CHURCHES OF PRESIDENTS

various Denominations to Which the Heads of the American Nation Have Belonged.

Warren G. Harding is the first mem- ber of the Baptist church to be Presi- dent. Episcopalians have a plurality of White House residents. Eight Episcopalians have been President as against six Unitarians, six Presbyte- rians, four Methodists, two Reformed and one member of the Disciples of Christ.

In chronological order, Washington was an Episcopalian and John Adams a Unitarian. Jefferson is vaguely classified as a "liberal." While he at- tended the Episcopal church in the neighborhood of his home, sometimes joining in its communion, he was, nevertheless, intellectually a pro- nounced Unitarian.

Following Jefferson came two Epis- copalians, Madison and Monroe; then John Quincy Adams, a Unitarian, and after him the first of the six Presby- terians, Jackson. In order, there fol- lowed Van Buren, Reformed; William Henry Harrison and Tyler, Episco- palians; Polk, Presbyterian; Taylor, Episcopalian; Fillmore, Unitarian, Pierce, Episcopalian, and Buchanan, Presbyterian.

Lincoln is assigned by some author- ities to the Presbyterians, while others believe the Unitarians have a greater claim on him. He occasionally at- tended the Presbyterian church, al- though he was not a member.

Andrew Johnson is included among the Methodists, apparently being among those who are now described as "hav- ing their religion in their wives' names." Grant and Hayes were Meth- odists, and Garfield a member of the Disciples of Christ. Arthur was an Episcopalian, the last of a long line. The Presbyterians then had Cleveland, Benjamin Harrison and Cleveland again. McKinley was a Methodist. Then came Roosevelt, the second of the Reformed presidents, who was, however, a pillar in the Episcopal church in Oyster Bay. Taft was a Unitarian and Wilson a Presbyterian. —Kansas City Star.
