SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT
 By F. A. WALKER

THE SMILING HEART

YOU'LL know at a glance the man or woman who is on intimate terms of friendship with the smiling heart, though the face may be serene and undemonstrative, yet beaming with an unspoken gladness.

Lip-smiles have become mechanical, a mere outward show without meaning. Yet so it is: the tale-bearer smiles; the bandit smiles as he pokes you in the ribs with his gun, steals your last dollar and robs you of your sweetheart's picture.

But how different is the heart-smile, rich with unspoken words of love and truth.

The heart that smiles when everything goes wrong is the heart that is abounding in unsalubrious faith.

It is the heart that is unselfish; that is overflowing with sympathy; that is willing to face obstacles and go to any trouble to lift up the fallen and bind the wounds of the injured.

It is the smiling heart that builds a cheerful fire in the rusty stove of the poor man's hut and puts pleasant food upon his table; it is the smiling heart that finds warm beds for half-frozen children and comforts their despairing mothers; it is the smiling heart that is helping to bring about the redemption of the world and perhaps saving the worldlings from destruction.

If you could penetrate the depths of the smiling heart, you might discover that its loveliness came from the bitter valleys of sorrow.

Through its own experience, its own disappointment, its own tears it grew through the hard soil, sprouted and burst forth a beautiful flower, that the discouraged might see it and take heart again and move on toward the upward path.

The little bent old woman with a basket on her arm filled with food for the hungry is carrying with her outward evidence of nobility, a heart that radiates mercy, smiling like the noonday sun, which she cannot hide beneath her thread-worn cloak.

That is the heart-smile, with its lips that never lie and its eyes that never scorn.

Who at some period of his or her life does not need the comforting companionship of the smiling heart?

The smiling heart is the invisible link that binds this world to the world beyond, neglecting to fill its purse with gold, but filling the breasts of humanity with a love as bright as the stars and a hope eternal.

Among the NOTABLES

EDWARD BURNE-JONES

WHEN Sir Edward Burne-Jones was a growing boy at school he read the "Morte d'Arthur" and "Modern Painters," and these two books made an impression on him that lasted all his life.

Everyone is familiar with the paintings, "The Golden Stairs," "The Merciful Knight" and "Love Among the Ruins," all being widely reproduced. He had an unusual manner of painting, very pictorial and romantic, idealistic, as artists would say.

He was born August 28, 1833, near Birmingham, England. From the time he was a baby, mythology and classic tales interested him. At college he adopted Rossetti as his master, though he had not met that famous man. He knew little of draughtsmanship, but his wealth of pictorial detail made up for that. A trip to Italy, in company with Ruskin, did much to develop him.

His first "Love Among the Ruins" was a watercolor, which was utterly destroyed by a cleaner who thought it was an oil. So Burne-Jones worked it out again, this time in the more lasting medium of oil paints.

Of his own work, he said: "I mean,

THE SECRET OF HAPPINESS
 By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

IN SPITE of speeches, songs and swords, I have seen many men content. Red flags are waved, and red-hot words are hurled against the battlement of wealth entrenched, and kings are cursed—Yet kings there have been from the first. And wealth there will be, I opine Long after words of yours or mine.

Yet I have seen some happiness; And, strange to say, not always on The throne, nor always in the press That swept ahead when thrones were gone. Yes, even those who hate employed, And what they hated thus destroyed, And far ahead their banners bore, Seemed little happier than before.

So hate and envy are not all, I said, whatever flag's above, The very man who makes to fall, Would you be happy, you must love. Hate is the passion of an hour, But happiness is like a flower, That love must plant, and love must tend, And share its fragrance with a friend.

Yes, I have seen some men content, And they but little were concerned With kings, how others fortunes went, What others had or others earned. The secret of our happiness Is not a secret hard to guess: For happiness, I find, succeeds Not greater wealth, but simpler needs.

MRS. BORGELIN'S REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Gives Credit for Restored Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. All Women Interested

MRS. OSCAR F. BORGELIN
 FOREST CITY, IOWA

Forest City, Iowa.—"My first child lived only a short time and I was sick for a year after. When I bent over and raised myself up again I could almost scream with pain in my back. One day I was so bad that I had to leave my washing and get ready to go to the doctor. He gave me medicine, but it did no more good than if I drank just water. Once when we had been in town a little book telling about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was left in our car. I have taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound now and I do all my housework and help with the milking, and taking care of chickens and garden. Besides I have a fine baby girl eight months old, just the picture of health, and I am feeling fine myself. You may use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer any letters asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. OSCAR F. BORGELIN, Route No. 5, Forest City, Iowa.

A Bad Case of Nerves Relieved
 Denver, Colorado.—"I was very dependent, blue and sad all the time, which is worse than real pain, and extremely nervous, with no appetite. I was this way for about two years and thought no one cared for me. My mother had had the same trouble and had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for it. I tried everything else, then I began to take it. I soon had a better appetite and restored mental condition. I moved to a bright, sunny house, began calling on different people, and changed many other things. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash for my female weakness. With the aid of your medicines I am now a fairly healthy, happy and contented woman. I've used the Vegetable Compound at different times and will say it always helps me over the bad spells that come to every woman past 40 years."—Mrs. HELEN FINE, 35 South Washington Street, Denver, Colorado.

The Worst
 "How did you get on in your examination?"
 "I failed in mercantile law, canon law and international law."
 "That's bad!"
 "The worst is yet to come. I have to tell my mother-in-law!"

Two More Payments
 "Say, Mary, how much more do we owe the doctor?" asked an East side man of his wife.
 "Why, only $10," she replied.
 "Oh, goody," spoke up the oldest son. "In two more payments the baby is ours."

Your Last Name

IS IT VANE?

THIS name is said to be the same as Fane, or at least the two names had the same derivation. They are said to have come from the Welsh personal name Fane, meaning slender. A family of the name Fane or Vane were ancestors of the earls of Westmoreland, and this Vane or Fane family is said to have been descended from a Welshman named Howell ap Vane, of Monmouthshire, who lived and died before the time of William the Conqueror.

The most interesting person of the name Vane in this country's history was Sir Henry Vane, governor of Massachusetts, in 1636 and 1637. He was born in Hedlow, Kent, England, in 1612, so that he must have been governor when only about twenty-four. His father was Sir Henry Vane, controller of the household of Charles I of England. Sir Henry, the son, was a well educated man, having studied at Oxford and later having traveled extensively. He was sent to Vienna in 1691 with the English ambassador and later in Geneva he became a Puritan. Returning to England he found himself out of sympathy with the religious beliefs of the court party and accordingly came to the new world to find religious freedom.

He at once became prominent in affairs and then became governor. Soon he attached himself to the faction headed by Mrs. Ann Hutchinson and came into clash with the authorities, especially with Governor Winthrop, who succeeded Vane in office. He returned to England in 1640, where he became a member of parliament. The fees of his office amounted to thirty thousand pounds a year. This Vane regarded as excessive so he returned the amount to parliament. He was eventually executed by his political opponents on a charge of treason.

WALKER—An officer of the forest in old England who patrolled the forest on foot, walking, was called a walker. The name sometimes comes from this, sometimes from a word Wenleere, Anglo-Saxon for a fuller.

Mother's Cook Book

We shape ourselves, the joy, the fear, Of which the coming life is made, And fill our future's atmosphere With sunshine or with shade.

THE LUSCIOUS MELON

IF ONE has never preserved the hearts of pink watermelon they have something worth the trouble. Cut the centers from slices of watermelon and make balls, using a French potato cutter. Cover them with water in which a small piece or a bit of pulverized alum is dissolved and let stand overnight. Drain and in the morning drop into a thick hot sirup and just scald. Can at once. The melon balls keep their shape and color and are delightful for garnishing dishes in the winter when that color is hard to get.

When musk and watermelons are fresh and good cocktails are especially good.

Cantaloupe Cocktail.
 Cut the melon into balls with a potato scoop and fill serving glasses; add a few seeded white grapes, a little lemon sirup and garnish with a sprig of mint in the top of each glass.

In serving melon never place ice in the melon to chill it, as it destroys its flavor. And the most delicious melon may be ruined by being served unchilled. To chill a melon let it stand on ice or in a cold place long enough to become chilled before cutting it. If a large melon cut it and place near fire. Tasteless melons may be treated with a salad dressing, using oil and vinegar, with red pepper and a dash of lemon juice.

Another Cocktail.
 Cut the melon, a cantaloupe, into balls, six or eight to a glass, add a little diced pineapple, a slice or two of peaches and cover the whole with a thin sirup, using a little strawberry or cherry juice for flavor, and serve garnished with a cherry and one or two halves of white grapes.

A little nutmeg is liked with cantaloupe, and a little red pepper and more salt than usual in the dressing will be found agreeable.
