

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

William H. Keller and James H. Smetzler, two aged residents who had been rather seriously ill for some time, are both improving.

All the snow was cleaned from the front of the Boozer place of business, making almost a block from which snow was removed for the public's convenience.

Mrs. Anna Harrison, of Centre Hall, is taking the place of Mrs. McCargie, one of the public school teachers at Pleasant Gap. The latter is quarantined, one of her daughters being stricken with scarlet fever.

F. E. Wieland, of Linden Hall, informs the Reporter that his brother, Edwin K. Wieland, of Scotts Bluffs, Nebraska, is very seriously ill, with small hope being entertained for his recovery. He is a native of this section.

The snow banks to the front of the First National bank, Reporter office, post office, Homan restaurant, Bartholomew home and the Homan garage were hauled away to make better accommodations for parking cars in those sections.

Andrew Hironimus moved his family to the McClenahan property, on Church street, vacated by the McClenahans. Mr. Hironimus came here from Coburn to be employed by the Sheffield Farms Co. plant now under construction.

The Presbyterians of Centre Hall will begin their evangelistic campaign on Monday evening. The Rev. Harold S. Laird, minister of the First Presbyterian church of Lewistown, will do the pulpit work. The congregation extends a welcome to this community and an invitation to attend. Rev. Laird is one of the leading preachers of the Huntingdon Presbytery.

Clayton Musser, who for several years has tenanted the L. R. Lingie farm at Earlstown, and his son, Stewart Musser, living nearby on the Edward Durst farm, have leased the farm owned by West Tate, close by the Pleasant Gap railroad station, and will move onto it next spring. Willis Breon, now tenant on the Dr. Frank farm, west of Millheim, will follow the junior Mr. Musser. Mr. Breon formerly lived on the Charles A. Krapp farm, east of town, and is well and favorably known here.

The Centre Reporter and the Millheim Journal, both outgrowths of the Centre Berichter, published in Aaronsburg, have the distinction of attaining their one hundredth anniversary. Since published in Centre Hall, beginning in 1868, The Centre Reporter ownership has changed hands but twice, the last change being due to the admission of the present manager to the firm. The paper passed from the founder, the late Frederick Kurtz, to the writer, in 1900. While this is an old sheet it is neither musty nor stale.

MINISTERIAL RELIEF MEETINGS

Reformed Church in America Making Its First, Real, Organized, Church-wide Effort for This Purpose—Two Meetings in West Susquehanna Classis.

J. F. Wetzel, principal of the Centre Hall High school, Chairman of West Susquehanna Classis for the campaign for Ministerial Relief of the Reformed Church, held a meeting of church chairmen, pastors and other church leaders at Centre Hall, yesterday (Wednesday) evening, in the Reformed church. This meeting was for those living in the lower part of Classis. Mr. Wetzel has also called a meeting of church chairmen, pastors and church leaders for Saturday, January 15th, at 2:00 p. m., in the Reformed church at Selinsgrove, for those living in the upper part of Classis.

These meetings are two of scores of similar meetings being held all over the Reformed Church in America this week in the interest of Ministerial Relief. This is the first real, organized, Church-wide effort ever made by the Reformed church specifically in behalf of its aged and disabled ministers and their widows. Consequently, it is a matter of supreme importance and concern to every Reformed church member throughout the United States. It is expected that these two meetings in West Susquehanna Classis will be the largest and most representative gatherings of Reformed churchmen and clergy ever held in this territory.

Mr. Wetzel says the organization of this Classis is completed. The organization to date follows: J. F. Wetzel, Classis chairman; Rev. D. R. Koener, Centre Hall, associate Classis chairman. A partial list of church chairmen follows: A. D. Miller, Lewisburg; George Bennage, West Milton; Mrs. Caroline High, White Deer; J. B. Spangler, Beaver Springs; Charles Coleman, Beavertown; Victor Musser, Troxelville; Warren McLaughlin, McClure; Lester Klins, Ralph Baker, McClure; Charles S. Zeller, Lewisburg; W. O. Maurer, Windfield; M. M. Shively, Millburg; George E. Meyer, Boalsburg; Jacob D. Neidigh, State College; Alfred L. Bowersox, Pine Grove Mills; C. M. Sanders, Vicksburg; Haven Lukeris, Hartleton; A. S. Hassinger, Laureton; C. J. Stover, Woodward; M. E. Stover, Coburn; John Boob, Millheim; John Winkiebich, Aaronsburg.

Pastors: W. R. Rittenhouse, Williamsport; Wm. E. Harr, Lock Haven; H. A. Hartman, Hubersburg; Roy Moorehead, Montgomery; H. H. Rupp, Lewisburg; J. F. B. Griesemer, Selinsgrove; R. Ira Cass, West Milton; Edw. H. Zechman, Beaver Springs; W. C. Slough, New Berlin; W. A. McClellan, Rebersburg; Edwin H. Romig, State College; Frederick A. Ruple, Lewisburg; Wm. S. Gerhard, Freeburg; W. E. Reifsnnyder, Middleburg; W. W. Moyer, Boalsburg.

LEGISLATURE IN EXTRA SESSION

First Time in Twenty Years That Body Is Called Out of Regular Order.

The first extra session of the Pennsylvania Legislature called in twenty years was convened at Harrisburg yesterday (Wednesday) at 2:00 P. M.

Without a supplemental call listing other subjects, which the Governor has given no indication of issuing, the General Assembly must confine itself to legislation of the eight matters indicated in the next paragraph. After the opening of the session even the Governor can add nothing.

The subjects named are: Election law reforms, anthracite, prohibition enforcement, grant power, tolls on the Philadelphia-Camden bridge, banking laws, collection of State gasoline tax and the New York-New Jersey-Pennsylvania compact to regulate the waters of the Delaware River.

All vacancies that existed when the Governor issued his call have been filled by special elections. As a result there will be five new members in the House, three from Allegheny county and one each from Clearfield and Delaware. All are Republicans. They are Luke Sullivan, Samuel J. Grenet and Frank J. Riddle, Allegheny; John H. Patchin, Clearfield, and Edward Nothnagle, Delaware.

No changes in the organization of the Legislature will be necessary, all the officers of the 1925 regular session holding over, and, as a result, little delay is expected in getting down to the actual business scheduled.

Only 5 on Driver's Seat, Boys.

Riding more than three in the driver's seat of an automobile is dangerous in Pennsylvania, according to an order issued at the State Highway Department to the Highway Patrol to break up that form of transportation. Information against persons violating that rule will be made and the patrolmen have also been instructed that riding on hoods, running boards and other places not meant for seats must stop, along with four in the driver's seat.

PINCHOT TAKES CARE OF DALE

Creates Office With $6000 Salary Attached for His Defeated Ward.

Former Judge Arthur C. Dale is on a $6000 per year salary as special counsel of the Sanitary Waters Board. The office was created by Governor Pinchot for the special purpose of taking care of his Centre county ward, who was his appointee on the Centre county court bench, later nominated for the office of judge by 105 Prohibitionists, and later defeated at the general election. The office will hold during the tenure of the present governor.

The appointment is of such a character that it will not require the personal attention all the time of the former Judge, and this will give him an opportunity to practice his profession in Centre county as heretofore. It is understood he will continue to live in Bellefonte.

On Friday the three jury commissioners will draw jurors for the February court to open on February 22, for two weeks. For the first week forty-eight jurors will be drawn and for the second week but forty. During most of the time Judge Quigley and Judge Love were on the bench but one jury was drawn, and this was held over for a second week, if necessary.

Morris Decker, of Dayton, Ohio, was in the valley last week, guest of his brothers and other relatives and friends. He is engaged as a salesman for a large cutlery firm in Dayton.

The local Y. P. B. W. C. T. U., which means the Young People's Branch of this Woman's Christian Temperance Union, some forty in number, boys and girls, held a meeting in the High school building Monday evening that was counted by their leader, Mrs. F. V. Goodhart, and others long interested in the work, to have been one of the most enthusiastic ever held by the organization. The program, which was both instructive and entertaining, showed great originality on the part of the youths. The enlisting of boys and girls in this kind of work will have much to do with making prohibition the success everyone in his inner soul wants it to be.

Bids will be opened February 5 for 26,549 feet of road between Snow Shoe and Kylertown. The contract includes grading and drainage. The bids for the four and one-half miles of road from Millroy to the Millheim-Centre county line on Long Mountain, Seven Mountains, will be opened February 20.
