A dead brown trout was taken from Honey Creek, at Yeagertown, that measured thirty-three inches in length. It was a monster. It had an eel hook in its jaw and was pretty badly decayed at least so much so that it was unfit for mounting.

The annual communion service was held in the Buffalo X-Roads Presbyterian Church on Sunday. The historic church was the scene of great activity. Among the speakers was Elder James H. Potter, of Bellefonte. Dr. Kleffer, of Lincoln University, was also an announced speaker.

D. K. Keller has been elected treasurer of the West Susquehanna Classis of the Reformed Church in the U. S., which met in annual session last week at Robersburg. The annual session of classis will meet at the Reformed church of Centre Hall, next year, beginning May 10, 7:45 P. M.

Mrs. Lizzie Smith, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Rumberger and daughter, Loraine, Johnston Steininger, of Harrisburg, Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. William A. Smith, Mrs. Edward Hartnett, of Montgomery, and Mrs. Russell Glass, of Man-ty, all close relatives of John Smith, whose body was interred in Heckman cemetery, Thursday afternoon of last week, were given lunch at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Smith, in Centre Hall.

REBERSBURG.

Beginning of last week the West Susquehanna Classis of the Eastern Synod of the Reformed church was held at this place and quite a number of ministers from a distance were here.

On Tuesday evening a reception was held in the Odd Fellows' hall in honor of the homecoming of Mrs. (Rev.) W. A. McClellan, who spent the past two months in the western part of the State among her children. A lap lunch was served. The affair was an enjoyable one.

Our road supervisor is placing a lot of crushed stone on the public roads in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Thurston Diehl, of Pittsburgh, and the former's mother, Mrs. Robert Diehl, of Millfinburg, spent several days visiting relatives in town.

During the electrical storm that passed over this region, Saturday evening, accompanied by rain and hail, lightning struck the spire of the school house and did some damage.

DAIRYING - AT HOME AND ABROAD

Amsterdam, Holland
Unloading Cheese Along the Canal at Amsterdam. Thousands of tons of Dutch cheese like those in the picture are consumed annually. A big percentage is exported. Holland is one of the most productive dairy countries, also considered, in the world. The most intensive and scientific methods are practiced. Cow testing associations are numerous.

Chile, South America
A South American Milkman. This picture was taken in Anaco, Chile Island, Chile. A can of milk slung on either side of a mule or some other native beast of burden and a quart measure, this milkman needs to serve his trade. The quart measure has soon had service. The lady customer wears an intent look—on the lookout for short measure.

Lewistown, N. Y., U. S. A.
This Cheese Gait Grinding at Lewistown, N. Y. It took 67,500 lbs. of milk to make it. They do things on a big scale in the U. S. A. You may be sure that it is good to eat too, because scientific methods, up-to-date housing facilities and complete sanitary measures all enter into the production of milk in America's greatest dairy State.

Seattle, Washington, U. S. A.
Segis Pasterizer Prospect, a Real Champion. Her home is on Carnation Milk Farms, Seattle, Washington, N. A. Brown, Manager, says: "We furnish scientific milk especially for babies. It is necessary to keep our cows in the very best of condition." Caring increases productive capacity and decreases bacterial count. Segis Pasterizer Prospect is one of a herd of 175 milk cows.

New Zealand
Early in the Morning the Milkman Arrives. Wellington, N. Z. Milk is all under the control of the City which has been inspected and certified by the Health Officer. The City buys the milk from the farmers and allows producers to sell it at a fixed price—no profiteering bars.

Antwerp, Belgium
The Lady Milkman Makes Her Daily Trip in Her Dog Chaise. In Belgium, you know, as well as in Holland, it is a very common thing to see a team of dogs hitched to a milk wagon, but usually the center of the team gives them a leading push. This lady must have been tired or she would surely have helped out her little team.

Distance Devouring Doctors.
A committee of doctors, appointed by the governor, has reported adversely to subsidizing rural physicians so that farming communities may be sure of prompt medical attendance. Time was when some such measure was desirable, observes the New York Herald. Too often the country doctor lost a race with death or with the stork because the ancient steed could not flounder further through rutty roads or drifted snowbanks. The automobile has made a difference. Not only does it far outstrip the old buckboard in speed, but its introduction has brought good roads in its wake. Few country districts in the state now are more than 15 minutes from the nearest. From the time that his telephone tinkles the emergency call until his hand is on the pulse of the patient he is doing 30 or 40 miles an hour, which the green cross on his car excuses in the eyes of the traffic policeman. A heroic and interesting figure in American life was the old, gray-whiskered family doctor urging Dobbin through miry ways at the call of duty. But he has gone, never to return.

Concrete for the Tornado.
If we were building a house in the country or in a rural community in those regions where tornadoes sweep with the greatest frequency and errancy, we should like to experiment in erecting a structure composed entirely of concrete. We have a notion that those whirling tempests peculiar to the Mississippi valley would find difficulty in yanking a concrete house loose and scattering it over the face of the country. Perhaps we have too much confidence in the poured house, and an able-bodied tornado could turn it completely over if it could not tear it to pieces, but we should like to see the building experiment tried. It is known, well enough, that a tornado makes no task at all of picking up a structure of timber and shaking it into fragments as a bulldog might do with a chicken. And the havoc once done in St. Louis and other towns and cities proves masonry is no great obstacle to this demon of the air. A solid concrete building might be the tornado's Waterloo.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Something Missing.
Having completed another Sahara picture in good old Hollywood, the producer invited a famous critic to have a private view, figuring that any favorable comment would make valuable advertising. As vast stretches of sand were reeled off the critic sat silent and the producer inferred that his friend was tremendously impressed. When the last exposure faded out, the producer, fishing for a compliment, ventured to suggest: "Plenty of sand, hey?" "Yes," replied the critic, "and I was surprised to see so much sand without any bathing girls."
