

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

George Ishler is ill at his home near Centre Hall, suffering from pneumonia.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson will speak in the Presbyterian church, Bellefonte, Wednesday evening of next week.

The town has no fire alarm. Must we wait until a disastrous fire takes half the town before we awake to its need?

Jacob Sharer, Jr., and Mrs. Sharer take this means of thanking friends for sympathy and kindnesses shown during their recent bereavement.

James I. Fetterolf sold a Star coach to Albert Gill, of Pleasant Gap, and a Star touring car to Harry Walker, of Milesburg, during the past week.

Dr. Raymond J. Miller, who is now on the Penn State faculty, was a guest over Sunday of Mrs. Kate Saunders, his mother-in-law, in Centre Hall.

Samuel J. Detwiler and Leland Hess, both of Benton, Columbia county, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Floray, of near Centre Hall.

Jacob Sharer purchased a Jewett demonstration car, a touring type with winter inclosure, from the Hagan Paige-Jewett company, Bellefonte.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Potter, Monday forenoon. She has been named Barbara Ann. The proud father is receiving congratulations with the customary dignity.

Samuel M. Goodhart and son Franklin, on Monday morning, completely smashed their car by going over a steep embankment while going from their home to the heart of the city (Johnstown). Neither of the occupants of the car was hurt.

Tuesday morning Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Colyer went to Harrisburg for a few days. They will be entertained by Mrs. Colyer's brother, Clarence F. Helm, formerly of Spring Mills. While in the State capital the chief attraction will be the agricultural show in progress there.

The cow sale at the Mitterling barn, Centre Hall, on the 21st inst., by T. E. Jodan, has been recalled. Mr. Jodan was in Wisconsin, purchased a lot of fresh cows with calves by their side, and in shipping had some mishap, so that on reaching Pittsburgh the lot was disposed of.

H. H. Russell, of Williamsport, superintendent of the Williamsport division of the Pennsy, together with minor officials, made an inspection tour over the division, on Monday. The officials traveled in a special train. At Centre Hall station W. F. Bradford laid before the officials needed improvements at the station.

C. F. Deinger is seriously ill in a Harrisburg hospital where he was taken the latter part of last week. Mr. Deinger, who is a local resident, is employed in the office of the State Employment Bureau. His sisters, Mrs. Lucy Henney, of Centre Hall, and Mrs. James E. Stewart, of New Bloomfield, visited him the beginning of this week.

Mrs. Lanson Burris at her home in Centre Hall, on Friday evening, entertained Junior Class No. 4 in the Methodist Sunday school. The class is composed of fifteen members—boys and girls. Mrs. Burris, who is teacher of the class, had prepared a program which was executed from 8:00 to 9:00 o'clock, and later refreshments were served.

On Tuesday Messrs. C. A. Spyster, E. W. Crawford and C. W. Slack, representing the local order of Odd Fellows, went to Milroy and brought back with them John R. Strong, long a member of the order, who has been in delicate health for some time. On Thursday, Mr. Slack will accompany Mr. Strong to the home for aged Odd Fellows at Grove City, in Mercer county, making the trip by train.

While in Bellefonte visit the Scenic and Moose Theatres, where the better class photoplays are shown at all times, and you will not be disappointed at any time. Watch this paper for announcements of the Bigger and Better Shows that are booked for later showings. Here are just a few of them: "The Johnstown Flood"; "The Vanishing American"; "The Wanderer"; "Behind the Front"; "The Manquin"; "The American Venus."

Just before Christmas an afghan knitted by the local W. C. T. U. was sent to Fortress Monroe, Virginia, National Soldiers' Home Hospital, requested to be presented to a particular invalid visited previously by Miss Rebecca Rhoads, head of the county organization. The young veteran is unable to speak and for two years has been at the home, where he must be lifted, turned and fed by attendants. He was not able to speak in words, but gently pressed the hand that gave him the covering in recognition of the gift. There are many such cases who could be made happier by acts such as that noted here by the W. C. T. U.

POTTERS MILLS.

Mrs. J. G. Boal spent a few days at the home of Edward Loughner, at Sprucetown.

Mrs. Wm. Blaiser has gone to Milesburg to stay with her niece for an indefinite period of time.

Mrs. George McCormick spent last Friday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Mingle, at Aaronsburg.

Adam Kimpfort, of Altoona, spent the week-end at the J. W. Slack home.

Boyd Smith, Mrs. J. M. Carson, Mrs. E. B. Palmer, Mrs. Frank Smith and Miss Amelia Copenhaver, all who had been housed up with bad colds, are able to be out again.

Mrs. Musser, of Bellefonte, who had gone home for a week, has returned to the J. W. Slack home to help care for her sister, Mrs. Annie Slack.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Miller spent Friday at the home of their son, Charles, at Centre Hall. Mrs. Miller helped her daughter-in-law to do quilting.

BOALSBURG.

On next Sunday, Rev. W. W. Moyer, of the Reformed church here and Rev. D. R. Keener, of Centre Hall, will exchange pulpits. Rev. Keener will preach here at 10:30 in the morning, and at Houserville at 2:30. Come and enjoy these services.

The L. O. O. F. banquet last Thursday evening was of a different nature than former banquets. The supper was served by the Ladies' Bible class of the Lutheran S. S. at a charge of 75 cents. Several of the musicians of the Order with the assistance of Miss Mary Hazel, pianist, and Wm. Sweet with his saxophone, furnished orchestra music for the evening. 106 plates were served. All present had a jolly good time.

S. R. Rishel, the tire vulcanizer, spent the time over Sunday with his brother and sister, in Altoona.

A surprise party was given Mrs. Hazel Meyer on Monday evening, which was her birthday. In the morning she went to the home of her sister, Dorothy Weaver, State College, to spend the day, and in the evening her husband went to the Weaver home for supper too, and while the Meyer family were away from their home a party consisting of Bear Meadow Comd. Knights of Malta and their wives took possession of the home, and gave Mrs. Meyer a hearty welcome home when she returned at about 8:15. She confessed she was completely surprised. The evening was spent in games of an enlivening nature. There were 42 persons present to enjoy the occasion. Soon after midnight the party left wishing Mrs. Meyer many more such happy birthdays.

"MERRY WIDOW" FINE ROMANTIC COMEDY-DRAMA

Unusual Tale of European Court Life Relieved and Heightened by Sparking Humor—Coming to Scenic Theatre Next Week.

"The Merry Widow," is an exhilarating as champagne, its beauty breathtaking, and its drama not relieved but intensified by the most human comedy ever seen on the screen.

Von Stroheim has produced in "The Merry Widow" a milestone in screen entertainment. The picture has all the Continental men of his "Foolish Wives," all the realism for which he is noted, and a sense of humor which is delightful.

Mae Murray, always a favorite, has doubled her claim to immortality in the hearts of picture-goers, by her portrayal of the title role. While Mae Murray has always been considered a vital personality and a capable actress, as the 'Merry Widow' she rises to emotional heights that have seldom been equaled on the screen. She lends to the role all the charm for which the part has so long been remembered, and gives it her own personality.

John Gilbert plays 'Prince Danilo' with the dash and vivacity which is rarely responsible for his sudden rise in popular favor. This part will probably make him one of the most popular stars on the screen. Seldom is there such a happy combination of acting ability, personality, and masculine handsomeness as this man possesses. Under the direction of von Stroheim, he makes 'Danilo' a happy-go-lucky devil with the women sort of fellow, and always manages to hold the sympathy of his audience.

'Roy' D'Arcy, a newcomer to the screen, plays the villainous 'Crown Prince,' and makes him a thoroughly detestable personage. Every member of the cast, including Tully Marshall as the 'Baron Sadaqa' a symbol of Europe's slowly decaying aristocracy, George Fawcett and Josephine Crowell as the 'King' and 'Queen' of Montebianco give performances that defy criticism in their perfection.

Interest in the story never for a moment lags, each successive scene remaining in the writer's memory, but the most indelible impression is made, as it was in the famous stage play.

by the unforgettable 'Merry Widow Waltz.'

While the story is practically carried by the six people mentioned, the minor characters are never submerged to the point of losing their identity, and even the thousands of people in the many big scenes in the picture do not act as the conventional mob, merely filling up space, but they seem to be an essential part of the development of the plot.

If you would see the finest in screen entertainment, and one of the most artistically beautiful pictures ever produced, don't miss 'The Merry Widow.'

"The Merry Widow" will be shown at the Scenic Theatre in Bellefonte, where the Best Class Photoplays are shown, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, January 22, 23 and 24, with admittance daily at 2:30 P. M. The admittance for all engagements will be: Children, 20c; adults, 35c. Come early and avoid standing in line.
