LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. Nannie Royer, of Altoona, is at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Shirk, in Centre Hall.

Mrs. (Rev.) Floyd A. Huff, of White Deer, since Saturday has been at the Mrs. Margaret Godshall home.

Miss Mary Byles, a Junior, and Miss Eva Bailey, a senior, at Penn State, spent their vacation at the home of the latter's mother, in Centre Hall.

Harry Hipple and Mr. Rorobaugh, both of Baltimore, Md., are on a hunting expedition in the Pine Glenn region, where the former lived during his youth.

William Bradford, of Phoenixville, as has long been his custom, came up here to join the Bradford clan on their annual hunt for deer in the Seven Mountains.

Mrs. Maria Wagner, one of the most aged ladies in Potter township, has been confined to bed for seven weeks at the home of a daughter, Mrs. William Bitner, at Tusseyville. Her condition at the best is very serious.

Mrs. Heckman, wife of Prof. W. O. Heckman, of Juniata, has been very seriously ill from congestion of the lungs. She was reported slightly better, on Monday, to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Rossman, at Tusseyville.

The girls of Gregg Township Vocational School will hold a bazaar at the school building, Saturday afternoon and evening, December 5th. They will display a variety of useful and pretty gifts, hand-tinted cards, candy, fruit cakes, etc.

Rev. E. R. Corman and friend, John Apple, both of Sunbury, are at the Fisher home in Centre Hall and are devoting the daylight hours to scouring the mountains for deer. Mr. Apple is interested in the Butter Crust Baking company, with plants at Sunbury and Williamsport. Mrs. Corman accompanied the gentlemen here and is staying at the parental home.

DEATHS.

RUNKLE.—After an illness extending over a long period, John Lee Runkle died at his home at Tusseyville on Wednesday of last week. Interment was made in the Tusseyville cemetery, and services were held by Rev. S. F. Greenhoe, pastor of the Lutheran church, of which denomination Mr. Runkle was long a member.

The deceased leaves two surviving sons—Laurence E. and Wilbur—the former living in Centre Hall and the latter at Tusseyville; also a wife, who before marriage was Miss Sarah Emerick.

Mr. Runkle spent most of his life on the farm. Prior to taking up that vocation he lived in Centre Hall and at one time drove stage and carried mail between Centre Hall and Spring Mills.

The deceased was a son of Samuel and Elizabeth (Lee) Runkle, and besides those mentioned above is survived by one brother, Howard S. His age was 72 years, 3 months and 28 days.

BOGDAN.—Frank Bogdan fell dead in his daughter's arms at his home near Potters Mills, on Monday noon. He had not been in good health for a year, owing to an affection of the heart, but his condition immediately prior to his death had not been unusual. He had partaken of a hearty meal and expired as noted above immediately after. His age was sixty-seven years, three months and 28 days. Interment was made this (Thursday) forenoon in Zion Hill cemetery, near Colyer, Rev. Huff being the officiating minister.

There survives the deceased a wife, a daughter—Mrs. Willis Jordan—and a grandson, Paul.

MILLWARD.—James G. Millward, of Osceola Mills, father of Frank Millward, of Pleasant Gap, died at the Methodist hospital in Philadelphia, after a prolonged illness from stomach trouble. Deceased was born near Osceola Mills close to 72 years ago. He was the eldest son of the late Joseph and Susanna Gearhart Millward. In early life he worked in the Osceola tannery, his occupation being a leather roller. In later years he took up carpentering and at the time of his death was a contractor and builder. He is survived by these children: Mrs. John Wilson and J. W., of Osceola Mills, and Frank D. of Pleasant Gap. The body was taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wilson, and services held from the Presbyterian church. Interment at Osceola.

WEAVER.—Mrs. James H. Weaver, one of the most respected citizens of Milesburg, died at her home after an illness of nearly eight months. Her maiden name was Alice M. Wagner, a daughter of John and Susanna Wagner, both deceased. She was born in Bellefonte and was aged 64 years, 3 months and 19 days. She was united in marriage with James H. Weaver in October, 1884, and was the mother of nine children. Margaret died in infancy, and eight are now living.

WHITE.—Jesse D. White, cashier of the Jersey Shore State bank, who was found in an unconscious condition due to pulmonary hemorrhages, and lying on the floor in the bank, was formerly in one of the State College banks. Death followed a few days after a collapse. He was aged forty-four years, a native of Tyrone, where the body was interred. A wife and three children survive.

Bellefonte Banker Dies.

Harry J. Jackson, one of Centre county's best known men, died at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning at his home in Bellefonte, following a nervous breakdown.

Mr. Jackson was aged sixty-seven years and had for several years preceding the closing of the Centre County bank three years ago, been president of the banking company. Prior to that time he was deputy sheriff of the county, and was an unsuccessful candidate for the office of register and recorder. During President Cleveland's first administration he was a clerk in the government service at Washington. He was acknowledged to be the most competent man in his line of work in Centre county.

He is survived by his widow and one sister, Miss Lydia Jackson. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon.

Keystone Power Corporation.

The Board of Directors of Keystone Power Corporation has declared quarterly dividend No. 14 of one and three-quarters (1 3/4 per cent.) per cent, covering the quarter ending Dec. 31st, 1925, payable on the 7 per cent. Preferred Capital Stock of the Company on January 2nd, 1926, to stockholders of record at the close of business on December 19th, 1925.

Kriske—Yoder.

Miss Mary V. Yoder, daughter of the late Rev. David L. and Jennie B. Yoder, 243 Fairfield avenue, and Benjamin F. Kriske, son of Alderman and Mrs. W. S. Kriske, all of Johnstown, were united in marriage by the Rev. F. D. Eilenberger at the Kriske home, 1288 Franklin street, a few days ago.

Clearfield Youth Fatally Shot.

Gilmore Force, sixteen, died Thursday morning as the result of a gunshot wound received earlier in the week, at Frenchville, Clearfield county. He was wounded when a gun in the hands of a companion was accidentally discharged.

U. S. to Buy Liberty Bonds.

The treasury is attempting for the first time in modern financing the experiment of dealing directly with the holders of government securities in the making of purchases of bonds for retirement from the sinking fund. Between now and December 10, the treasury announces, it will buy bonds of the third liberty loan up to $50,000,000. It will buy at the lowest prices offered, but will pay as high as $101.50 and accrued interest.

Under the plan the bondholder will deposit his security with a bank or trust company as the means of setting in motion machinery which will stop when the treasury's acceptance results in payment direct to the owner. Brokerage charges will thus be eliminated both for the security holder and for the treasury.

Patient at Jersey Shore Hospital.

After recovering from a complication of tonsillitis and quinsy, Mrs. B. E. Decker, of Spring Mills, was removed to the Jersey Shore hospital at which place she had her tonsils removed. The operation was successful and the patient is recovering nicely. Mrs. Decker contracted a bad cold while assisting her sister, Mrs. S. A. Moyer, who was ill for some time.

Saladang Absolutely Without Fear, and One of the Most Ferocious Beasts of the Jungle.

The saladang, or Malaysian buffalo, is the most dangerous animal on earth. So, at least, thinks Mr. Charles Mayer, the animal collector, who, writing in Asia, describes a thrilling experience that he once had in the jungle with one of the fierce brutes. He adds significantly that not one full-grown saladang has ever been captured alive.

"I found out, he says, where we intended to make camp when we heard a crashing ahead. "Saladangs!" screamed my Malay trackers and, dropping everything, jumped for the trees just as two of the brutes came charging down on us. I jumped backward and made for a tree, and as I pulled myself up I saw the bull saladang catch my gun bearer. All on his own and toss him. I slipped to the ground to get my rifle, which all had been carrying; but I had forgotten the steel animal, which instantly charged, dodged behind a tree just in time and as the beast rushed past slashed at her with my parang, and she charged bellowing into the jungle. Then the bull turned on me, but I swung up among the branches out of its reach.

I fired down at him repeatedly with my revolver, but the little bullets had no effect, and my rifle with its dynamic cartridges was on the ground. Night came on, but the saladang did not cease his watchful waiting. Meanwhile my thirst became terrible, and ants and mosquitoes swarmed over me. Morning came and wore away to noon, and still the beast made no move to depart.

Finally I called to my men, who were scattered through the trees near me, to join me, and they swung from limb to limb until we were together, with the saladang beneath us bellowing and pawing. Besides our parangs we had four spears and three knives. We cut some stout, straight branches from the trees and to them with strips torn from our sarongs bound the knives, which happily were poisoned in the Malay fashion. I knew that they could kill a man in a few minutes, but I was not sure what the effect would be on the large and powerful saladang.

We next dangled a bunch of leaves in front of the bull, provoking him to charge upon it, and whenever he came within reach we lunged at him with our knives and spears. After an hour the poison had seemingly not affected the bull in the least, and we were not situated so that we could give him a death wound.

Evening came on, and I was beginning to fear that we should have to spend another night in the tree, when I observed that the great beast was showing less fury. He began to sway upon his legs. After a little while he started to totter away. But his strength was going fast; his head drooped; then he went down on his knees, bellowing weakly. Presently his hind quarters slumped and blood began to flow from his mouth.

I dropped from my perch and, stepping quickly to where my rifle was lying, raised it and put him out of his misery. Even though he had routed us completely, had kept us treed and had killed my good friend and assistant Ali, I felt sorry for him. He had been victorious almost to the very last.—Youth's Companion.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR CENTRE COUNTY BANK

Judge Arthur C. Dale Names Receivers for Bank Which Closed Its Doors May 13, 1922, and Has Since Been in Process of Liquidation.

Judge Arthur C. Dale at 11 o'clock Monday morning appointed three receivers for the Centre County bank. They are: Rev. Reed O. Steeley, of Bellefonte; John S. Dale, of State College; and John S. Ginter, mayor of Tyrone. These receivers will, convert the assets of the banking company into cash, the total amount of which is estimated to reach $510,000, and will dispose of the cash as the claims are proven.

The judge also appointed Lewis S. Schad and D. A. Grove, appraisers of the bank, to make an appraisal of the assets before the receivers begin their work.

This bank closed May 13, 1922, and has been in process of liquidation ever since. This appointment was the result of a petition circulated by Geo. R. Meek, one of the alleged partners of the bank, whose status in the case has not yet been determined. He has opposed every move for settlement so far, carrying the case even as far as the United States Supreme Court.

His petition was vigorously opposed by the depositors' committee of the bank, who desired the appointment of one receiver, to eliminate the possibility of a deadlock, which might delay settlement. Over 1,500 depositors are directly interested in the bank, and the entire proceedings are being watched throughout Centre county.

Monster Gobblers Killed.

Two monster wild turkey gobblers were killed on Nittany Mountain on Friday of last week by Samuel Ross and Claude McClintic, both of Linden Hall. Aside from being of large proportions the birds were beautifully plumed, and the smaller one had a beard measuring eleven inches. The bird killed by Mr. Ross weighed 18 1/2 pounds and that killed by Mr. McClintic 17 1/2 pounds.

The Skylark

The skylark is to me the most wonderful bird in the world, because there is no sense but just rare beauty to his way of singing. Like some mad spirit, some blithe bird soul, he flies in ever widening circles towards the heavens, singing as he climbs higher and higher until you swear his very throat would burst. Then when he is only a flashing speck away up almost out of sight, he dives like a graceful monoplane, trailing his pure joy, wild with life, mad with abandon in the exotic nonsense of his feat. Suddenly he checks his fantastic drop and then, as softly as a leaf floating downward in a gentle breeze, he glides to earth—and his song is ended.—Frazier Hunt, in Hearst's International Cosmopolitan.

Monkeys as Pets

Monkeys are natives of warm climates and cannot endure a low temperature, therefore they should be provided with heated quarters, at least during cold weather. If the animal is to be confined continually the cage should not be less than four feet in each dimension. The cage should be entirely light with only the front wire—thus preventing draughts which are fatal to these animals. The following is prescribed as a diet: Vegetables raw or cooked; boiled rice, ripe fruit—bananas, oranges, sweet apples; stale bread, occasionally a bit of well cooked chicken, fresh milk to which raw egg has been added; water should be provided at all times.—Washington Star.
