his wife, who before marriage was Miss Belle Rankin.

Janet, now Mrs. John Mitchell, of Lemont, is the only survivor of the William McFarlane family.

Mr. McFarlane was a descendant of James McFarlane, a representative of the Scotch-Irish race. His father was William McFarlane, well known to residents of Centre county during the period of his life, which closed in 1893.

The subject of this sketch was born in Buffalo Run Valley, June, 14, 1857. Early in his life he accompanied the family to the farm, where he died.

He entered the agricultural department at State College and for two years was a student there, but was obliged to give up his studies on account of his eyesight, the result of typhoid fever. During the latter years of the life of his father, Mr. McFarlane became the overseer of the farm, and upon the elder McFarlane's death, the owner of the McFarlane home and farm.

The funeral services were held at the home Wednesday morning by Rev. J. M. Kirkpatrick, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of which denomination the deceased was long an active member. Interment was made in the Branch cemetery, in the McFarlane burial plot.

TREASTER.—James Leo Treaster, aged 29 years and 4 days, died at the parental home at Verne on Lockes Mills, Millin county, after an illness of two weeks caused by pneumonia. Two weeks ago he came home ill from the Bethlehem Steel Company stone quarries at Nagney, where he was employed.

The deceased is survived by his parents, Roland and Anna Mary (Snook) Treaster, and by one brother and two sisters, Martha Leona, a twin sister, Lewis Holmes Treaster and Ruth, all at their parental home.

QUIGGLE.—Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Quiggle, wife of Robert Quiggle, of Lock Haven, died from a complication of diseases. She was born at Logan, but had resided in Lock Haven for the past nine years. She is survived by her husband, a number of children and several brothers and sisters, among whom is Samuel Wilson, of Millheim.

DEATHS.

Robert R. Folk, in Lock Haven hospital; son of the late Joshua Folk; aged 34 years.

Mrs. Luther Brungart, of Salona, aged 57 years. The husband, two sons, Oliver B., of State College, and C. Edgar, of Salona; and three daughters, Mrs. Calvin Welfert and Mrs. Lawrence Davis, of Salona; and Mrs. Russell McClintick, of Mill Hill.

Mrs. Adesa Cox, wife of Grover H. Cox, passed away at her home in Tyrone, aged 47 years.

We Wonder.

People with long legs are leaner, says a scientist. Perhaps the girls are wearing short skirts to show their intelligence.

TO THE VOTERS OF CENTRE COUNTY:

I am taking this method to inform all interested voters of my candidacy for the office of Judge of our Courts at the coming September 15th, 1925 primaries upon the Democratic ticket; this announcement is made at this time and in this manner so that our friends will not be misled by false purposes and objects already being used to cause a division such as occurred ten years ago.

For your kindly consideration, influence and vote I respectfully submit the following principles that shall govern my conduct in office. If it be your pleasure that I should serve you in said office for one term. All attorneys and litigants shall be given an impartial, just and equal hearing, free from prejudice and malice, and all questions of creed, race or political preference shall be eliminated.

All laws and the liquor laws in particular, shall be impartially and conscientiously enforced for the better protection of our patriotic and law abiding citizens.

Respectfully submitted, J. KENNEDY JOHNSTON, April 28, 1925.
